

GEORGIA TECH STEAM EXPO

My name is Lauryn Tillman and I am a 3rd year Civil Engineering student at Georgia Tech. I currently serve as Outreach Chair for the Georgia Tech Society of Black Engineers. I received your contact from Morgan Wright, GTSBE's Pre-College Initiative Chair. She discussed extensively about how passionate you are about accessible education and resources.

GTSBE's Annual STEAM Expo is on Saturday, April 10, 2021 from 5-7 p.m.. The event consists of Georgia Tech students conducting STEAM activities/experiments with students K-12. It is an interactive space for grade-school and college students to come together to explore science.

The event is 100% free of charge with materials to be provided by GTSBE. May I forward the event advertisement to you which you may then forward to your affiliation's parents, staff, or other individuals who might be interested in signing their student up? GTSBE is hoping to extend their reach to diverse grade school children in the Metro-Atlanta area.

Please let me know if you are able to send information regarding STEAM Expo to your email lists.

Your help would be greatly appreciated! I look forward to hearing from you.
