

Checklist to avoid breaking copyright laws:

- Understand the law: Copyright law protects literary works, paintings, photographs, drawings, films, music, choreography, and sculpture. Many companies have copyright lawyers that look for people who use copyrighted materials without permission and will enforce their copyrights with a lawsuit.
- Do not take anything from the internet. This would include screen shots, scanned items or pictures from a search engine like Google images. It is almost always copyrighted. Use these links to access photos and pictures without breaking copyright law.
<http://www.photosforclass.com>
<http://www.pics4learning.com>
- Be imaginative. Create your own ideas such as original photos, drawings, movies, music etc...
- Cite your sources. It is important to give credit to sources you do use. This can be done within your presentation with transitional phrases such as According to the author, Eric Carle or Based on what I read in the text... TEDx does not require a specific format for citations.
- For more information visit these websites:
<http://www.copyrightkids.org/>
<http://www.onlinecolleges.net/15-copyright-rules-every-student-should-know/>

Checklist to avoid breaking copyright laws:

- Understand the law: Copyright law protects literary works, paintings, photographs, drawings, films, music, choreography, and sculpture. Many companies have copyright lawyers that look for people who use copyrighted materials without permission and will enforce their copyrights with a lawsuit.
- Do not take anything from the internet. This would include screen shots, scanned items or pictures from a search engine like Google images. It is almost always copyrighted. Use these links to access photos and pictures without breaking copyright law.
<http://www.photosforclass.com>
<http://www.pics4learning.com>
- Be imaginative. Create your own ideas such as original photos, drawings, movies, music etc.
- Cite your sources. It is important to give credit to sources you do use. This can be done within your presentation with transitional phrases such as According to the author, Eric Carle or Based on what I read in the text... TEDx does not require a specific format for citations.
- For more information visit these websites:
<http://www.copyrightkids.org/>
<http://www.onlinecolleges.net/15-copyright-rules-every-student-should-know/>

