

“WATERBURY READS” ART CONTEST

Children up to Grade 12 who attend a Waterbury public or private school, or are home-schooled, are eligible to participate.

The “Waterbury Reads” team of Literacy Volunteers of Greater Waterbury is proud to introduce our new trailer coming soon to distribute free books to children throughout our community. The trailer is similar to the outlines below. Shall we call it a Bookmobile? Or a Wagon? Or a free Bookstore? We need your help and ideas!

On the back of this sheet, please draw designs with wording or pictures so that everyone who sees the trailer will know it is filled with free books! Our current slogan is “Waterbury Reads: Open a Book, Unlock your Future!” but other slogans will be considered as well. Your artwork does not need to be perfect. A professional artist will make it ready for print.

Use your imagination!

Share your love of books through art!

Spread the message of the importance of reading!

Deadline: Friday, May 20, 2016.

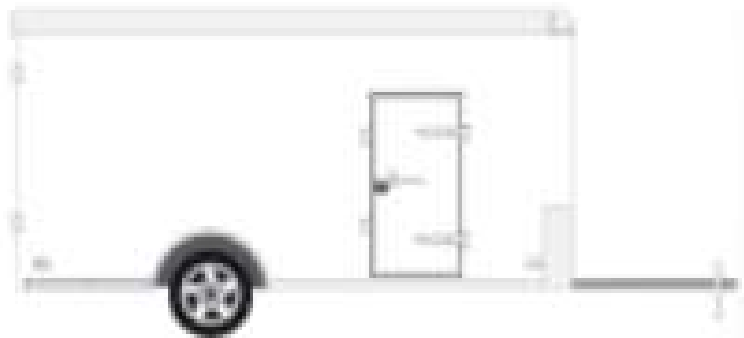

Submissions must be delivered to the Children’s Division or Literacy Volunteers Office - both are in the Silas Bronson Library, 267 Grand Street, Waterbury.

Judging

A special panel of judges will select the design(s) that will be announced in June.

Prize

If the judging panel chooses one winner, the prize will be a $100 Barnes & Noble gift card. If two designs are selected, each winner will receive a $50 Barnes & Noble gift card.
