My name is Leo Li. I am 7 years old. I am a 2nd grader at Argonaut. I have a big brother and a big sister. I like my family, and I like Chocolate Milk and oranges, and mangos. I like playing with I/O blocks and listening to audio books, such as The legend of Big Foot, and Ninja Science. I also like running and playing basketball.

Poem:

I am a snowman

I live in an igloo with an icebed

Three round snowballs

Ice-white

My hands made of maple sticks

I have a pointy carrot nose

Big trunk and small head

I wear a hat

A scarf and a white coat with black buttons

I am a happy snowman

With a big smile

I am a sad snowman

Without feet

My only wish is

To not melt away

About the Poem:

I saw snowman in books and I always wanted to build a snowman. Snowman looks nice, puffy and feels cold. It was familiar to me and I liked to write about a familiar cute snowman. I liked to feel happy so I wrote about a happy snowman, and I wondered if the snowman had feet, what would it look like? It must be sad if it didn't have feet and couldn't move. And the snowman didn't want to disappear if it melted away and no one would remember it, because it wanted to stay forever!
