	■ There are teachers that do monthly newsletters ■ Adding consistency will be great ■ Weekly may be a lot to ask as teachers have a lot on their plate, monthly would be more feasible ■ Class Dojo to post and update (John and Kristin) ■ Different avenues of communication (email, check-in pick up time, etc.) ○ Over all school communication is great ○ Difference in approach from classroom to classroom (dojo, email) ○ Parents feel more aware of what students are doing/learning when communication is shared (updates on curriculum) ○ Place to share resources for tech/educational support (lexia, i-ready, Clever) ■ Bres Media Google Site ■ Should students be working on lexia/i-ready at home? ○ Weekly newsletters are a great insight for parents to see what their students are doing ○ More options for before and after school support ● SIP Strategy 4 (Professional Culture) ○ CEL Leaders ○ Expanded Co-Teaching Model ○ Community may not be aware of the extra training taking place and the collaboration ○ Explaining to parents what is happening during full/half day PDs ○ Parents may not be aware of how co-taught classrooms function differently ○ Spotlight what a co-taught class is within the weekly wednesday? ● Next Steps ○ Continue to review SIP and comment
