

Addition Fact Websites

<http://illuminations.nctm.org/ActivityDetail.aspx?ID=75>

For children beginning to build addition fact skills, this activity helps them to visualize the addition fact on a ten frame.

<http://illuminations.nctm.org/ActivityDetail.aspx?ID=198>

This interactive game called "How many under the shell?" allows children to practice addition by visually seeing a set and some more added to the set.

www.aplusmath.com

This site contains several games that can be played using addition facts including Matho, concentration, hidden pictures and planet blaster. To work on addition facts, set for easy version or set numbers on game as 0 to 9.

Matho can be purchased as an AP for Androids for I-phones/ I-touches.

www.mathplayground.com

This site contains several games that can be played in the "Stay Sharp! Arcade." In the "Just for Facts" section, children can challenge themselves against the clock to complete flashcards.

www.fun4thebrain.com/addition.html

This site contains many games that can be played to practice addition facts.

<http://www.funbrain.com/math/index.html>

This game allows you to practice addition facts as you play a game of baseball.

<http://www.funbrain.com/tictactoe/index.html>

In this game, you practice addition facts as you play a game of tic-tac-toe with the computer.

<http://illuminations.nctm.org/ActivityDetail.aspx?ID=207>

This game called "Deep Sea Dual" challenges children to add cards to a specified sum before the octopus does.