

hate each other, hate
the ball, hate the hoop,
hate the fallen snow,
hate our clumsy hands,
hate our thirsty mouths

when we drink from the fountain. We hate our fathers. We hate our mothers. We hate
the face in our mirror.

We play basketball
because we want to separate love from hate, and because we know how to keep score.

