Sample Distance Learning Schedule: Middle and High School

Students learn at different paces, but it is a good idea to have plans in place for daily routines and schedules so that students stay on track with their course work. Here are some important guidelines and reminders as families develop their daily routines.

- Plan for 300 minutes per course per week
- May be structured based on the needs of each student
 - 50 minutes per day or
 - In chunks of time throughout the week
- Note that students will complete online and offline activities in order to meet these guidelines
- Physical activity and breaks from devices are important and should be a part of the daily routine
