WHAT:

Rising 6th grade families will get a first-hand look at the school campus that will be home for the next 3 years. For one hour, future Wolverines will learn about the curriculum, content, and "Wolverine Way" of UGM. In the other hour, we'll learn more about the connections class opportunities and access options at UGM.

WHAT IS A "CONNECTIONS" CLASS?

All middle schools in Henry County offer an array of connections courses aimed at broadening and enriching the educational experience through career and arts exploration. The offerings of these course may vary from school to school based on available space and building specification. These classes can range in length from a semester to a full year. Students will have some choice in selecting the available connections classes, particularly those that have a performance expectation such as chorus or band, but in many cases students will engage in the classes on a rotational basis.
