Describing Characters

A character is a person or lifelike animal in a story. You can learn about characters by thinking about what they say and do.

Here are some questions you can ask about characters:

- ▶ What does the character say?
- ▶ What does the character do?
- ▶ How does the character feel?

Asking these questions helps us learn more about the characters.

Cow Tales

Are We There Yet?

“Are we there yet?” a voice shouts. The voice is coming from the back of the herd of cows.

Cowboys are leading five hundred cows along a rocky trail. They have been traveling on the path for weeks. But they still have a long way to go.

“Who said that?” the trail boss yells. He yanks on the reins to stop his horse. He glares at his team with one angry eye.

The other cowboys are afraid of the trail boss. They stay quiet.

A cowboy named Wayne looks over at the young cowboy who was shouting. Wayne has been herding cows his whole life. He often helps new cowboys.

And the young cowboy surely needs help. He is sliding off his saddle. He looks like he is riding a horse for the first time.

“Hey, new kid. What is your name?” Wayne asks. Then he fixes the young cowboy’s saddle.

“My name is Jelly,” the young cowboy says. He tries to drink from his canteen. Water splashes his face.

“Well listen, Jelly. The trail boss does not like when the cowboys ask questions. You want to know if we’re there yet? Just ask me. Don’t make a fuss.”

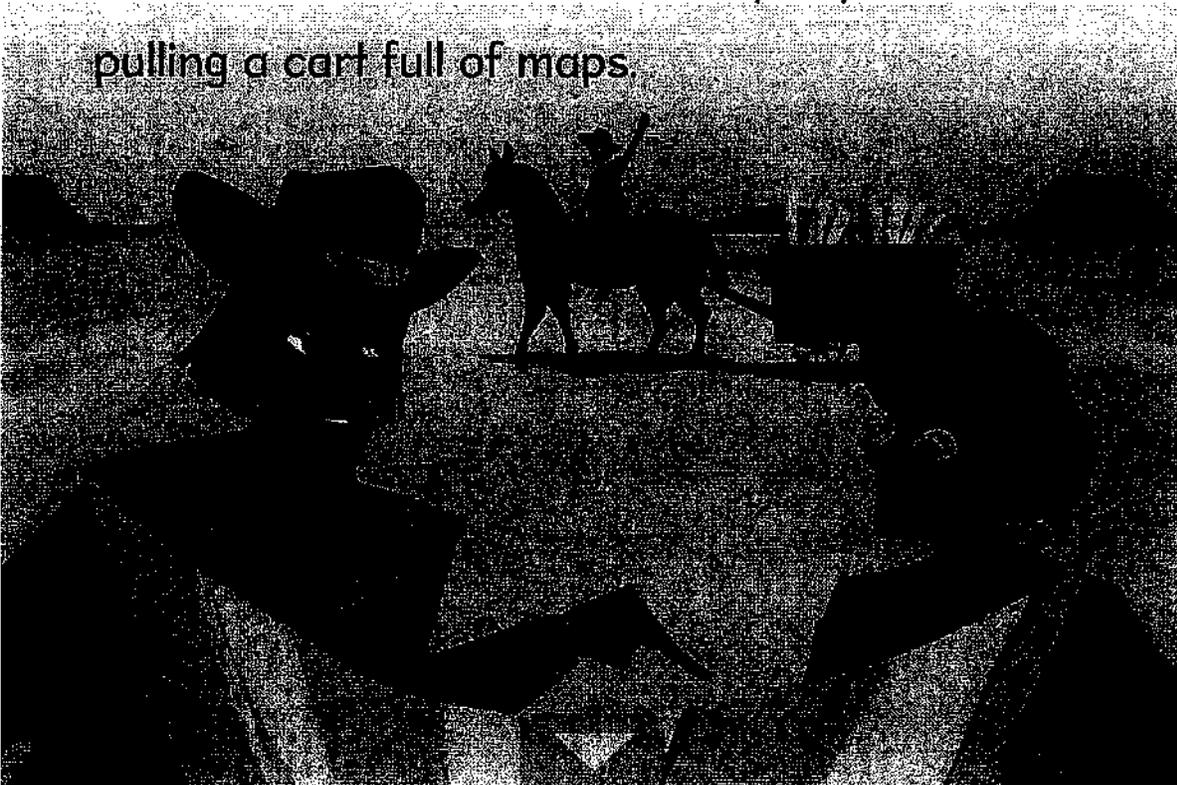

Wayne holds up a map.

