No identification or registration is required to attend a summer food site. Please note that information on summer dining sites changes frequently. Therefore, visit this site regularly to find updated information. Summer dining sites are listed only during the period they are open. Once the site stops operating during the summer, it will no longer appear on the map.

For more information, or to find other food resources, call the Colorado Hunger Free and Bilingual Hotline at (855) 855-4626 or text "FOOD" at 877-877.

The Summer Food Service Program, funded by the USDA, helps schools and community-based sites like churches and recreation centers offer free meals to kids and teens up to 18 years old throughout the summer. Many Colorado sites also offer engaging activities.
