

11.1

Name: _____

Date: _____

Reading Extended Metaphors

When a writer's metaphor continues for more than one sentence of a story or more than one line of a poem, it is called an extended metaphor.

Carl Sandburg's poem "Fog" uses an extended metaphor to compare the fog to a cat. Using the poem as a reference, complete the following chart to show the different parts of Sandburg's extended metaphor.

Words from poem	How this might describe a cat	How this might describe fog