“Wow! Where did you get that map?” Jelly asks.

“Hello! I’m Zeb!” the cowboy says. He is pulling a cart full of maps.

“We will follow this trail for hundreds of miles,” Wayne says. “We must cross mountains, keep our cows safe, AND end the trip by winter. So please stop asking that annoying question!”

“What question?” asks Jelly.

“ARE WE THERE YET!” shouts Wayne.

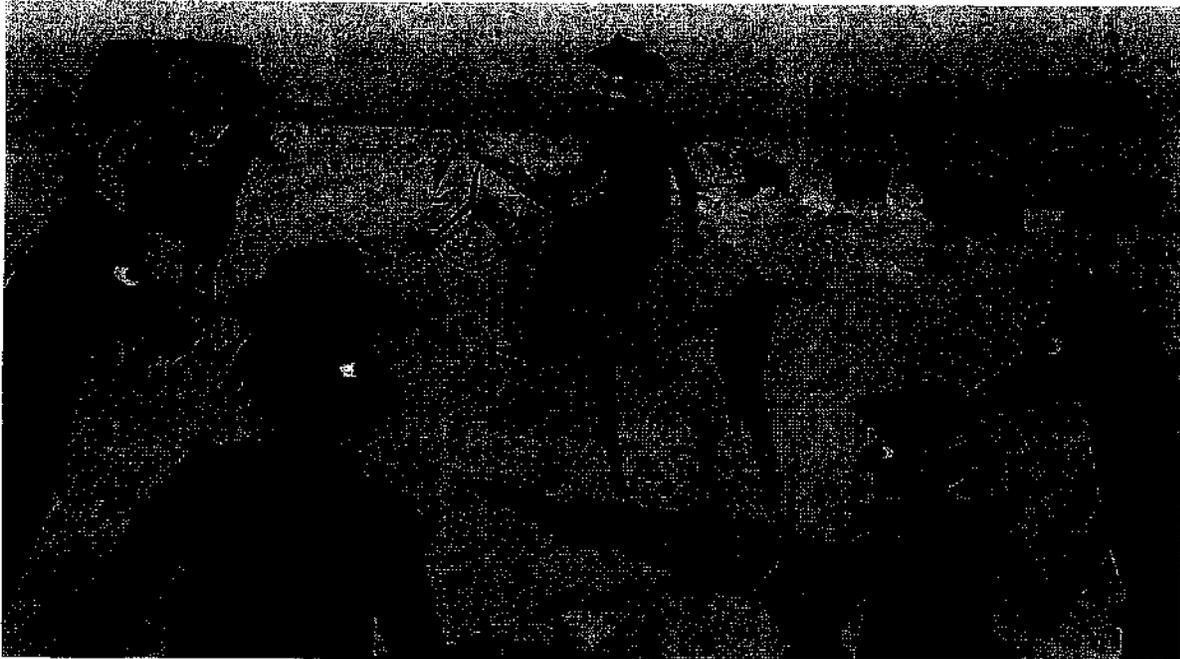

“Quiet!” the trail boss yells. He glares at Wayne with one angry eye.

Jelly shrugs his shoulders. “So, we’re NOT there yet?” he asks Wayne.

Wayne shakes his head. “No,” he says. “We are not even close.”

They continue on their rocky journey.

