

Dear Cardinal Staff and Families,

Welcome to a week of gratitude, time with family and friends, rest, and time away from the daily routine. I am thankful for our students, staff, families, and community! Today, I would like to share a message from one of the thought leaders the CCSD has studied over the last year, George Couros. Couros penned Innovator's Mindset and Innovating Inside the Box. We have a student leadership team preparing to facilitate a study of Innovator's Mindset. Stay tuned...we will invite everyone who is interested to join us.

We have students, staff, administrators, and community members with daily challenges and opportunities. In last week's episode of the #MindsetMonday podcast, the message centers around surrounding and connecting yourself with those who lift you up. Please, consider taking ten minutes out of your day for this

As a follow-up to last week, I am sharing "just the facts" to answer a common patron question:

Which students are recommended to enroll in iJAG?

Scheduling classes for next semester is on many minds. iJAG is a new experience for our students. Students from all academic, social, emotional, and behavior realms are recommended for this experience. iJAG supports career connections, collaboration, strengths-based learning opportunities, presentation skills, field trips to a variety of business and industry partners, and relationship building, along with many other 21st Century skills.

Sincerely,

Chris
