Megan Twohey is a prize-winning investigative reporter for The New York Times who has focused much of her attention on the treatment of women and children.

In 2017, Twohey and Jodi Kantor broke the story of Harvey Weinstein's decades of alleged abuse towards women, helping to ignite a global reckoning on sexual harassment. The investigation shared in the 2018 Pulitzer Prize for Public Service and won other national prizes. The previous year, during the 2016 presidential race, Twohey told the stories of women who accused Donald J. Trump of sexual misconduct.

She uncovered an underground network where parents gave away adopted children they no longer wanted to strangers met on the Internet. Known as private re-homing, the illicit practice took place with no government oversight and at great risk to children. "The Child Exchange" series was a finalist for the 2014 Pulitzer Prize for Investigative Reporting and won other awards. It prompted states to pass new laws to protect children. Two of the main subjects were sent to prison, and Twohey testified before a U.S. Senate committee.

While reporting in Chicago, she exposed how police and prosecutors were shelving DNA evidence collected after sex crimes, robbing victims of the chance for justice. In response to her stories, Illinois passed the first state law mandating the testing of every rape kit. Twohey's other investigations brought about separate legal protections for victims of stalking, domestic violence and sex-abusing doctors.

Twohey and Kantor are working on a book about their Weinstein investigation which will be published this year. A native of Evanston, Ill., Twohey lives in Brooklyn with her husband and daughter. She also works as a contributor to NBC and MSNBC.

Fight Song

*E-T-H-S we will fight for you
 For the right to do
 Everything for you.
 We'll go in to play and win the game
 We will bring you fame! Rah! Rah! Rah!
 Orange and the Blue
 we'll proudly wear,
 May our colors e'er fly!
 Victory comes while we sing,
 Many trophies we will bring,
 So Cheer! Cheer! Cheer! Cheer! Cheer!
 We will win the game for Evanston High.*