Cow Tales

King of the Trail

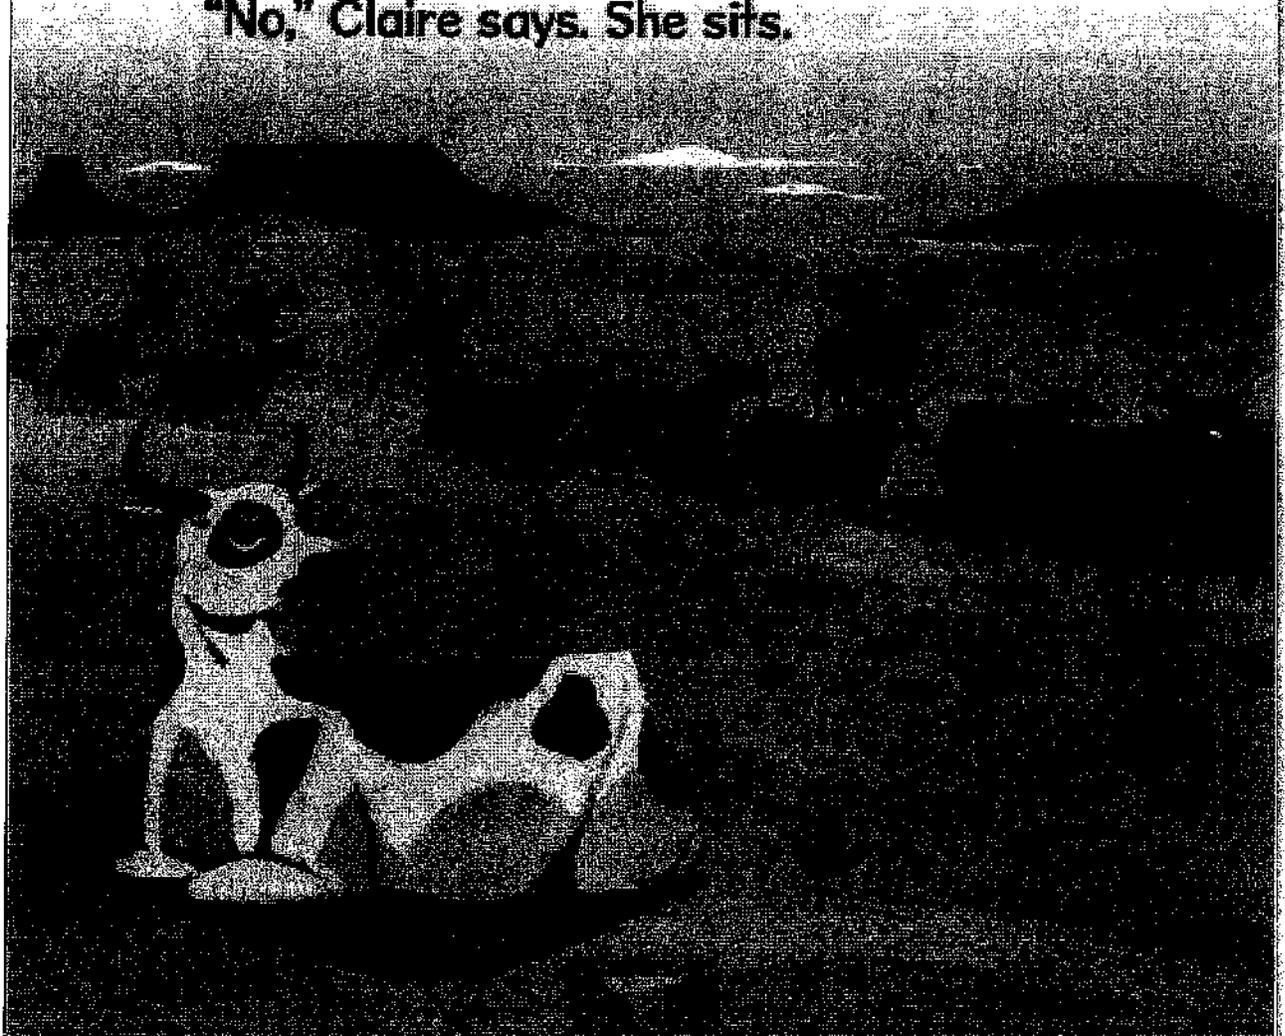

by Yehudi Mercado

Claire's hard feet slide on the rocks. She is so tired! She and the other cows have walked on the trail for weeks. They still have many, many miles to go.

