Future Business Leaders of America

“I’m a junior at Indiana University majoring in Informatics and Computer Science. The web design class I took during my time at Simsbury High allowed me to learn the skills to build professional web platforms. This gave me an edge when learning to build apps that eventually led to internships at the 3rd largest social network (Tumblr) and Microsoft.

The skills and critical thinking methods gained in this class allowed me to be able to lead teams of incredible developers and programmers (who are much older than me) to create new products. Looking back, this class was the first step to working with the most influential and innovative companies and people in the world!”

“I attribute my success at Bentley to the solid foundation provided by my Simsbury High School business classes. I look forward to my career at UTC upon graduation in May and the opportunity to give back by mentoring students in the SHS Future Business Leaders of America Chapter.”
