Reading “Ask Aden” and Alliteration

1. The speaker of the poem has chosen a subject in each line. What do all of the subjects have in common?

2. Why might this person be asking all these questions?

3. Look at the letters you typed by each line of the poem. Now type in the chart below five new letters of the alphabet, making sure not to repeat the ones you typed by the lines of the poem. Then fill in the chart, making sure that each word you use starts with the letter on its line. The first line shows an example from Mullen’s poem.