"No," Claire says. She sits.

A large bull stops. He is the leader of the cows. They call him the King.

A small dog named Lady stops next to the King. Her job is to keep the cows moving. "Why did we stop?" the dog asks.

The King says, "This cow stopped."

"That's Claire," says Lady. "She does not listen. She does what she wants. She should start moving."

The King stands next to Claire. He looks into her eyes. "You must move now."

"No," Claire says. "This trail is too long. The rocks hurt my feet."

Just then, a map blows in the wind. Claire looks at the map. She points to the end of the trail. “Is that a field?” she asks.

“Yes. It is a field with sweet, soft grass,” the King says.

Claire thinks about the field. It would be nice to walk on that soft grass!

The King says more. "I have changed my mind, Claire. Don't get up," he says.

"Why not?" Claire asks. She seems mad.

"Why not?" Lady asks. She seems unhappy.

"We need to keep going."

“You should stay, Claire,” says the King.
“Then, I can have your grass and mine. Please sit longer.”

“No,” Claire says. She gets up. “My feet are rested now.”

The King smiles. Lady smiles. The cows keep going on their long trip.

Describing Connections

To connect means to fit together. Events and ideas in informational text can connect in different ways.

Here are two kinds of connections:

- ▶ Events follow each other in time order:

1. New leaves grow in spring.

2. Flowers bloom in summer.

- ▶ One event or idea causes another:

1. A lot of rain falls at once.

2. Rivers rise and flood.

Describing connections between events and ideas helps you understand and remember key details.

Water Games

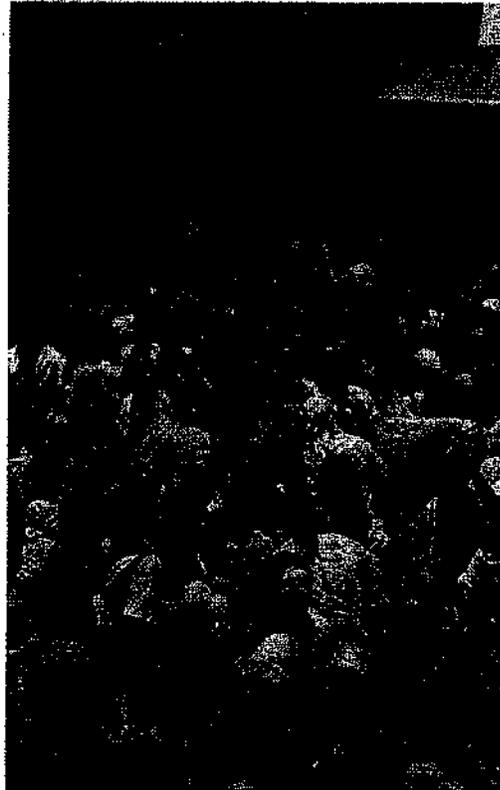

by Alex Anderson

Water, Water Everywhere

It's Carnival!

These South
Americans are having a water fight. Water balloons fly through the air. They splash
when they hit people.

People spray
water from hoses. It is hard to stay dry.
Some people wear
rain ponchos or use umbrellas.

The crowd sprays water.

Watering the Earth

These South Americans cheered for water when they planted long ago. A planting festival began. People sang and danced. They thanked the earth for the food that grew.

People planted and watered seeds. They hoped for rain to help the seeds grow.

People watered the earth at planting festivals.

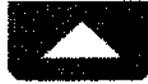

Party Time

Water was a big part of the planting festival. Later, people started new traditions based on the planting festival. What was at the center of these traditions? Water!

Splashing people with water is a new tradition.

Some of these new traditions are part of Carnival. South Americans dress up in colorful costumes and masks. They march in parades. They play cheerful music.

Many people dance and sing. And what about the water? People play water games at Carnival, too.

People wear colorful costumes during Carnival.

