

What is Ameritowne? By Luke

Ameritowne is a field trip students get to do in fifth grade. Fifth graders in the Grand Valley get to do Ameritowne after they do the workbook.

When the fifth grade finishes this workbook, they go to Ameritowne. What they do there is they get jobs and they get to do the jobs and try to earn a profit for their store while they are there.

At the beginning of the day, there will be the opening ceremonies where the mayor gives a speech. Then he/she will get to cut a ribbon to have Ameritowne officially open.

Then, everyone rushes off to work.

Then there will be a lunch break where everyone goes to town square. During that time, the TV station will show their commercials they took of the stores so it will encourage people to buy their products. Then, the fifth graders will go back to work for 45 more minutes. Then, the mayor will hand out “The Store of the Day” to the best store voted by the citizens. When you get back to school, the awards will be handed out to the people of Ameritowne for the stamp contests.
