

Tenth Grade

Reading Experiences Summary:

By the end of the school year, 9th-10th grade students will read and comprehend literary and informational texts that are at or above grade level. Because each reader brings different skills and background knowledge to the act of reading, a text that is 'complex' for one reader may be accessible to a peer in the same classroom. For this reason, educators should provide scaffolding and support as needed to allow all students to access grade-level texts.

Frequently Read Literature:

Animal Farm by George Orwell

The Catcher in the Rye by J.D. Salinger

Much Ado About Nothing by Shakespeare

12 Angry Men by Reginal Rose

"The Yellow Wallpaper" by Charlotte Perkins Gilman

"The Scarlet Ibis" by James Hurst

"Lamb to the Slaughter" by Roald Dahl

"The Cask of Amontillado" by Edgar Allan Poe

*It should be noted that this information was taken from the Literacy Continuum and may not reflect ALL book choices due to teacher choice, standard changes, and programmatic needs.

