TGB Politics- DACA

Forum

By T. Dao

- On Thursday, September 21, 2017, Trevor G. Browne High School held a DACA forum in the community room from 6:00-7:30PM. An attorney was present, and people were welcome to ask any questions they had. Parents of students came and shared their stories in the hopes that they could find help for their families. More resources and information were provided. It was an informational session meant to help students that may be affected by the termination of the DACA program, even if it was only a few people that came. It also sought to educate other attendants. It is encouraged that members of our community learn about what is happening even if it does not directly affect them. Be on the lookout for future forums. Thanks go out to The Spanish Club, Spanish Honors Society, Folklórico Aztlán, and the Center for Neighborhood Leadership program, who arranged the forum.

How does DACA affect my other legal papers?

- Requests and Renewals
- No new DACA applications will be accepted.
- If your DACA permit expired before September 5th and you did not apply for a renewal before that date, you can no longer do so.
- You can request a renewal of your DACA permit only if ends between September 5, 2017 and March 5, 2018.
- No renewal applications will be accepted after October 5th.
- You cannot request a renewal if your DACA expires after March 5, 2018.
- Social Security Number
- Your social security number is given to you for life, and it remains even once your work permit expires and the DACA program ends. It cannot be cancelled, changed, or taken away from you under just those circumstances.
- Driver's Licenses
- All DACA recipients are permitted driver's licenses, but the state criteria on them varies. In Arizona, the expiration date of the driver's license corresponds with that of the DACA permit's.
- Work Permits
- Your employer can not fire you because of the announcement, or because they believe DACA will end later anyhow.
- It is not mandatory for you to inform your employer that you were part of the DACA program or how you received your work permit, nor should they ask. However, they can ask you to verify your authorization to work. As it is against the law to hire illegal immigrants, it is an obligation of the employer to fire you, but they may also put you on work leave until a solution is found.
- If your DACA renewal is pending, your employer may fire, demote, or send you on leave since you are not eligible for a job during.
- If you are allowed to keep your work permit afterwards, you can continue working up to its expiration date.
- You will lose employment-related health insurance once your work permit expires.

What should I know/do?

- What can I do now?
- Know your rights, including the ones above and all others.
- You have the right to examine a search warrant, which should say in detail what specific areas can be searched and what is to be found. Although law enforcement does not have to wait for your agreement on it, evidence can be disposed during a trial if they have violated the parameters of the warrant. (4th Amendment)
- Racial profiling is unconstitutional.
- The Immigrant and Employee Rights Section (IER) prohibits natural origin discrimination, unfair documentary practices to verify employment statuses, and the intimidation of a worker.
- Obey the law. Do not commit any offenses, no matter how minor you think they may be, especially if your status is sensitive.
- Do not associate yourself with people who might get you or themselves into trouble.
- Educate yourself.
- Use your assets. If you prove yourself to be exceptionally valuable or talented, you are more likely to be allowed to stay to benefit the country.
- Prepare for future financial expenses.
- Speak to an attorney to explore other options.
- Share your story.
- Contact Congress:
- Senator John McCain (Republican), 202-224-2235 in Washington, 602-952-2410 in Phoenix, 928-445-0833 in Prescott, 520-670-6334 in Tucson. <https://www.mccain.senate.gov/public/index.cfm/contact-form>
- Senator Jeff Flake (Republican), 202-224-4521 in Washington, 602-840-1891 in Phoenix, 520-575-8633 in Tucson. <https://www.flake.senate.gov/public/index.cfm/contact-jeff>
- Until your DACA expires, you will be protected from deportation and will be able to legally work in the United States. After, however, you will be earmarked for deportation as an undocumented immigrant, although immigration services will most likely prioritize those who they feel are more likely to be disadvantageous to the country.

IGB POLITICS- The

D.R.E.A.M. Act

• By A. Arias

(Development, Relief, Education, for alien minors) is an American legislative proposal for the Dreamers (Alien Minors) in the United States of America. The bill was introduced by the Senate on Aug 1st 2001 by U.S. Dick Durbin but has failed to pass multiple times.

• So what are the requirements to be affected by the Dream Act?

