A New Ball Game

- 0 On the first day of school, Roy's teacher asked him to write a letter 14 about himself. Roy was glad to have the chance to talk about his life in 29 Africa. Roy had been born in the United States, but his family had lived 43 in a small town in Africa for three years. Now his family had moved 57 back to the United States. 62 Roy's stepmom was a doctor. That afternoon 180 as he was leaving, his teacher called him over. Another boy was standing 193 next to her. "Roy, this is Spencer," his teacher said. "He's going to 206 introduce you to the soccer team. I think you'll enjoy it." 217 Spencer smiled at Roy and led him outside to the field, where a 230 group of kids were playing. Strawberry Festival Day

At the strawberry festival, Tessa stood between her stepmom and her dad. The parade was starting. Looking down the street, Tessa was startled by one of the floats. “That’s the biggest cake I’ve ever seen!” she exclaimed.

“I know,” her stepmom answered. “I’ve been coming to this strawberry festival since I was your age. Every year, people use the berries they grow here. They work together to make a huge strawberry shortcake. It’s always the first thing in the parade. The best part comes after the parade. That’s when everyone at the festival gets to eat it!”

When the parade was over, Tessa and her parents made their way to the line for a piece of the giant strawberry shortcake. Tessa’s mouth watered as she wondered what the cake would taste like. Tessa’s stepmom stood in line and got them each a helping of the cake. “This is delicious,” Tessa said as she ate it.

After they finished the cake, they walked around for a long time. They stopped and listened to a band in the park, and then rode a few rides. As the sun began to set, Tessa got her face painted. She smiled as she looked in the mirror at the bright red strawberry on her cheek.

Tessa took her dad’s hand, and with her other hand, she reached for her stepmom. They both held Tessa’s hands tightly and smiled at her. They looked up at the fireworks that lit the dark sky. It was a beautiful ending to a great day.
