

English Showcase

Goldman

Slides 3-5 AP Language Play-Doh Revision Workshop.

Slides 6-7 English 11 Dream Poetry

BEFORE

AFTER

S: I substituted by replacing the pencil with pen.

T: I took out the unnecessary pencil/pen marks for a cleaner look

A: I added a thunderstorm, light streaks coming from the lightbulb, vines webbing out of the flowers, and small dots, for aesthetic.

R: I first did the vines all going up, but then i erased and redrew them to grow in all directions.

Name: Eureka Sang

S.T.A.R.

BEFORE

Yellow Rose

- ★ S: Took off the circular edges (pedals) and replaced it with a thinner and sharper one
- ★ T: I take out a clump of circle at the center, as well as the base, to make it look flatter and more circular.
- ★ A: I added some orange speck in the center of the flower
- ★ R: I thinned out the pedals a little more in order to expand the flower, making it look bigger

AFTER

Yellow Camellia Flower

Ayzhanae DeBose

an art gallery

"Doggo" A.D.
(Before)

- S: I substituted the kind of dog that I made. At first it was a ratty chihuahua and now it's a pug
- T: I got rid of the oversized nose and ears
- A: I added a body, tail, and facial features
- R: I rearranged the colors on the dog, switching the ears from mostly blue to all pink and making the tail blue

"Teresa the Pug" A.D.
(After)

Dreams of the World

What happens to a dream decimated?

Does it die slowly?

Like a fish out of water?

Or dies quickly like a fire put out with water

And then all that is left is smoke?

Does it smile kindly like a loving mother?

Or spits fire towards your way

Like a fiery devil that came and went?

Maybe it sings

Like a nymph by a clear lake.

Or does it make the world muted and grey?

By: Alexandra Osadchik

Title poem- 2020

By: America Soria

What happens to a dream destroyed?

Does it perish?

Like ashes that have fallen into the ocean?

Or explode like a bomb

That then fuels the world with flames?

Does it get crushed like a soda can under someone's foot?

Or get swept under the carpet

Like meaningless specs of dust?

Maybe it evaporates

Like water on the pavement when it's 100 degrees.

Or does a new one grow under the soil after the flames died?

