

Biography Point of View Analysis

- 1) Open up your Biography Assignment on the computer – flash drive, GoogleDocs, etc.
- 2) Create a space on your last page at the end of your Bio for a Biography POV Analysis.
- 3) Answer the prompt below to the best of your ability in that space. You have all period. Remember that the prompt below is part of your final grade on the Biography – go deep, proofread, and don't rush. See requirements on rubric.
- 4) Save your work when you're done.
- 5) Upload this assignment to Turnitin.com by the end of class. Submit your printed final draft, interview notes, and rubric when you're all done.

Writing Prompt:

Reread the Biography you wrote and analyze the point of view the story is told from (yours!). Helping questions:

- How does your point of view affect the writing choices you made?
- How did your perspective on your subject/person affect the way you portrayed him or her to the reader?
- How does the relationship you have with this person affect the tone of voice you used? The information you chose to share or keep hidden? The questions you asked or didn't ask during the interview?

Biography Point of View Analysis

- 6) Open up your Biography Assignment on the computer – flash drive, GoogleDocs, etc.
- 7) Create a space on your last page at the end of your Bio for a Biography POV Analysis.
- 8) Answer the prompt below to the best of your ability in that space. You have all period. Remember that the prompt below is part of your final grade on the Biography – go deep, proofread, and don't rush. See requirements on rubric.
- 9) Save your work when you're done.
- 10) Upload this assignment to Turnitin.com by the end of class. Submit your printed final draft, interview notes, and rubric when you're all done.

Writing Prompt:

Reread the Biography you wrote and analyze the point of view the story is told from (yours!). Helping questions:

- How does your point of view affect the writing choices you made?
- How did your perspective on your subject/person affect the way you portrayed him or her to the reader?
- How does the relationship you have with this person affect the tone of voice you used? The information you chose to share or keep hidden? The questions you asked or didn't ask during the interview?