Black history isn't a separate history. This is all of our history, this is American history, and we need to understand that. It has such an impact on kids and their values and how they view black people.

A perspicacious man, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., once said, "We are not makers of history. We are made by history." During this month, we plan to celebrate those individuals that paved the foundation for us to continue to build on. We want to encourage our young scholars that their voices and words have power and when positively used can bring significant change. Mr. Adricque Norwood, our Black History Month coordinator, and teachers have planned many engaging activities for our young scholars to learn about a mixture of historical and current African American figures and events making a positive impact on society.