More Than Water

Water games are a fun part of Carnival. But the games have changed over time. Now there is more than water. People spray colored foam. They throw flour or paints into crowds. And the next day, they do it all over again!

Lots of people spray foam instead of water.

- b. Costumes are part of Carnival.
- c. People are part of Carnival.

Question 6 (for p. 5 of passage)

Water was part of the planting festival. Water is part of Carnival. How are these ideas connected?

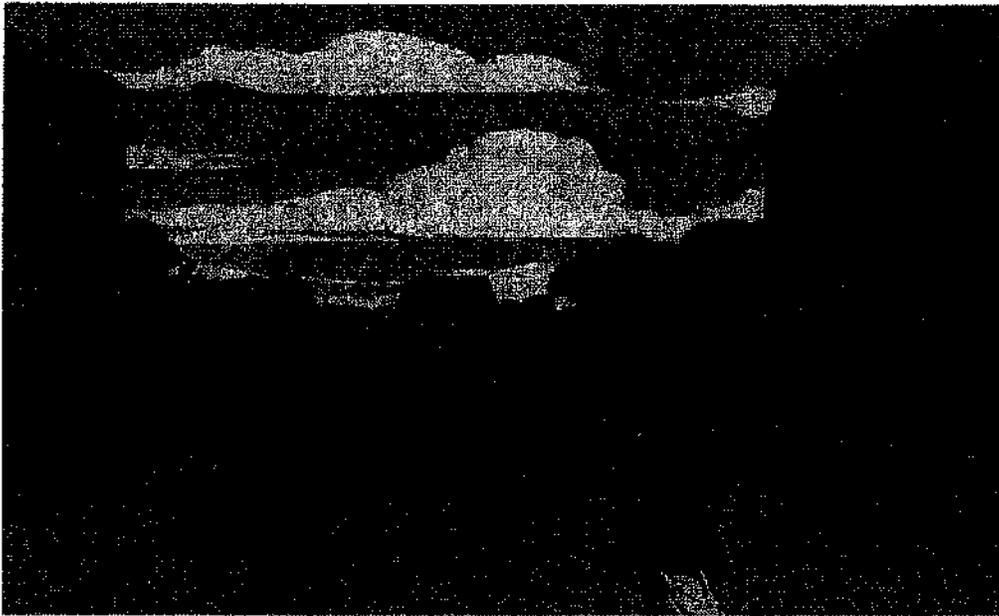

- a. The planting festival led to some Carnival traditions.
- b. The planting festival was more fun than Carnival.
- c. Carnival uses water more than the planting festival.

A Very Old Game

Long ago, people in Mexico and Central America liked exciting ball games. They made up a ball game thousands of years ago. It was called Pok-ta-Pok. It was a little like basketball and a little like soccer.