- Not have entered the Non U.S non immigrant
- Have proof of arriving in the U.S before the age of 16
- Have Proof of residence in the U.S for at least five consecutive years since they arrived
- If male, have registered with the selective service
- Must be between the age of 12 and 35
- Have graduated from an American high school, obtained a GED or have been admitted to an institution of higher education
- Be a Good Moral Character

• So what would the current Dream Act affect the laws?

- It can Grant current DACA beneficiaries permanent resident status on a conditional basis, and allow TPS beneficiaries, people without lawful immigration status, and people with final orders of removal the opportunity to apply for this same immigration status. It also stops anyone from removal of anyone who meets the requirements of the act. It also makes college affordable for undocumented minorities.

• So what happens next if eligible for the Dream Act?

- For the first six years, qualifying people would be granted with conditional status, and would have to graduate with associate's degree or, bachelor's degree, and or serve two years in the military. If you meet these conditions you are eligible to apply for a permanent residence status.

• So what's the likelihood of the bill passing?

- It will need congressional support to give the bill a chance to pass. The bill is an opportunity to show the importance of providing immigration relief and give positive benefits after DACA ends.

• This was brought up as a suggestion by Dick Durbin, after the Trump administration rescission of the 2012 DACA memorandum. The rescission of DACA has affected millions of people who have come into this country as undocumented immigrants, Minorities that would want a better chance to become citizen and have a better future in America. Dream act is an alternative solution to DACA for any Dreamers who still want to continue their education here. It's understandable to be upset, however if the Dream Act can pass Congress, this will be a successful and a great solution to the cancellation of DACA organization ending.

TGB GRIEF RELIEF

- By Y. Uriarte
- In light of recent events occurring around the world, we decided to ask teacher what they do to deal with grief and how they would advise others. Here were their responses:
 - “You always have to take of yourself first” - Ms. Karendreas
 - “Usually seeking outside counsel, that seems to be the best. Looking into yourself and trying to discover that within yourself is always good practice. I know a lot of quality people in my life that are trained in those areas, I approach them with my problems first and then look at myself with their opinions attached to it.” - Mr. Bejar
 - “The first step to dealing with grief is admitting that you are grieving over something that is real and not comparing your grief to somebody else's but also finding like-minded people to hash out your feelings with and talking with. Keeping them bottled up is no good, so if you don't have somebody to talk to, write it down, journal it, make YouTube videos where you can look at yourself talking. Whatever works, just don't keep it inside and realize that the world is a big place and a lot of people are probably going through what you're going through. - Ms. Kaufman ctd.

- “I deal with grief first by prayer because I have a very strong faith. Secondly, I find someone to talk to about it, that would help me understand and deal with it if I couldn't deal with it on my own” - Ms. Blankenship
- “ I would say if you have something that's grievable at the moment, to reach out to friends or family for support and don't try to go through something alone.” - Ms. Castro
- “To take it one day at a time. Just take it one step at a time.” - Ms. Braden
- “To be with your friends and family and to communicate with them, if you're feeling sad or depressed then have somebody you can confide in. I would suggest for others to not hold it and to make sure you talk to somebody you trust.” - Mr. Rebb

