

Scholarship Opportunities

Remember finding funding for your education can be lots of work, but has a big payoff in the end. The scholarship opportunities in this document are just the beginning of the scholarship search. Scholarships may be based on your strengths, interests, and skills. In addition, your parent or guardian's place of employment may have scholarships for students. There will be scholarships available that are unique to the postsecondary institution that you plan to attend. In addition, some scholarships are merit based, but others are needs based.

Please refer to websites in the Surviving the Senior Year Guide as well as College and Career Websites and Local Scholarships documents.

www.GAfutures.org has over 18,000 scholarships

Before you begin your scholarship journey, please be mindful of scholarship scams and look for some red flags along the way:

Guarantees –

- ✓ Nobody representing a legitimate scholarship can or will be able to guarantee that you'll win.
- ✓ Some services even boast they can guarantee the actions of another organization – they can't.
- ✓ There are false promises and will likely result in something other than you obtaining money for school.

Unsolicited Scholarship Offers –

- ✓ If someone contacts you, via phone, mail or email, offering you a scholarship, and you never requested information from that provider, be very careful.
- ✓ Scholarships are awarded to you after an application process – they are not just given out to random students – no matter how special they are.

Fees –

- ✓ Applying for legitimate scholarships does not cost money!
- ✓ Submitting such applications will cost you time and effort, but should never cost money, no matter how small the amount.
- ✓ If any scholarship offers request your funds to submit an application, become eligible, etc., kick them to the curb.

Limited Time Offers–

- ✓ Scholarships do have deadlines; however, they are usually clearly stated within the application guidelines.
- ✓ Legitimate providers don't pressure students into applying for their scholarships; they have enough interest on their own.
- ✓ They also ensure that students have ample time to work on their scholarship applications and essays.
- ✓ If you ever feel pressured and are observing that it's a "now or never" scenario, the scholarship is likely a scam.

Gathering Personal Information–

- ✓ Other than some basic information, a scholarship provider should not ask all applicants for private information, like your social security number.
- ✓ Some require information from winners, however, if you're just at the point of starting out in the application and they ask for such information – don't provide it because it will likely be used for something other than you intended.

Eligibility–

- ✓ Legitimate scholarships always have some sort of eligibility requirement, whether it's age, grades or school year.
- ✓ Any scholarship that claims to be all-encompassing with absolutely no exceptions should raise a red flag.
- ✓ It's helpful to view their previous winners to determine whether or not they are a legitimate resource. If the "testimonials" seem unnatural and contrived, they probably are.

Don't Call Us, We'll Call You–

- ✓ Scholarship providers will give you contact information to reach them, should you have any questions.
- ✓ Many scam artists out there will make a fake web site claiming to be a scholarship provider without any sort of way to contact them or getting in touch with them is difficult.
- ✓ Keep an eye out for this, because legitimate scholarship providers don't have anything to hide whereas the scammers do.
- ✓ The best rule of thumb to follow? If it seems too good to be true, it likely is! Remember, there are millions of scholarships available to students so if one doesn't seem right, move on!

The Prudential Spirit of Community Awards Website: http://spirit.prudential.com OR www.nassp.org/spirit	The Prudential Spirit of Community Awards program is the United States' largest youth recognition program based exclusively on volunteer community service. The program was created in 1995 by Prudential in partnership with the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) to honor middle level and high school students for outstanding service to others at the local, state, and national level. The program's goals are to applaud young people who already are making a positive difference in their towns and neighborhoods, and to inspire others to think about how they might contribute to their communities. Over the past 16 years, more than 310,000 young Americans have participated in the program, and nearly 100,000 of them have been officially recognized for their volunteer work. University of Georgia Honors Program: CURO Honors Scholarship	The Center for Undergraduate Research Opportunities (CURO) promotes sustained, progressive, and faculty-mentored research opportunities for UGA's undergraduates. The premier opportunity offered by CURO to prospective Honors students is the CURO Honors Scholarship. The CURO Honors Scholarship seeks to enrich the academic experience of undergraduate students by engaging them in mentor-guided research in order to gain insight into fields and disciplines that interest them. Recipients of this scholarship, the CURO Honors Scholars, can conduct research in any discipline at UGA, including (but not limited to) physical, biological, and social sciences; business; international affairs; engineering; humanities; and the arts. Application Process: Each year, CURO offers a limited number of incoming first-year students the CURO Honors Scholarship. CURO specially invites applicants from underrepresented groups to apply, though all prospective students may apply. The highly competitive selection process considers academic achievement, motivation to make research central to the undergraduate career, and demonstrated work ethic. ONLINE APPLICATION FOR CURO HONORS SCHOLARSHIP	Interested students should complete and submit their on-line CURO Honors Scholarship application no later than February 1 Earlier submission is preferable as applications for the ten first year spots become more competitive each year.

Do not rely on the College Board or ACT Board to send your scores directly to Cadet Command. Step 6. Schedule an Army ROTC Scholarship interview. You are required to do one interview with one school, contact the nearest college or university that has an Army ROTC program to schedule an interview, your interview results will be recorded and made available to UNG and all other schools listed on your scholarship application. We recommend that you schedule a personal visit and tour, and in-person interview at UNG. To schedule the visit and interview, please call Mr. Mark Cromer at 706 864-1599 or e-mail Mark.Cromer@ung.edu. Interviews are normally conducted Mon at 1 PM; Tue/Wed/Thu/Fri at 0830 (8:30 AM) or 1300 (1 PM) PM. Please allow three hours for your visit. Wear clothing appropriate for a scholarship interview. Visiting our campus for a scholarship interview, personal visit and tour, National Leadership Challenge Weekend, or Cadet Overnight Visit will better your chances. Step 7. Complete the President's Challenge Fitness Test. Ask any high school administrator to administer the test and fill out the score card. We recommend a coach or JROTC instructor. There are no passing or failing scores. Just do the best you can. If you are applying for a Service Academy such as West Point, you may use the same fitness test score card. Submit the score card to your point of contact at Cadet Command. Step 8. You should receive communication from Cadet Command. After completing steps 3-7, you should be notified that your file is complete and that it will be submitted to the selection board at Cadet Command for consideration. Periodically check your e-mail, mail and your GO-ARMY account to ensure you are receiving communications from Cadet Command. Make sure you follow the instructions that you receive in a timely manner. If you have not received communication that your file is complete, call or e-mail your Cadet Command representative to check on the status of your application. Step 9. Wait for the Cadet Command selection board results. Cadet Command will hold several selection boards throughout the academic year. The number and timing of the boards vary each year. Cadet Command will notify applicants who are selected for the scholarship 30 days after each board. If you were not selected, you will not receive any communication. In this case, your file will be considered during the next selection board, and so on. Applicants who are not selected after the final board will receive a non-select letter 30 days after the final board.
