A large rectangular area with a brown background and horizontal lines, intended for writing a poem. The area is framed by four white corner tabs.

If you finish with time remaining, read back over your poem. Make sure to give it a title. Then think about all the tools you have been given in this unit for reading poetry. Is there someone you know who might enjoy reading poetry, too? Maybe you could give them a copy of this poem as a way to inspire or encourage them.