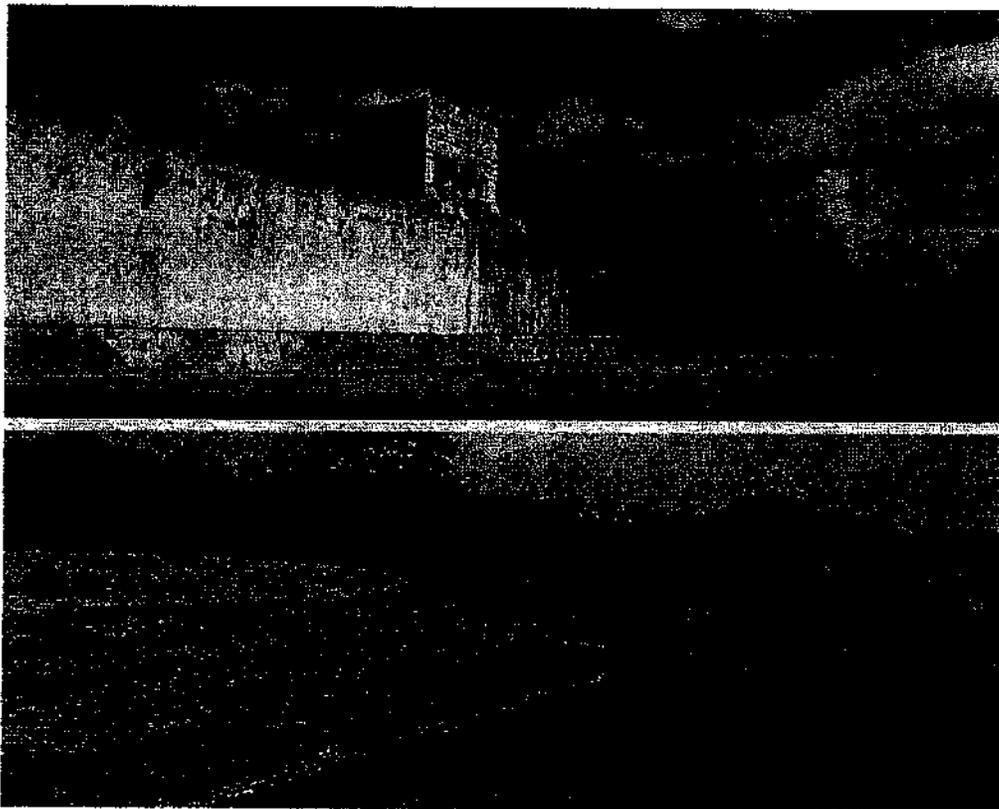

A game of Pok-ta-Pok

Two teams played against each other. They played outside on a ball court. The court was shaped like the capital letter "I." It had tall stone walls on each side.

Two very old Pok-ta-Pok courts

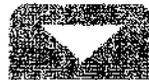

A Heavy Ball and a High Hoop

Pok-ta-Pok was hard to play! The rubber ball was heavy. The court had two hoops, like a basketball court. But the hoops were made of stone. The hoop was 20 feet high. That is as tall as a giraffe!

A stone Pok-ta-Pok hoop

No Hands or Feet

The rules also made Pok-ta-Pok hard to play. Players could not kick the ball. They could not throw the ball. So players needed other moves to get the ball in the hoop.

Players bumped the ball with their hips. They used their knees. They had to keep trying!

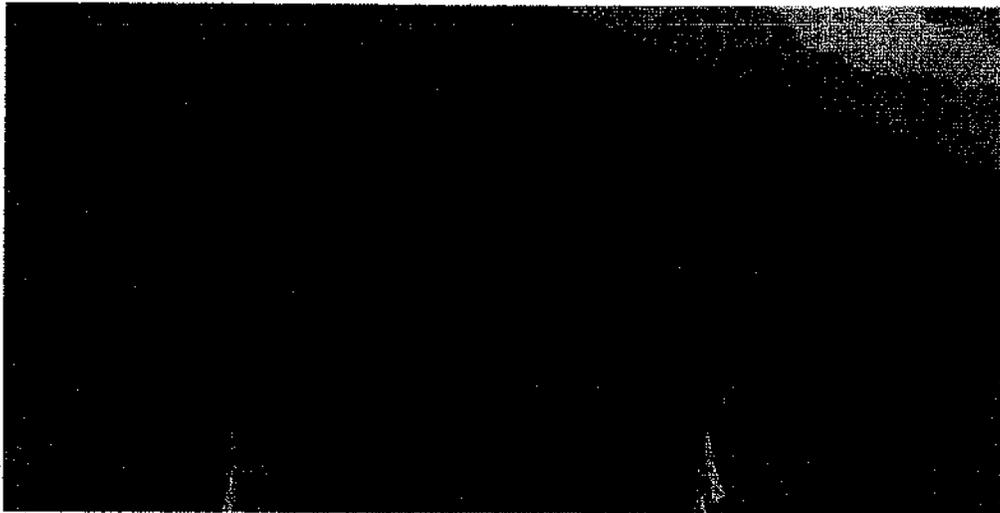

A player hitting the ball with his hip

The games were long. Some games lasted for days! The team that got the ball through the hoop the most times won.