TGB ADVICE

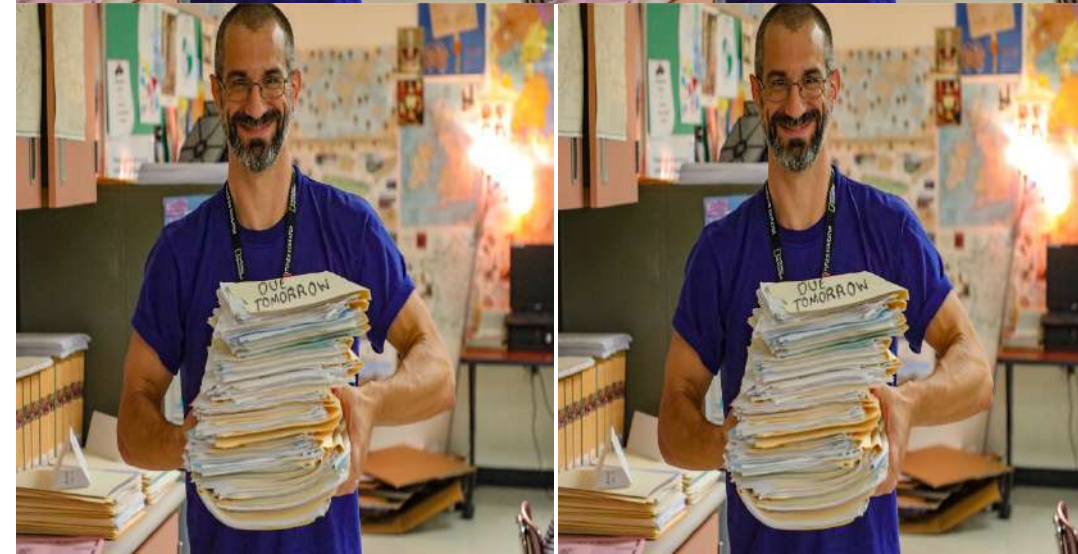

- By P. Ribera, TGB'17
- A list of advice for Seniors from a recent graduate
- Do's:
 - - Turn in assignments on time. Putting off assignments can pile up by the end of each semester, making it harder to make those assignment up for final grades. Some assignments can't be made up even if you turn them in late, so making sure you are finishing the work on time is the best way to keep your grades up.
 - - Take advantage of tutoring or after-school help to raise your grades each semester.
 - - Change your study habits. If you are going into college or a university, begin getting into better habits, including: turning in assignments on time, reviewing class lessons when you get home from school every day instead of cramming before tests and quizzes, form study groups in your classes, take advantages of external resources such as Khan Academy and other academic apps, and do homework throughout the day whenever you have time instead of saving it all for when you get home.
 - - Revisit old teachers. Keeping connections with your previous teachers will help when looking for college/scholarship recommendations, joining a teacher assisting class, getting college/life advice, or just making friends before graduating, besides, teachers love their students and love to see a familiar face every once-in-a-while.
 - - Build your resume! If you are going into college/university or looking into getting a job, take time to finalize and update your high school resume. If your resume is falling short of a few things, look into joining more clubs, doing some volunteer work, or other activities you can add to further build it.
 - - Visit your counselor! You might have ignored the counseling office these past four years, but now you really need to visit. Keep in touch with your counselor to make sure you are on track for graduation, that you are passing your classes, and that you are preparing yourself for any college/university, or work force lifestyle after graduation.
 - - Follow up with teachers and adults on grade changes and other academic changes. You are responsible for your own success, make sure after you speak with a teacher or adult that you follow up from time to time until an assignment is updated or a grade is changed. Leaving these things unspoken can affect final grades.

- By P. Ambriz (Some ideas taken from: <http://www.theprospect.net>)
- Here at TGB we have one of the biggest schools in the district, and with many students come many teachers, meaning different personalities all around the school. You may have had some these types of teachers.
- The Life Stories Teacher (Picture: Teacher holding book that says "My Biography" while talking)
 - This type of teacher will at least tell you 3 stories from their lifetime everyday, that sometimes don't even relate to what they're teaching, this can mess up your learning although it's fun or refreshing to not do work while they talk, we can gain knowledge from their experiences.
- The Lazy Teacher (Picture: Teacher on their phone while projector is on)
 - This teacher will most of the time just play a movie or video, while they barely explain anything, some teachers may do this because it actually helps or it pertains to the lesson, but when it starts happening every day of the school year it is obvious that they are lazy.
- The Strict Teacher (Picture: teacher making student do push-ups)
 - You walk in take your seat and sit down. Nothing less nothing more. You read, you write, you learn, you do anything else you get a lunch detention, everything is on schedule always. This type of teacher treats the classroom as a military environment, anytime you mess up you get in trouble, this teacher's class is the class you...
- The Challenging Teacher (Picture: Teacher holding a stack of packets with a smile)
 - This teacher's classes are the hardest you'll ever get, you practically have at least 1 hour of homework everyday just from their class
- The "funny" Teacher (Picture: Teacher holding book of jokes)
 - There is a lot of variation among "funny" teachers some genuinely say funny things, while others, let's just say their sense of humor is different. After they say their joke the awkwardness fills the room with in a never ending silence where all you can hear is their chuckle.
