Teacher Info – Cold War Caricatures

- Have the students create a caricature for different people during the Cold War. *You may need to explain what a caricature is (thought bubble & facial expressions that show what the person is thinking).
- The students will write a statement from the point of view of each person.
- If time, they will draw clothes/jewelry, belongings, and facial expressions to represent each person.

Cold War Caricatures

Directions: What would the different people during the Cold War say about it? Create a caricature (thought bubble) for each of the people listed below. Include their opinions and views on what they are experiencing. Add facial expressions to each person.

East German woman watching the Berlin Wall fall:

Communist supporter listening to Gorbachev's new ideas:

West Berlin child whose grandparents live in East Berlin:

Pro-democracy worker in East Germany during the 1960s:

Teacher Info – Breaking News

- Print out the Breaking News Handout for each student.
- The students will imagine that they are news reporters (radio) during this time period.
- They will choose one event from the Cold War and write a news broadcast as if they are living through it.
- They should also include a made-up quote from a person during the event.

Breaking News

Directions: Imagine that you are a news reporter for a radio station during the Cold War era. Choose one event from the Cold War and write a news broadcast as if you are right there living through it. Make sure that your news report explains the event. Also, include quotes from a fictional family that you have interviewed.

A large rectangular box with a black border, containing 15 horizontal lines for writing a news broadcast.

Teacher Directions – Find Someone Who Knows About...

- Pass out the Find Someone Who Knows About... handout to each student.
- Give the students several minutes to walk around the classroom and ask their classmates different questions on the sheet.
- When a classmate knows the answer, the student will write the answer (that the classmate said) down and the classmate will sign his/her name in the box.
- They can't ask the same person more than once!
- When time is up, check the answers to make sure everyone has them correct.
- *This is also an EXCELLENT study guide!