A player happy to get the ball through the hoop

The Pueblo Girl Scatters the Stars

The lost girl had been walking for hours.
She moved her bag from shoulder to shoulder.

“It’s as heavy as a sack of corn,” she said.

“Take this bag,” the mother of all people had told her. “Do not open it. You will find your tribe by the great river. Give the bag to the elders. Then you will learn its secret.”

The girl walked for many days. Her feet ached. She missed her tribe. But mostly she thought about the bag.

One night, the girl sat by a stream. She held the bag in her lap.

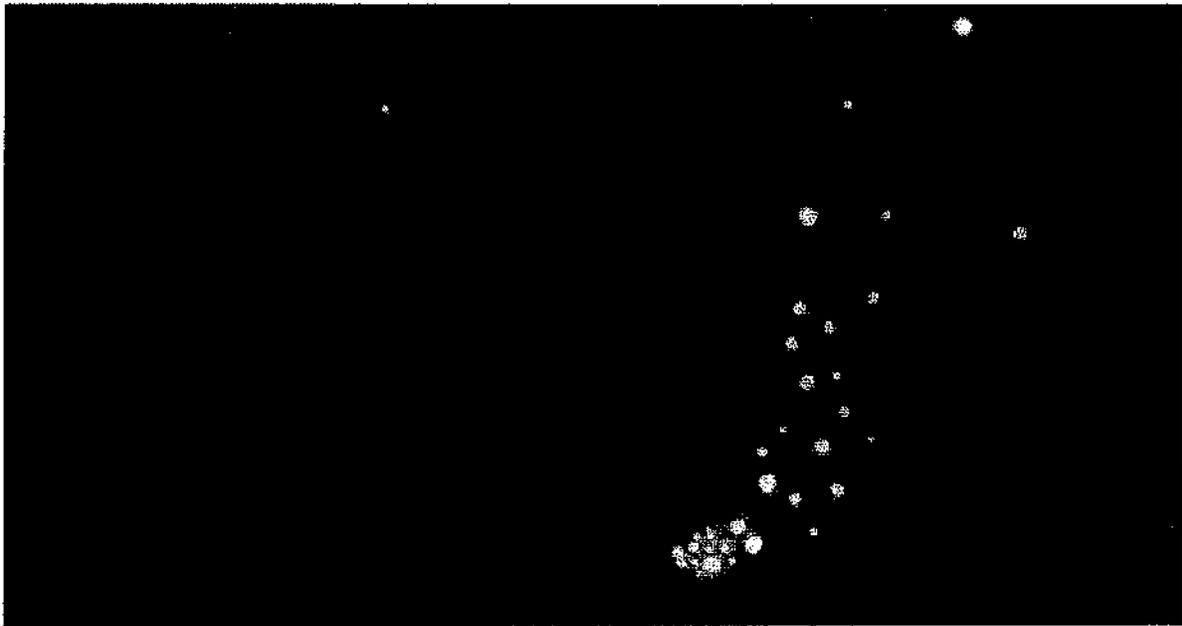

“I know I’m not supposed to...” she whispered. Then she untied the bag anyway.

The girl opened the bag. Tiny objects rolled and scattered everywhere. Were they pebbles? Seeds? The girl didn't have time to find out. The tiny objects moved so fast!

“Oh, no!” the girl cried, as she chased the tiny, mysterious things. She grabbed a handful of them. The rest flew away into the sky. They lit up the night. They were stars!

The girl stuffed one handful of stars back into the bag. She kept walking.

All through that night, the girl thought about what she had done. She felt so much shame. Never once did she look up at the bright, twinkling lights.

Finally, the girl found her tribe at the river.
She quickly gave the bag to an elder.

“This bag is from Our Mother,” she said. “I did not listen to her instructions. I lost so many stars.”

The elder was kind. He said, “You cannot ever lose the stars. They are always with us.”

The elder opened the bag. He tossed the rest of the tiny stars into the sky. They hung in the shape of a pot.

“We will name it Big Dipper,” he said.

From then on, the girl always looked up at the stars. And she tried to name them, each and every one.
