INTRODUCTION

General Introduction

The Pennsylvania Department of Education provides districts and schools with tools to assist in delivering focused instructional programs aligned with the Pennsylvania Core Standards Assessment Anchors. These tools include assessment anchor documents, assessment handbooks, and content-based item and scoring samplers. This Item and Scoring Sampler is a useful tool for Pennsylvania educators to use in preparing local instructional programs. It can also be useful in preparing students for the statewide assessment.

Pennsylvania Core Standards (PCS)

This sampler contains examples of test questions and stimulus passages that are aligned to the new Pennsylvania Core Standards-based 2013 PSSA Assessment Anchors and Eligible Content. The Mathematics, Reading, and Writing PSSA will transition to PCS-based operational Mathematics and English Language Arts assessments starting with the spring 2015 PSSA administration; however, stimulus passages and multiple-choice, short answer, and writing prompt test questions appearing on the operational portions of the 2014 PSSA will align to both the current Pennsylvania Academic Standards and the new PCS.

What Is Included

This sampler contains stimulus reading passages with test questions, standalone questions, and mode-specific prompts that have been written to align to the Assessment Anchors that are based on the Pennsylvania Core Standards (PCS). The passages represent some of the genres approved by PDE to appear on an operational, PCS-based PSSA. The test questions provide an idea of the types of items that may appear on an operational, PCS-based PSSA. Each sample test question has been through a rigorous review process to ensure alignment with the Assessment Anchors.

Purpose and Uses

The passages with test questions, non-passage based standalone questions, and mode-specific prompts in this sampler may be used as examples for creating assessment items at the classroom level, and it may also be copied and used as part of a local instructional program.¹ In addition, classroom teachers may find it beneficial to have students respond to the test questions in this sampler. Educators can use the sampler as a guide to score the responses independently or together with colleagues within a school or district.

Item Format and Scoring Guidelines

The PCS-based PSSA has multiple types of test questions. For grade 5, the types of test questions are Multiple-Choice questions (MC), Selected-Response questions (SR), Text-Dependent Analysis Questions, and mode-specific Prompts (P).

Multiple Choice: Each of this type of test question has four answer choices. Some MC test questions are based on a stimulus reading passage, while other MC test questions are independent of a passage. Each correct response to an MC test question is worth one point.

Selected Response: Each two-part SR question is designed to elicit an evidence-based response from a student who has read either a Literature or Informational Text passage. In Part One, which is similar to a multiple-choice question, the student analyzes a passage and chooses the best answer from four answer choices. In Part Two, the student elicits evidence from the passage to select one or more answers based on his/her response to Part One. Part Two is different from a multiple-choice question in that there may be more than four answer options and more than one correct answer. Each SR test question is worth either two or three points.

Text-Dependent Analysis Question: Unlike a prompt, the TDA question is a text-dependent analysis, based on a passage or passage set that each student has read during the test event. There are three response pages in the paper-and-pencil format and up to 5000 characters in the online format. Both Literature and Informational Texts are addressed through this item type. Students must draw on basic writing skills while inferring and synthesizing information from the passage in order to develop a comprehensive, holistic essay response. The demand required of a student's reading and writing skills in response to a TDA coincides with the similar demands required for a student to be college and career ready. The TDA is scored using a holistic scoring guideline on a 1–4-point scale.

Prompt: Each of this type of test question includes an extended response space in which the student composes an answer based on a provided prompt. There are two response pages in the paper-and-pencil format and up to 3000 characters in the online format. A prompt is based on a specific mode of writing and may ask the student to write an opinion essay, an informative essay, or a narrative essay. Each prompt is scored on a 1–4-point scale using a holistic, mode-specific scoring guideline. In this sampler, examples of student responses representing each score point can be combined with the mode-specific scoring guideline to form a practical scoring guide.

Testing Time and Mode of Testing Delivery for the PCS-Based PSSA

The PSSA is delivered in traditional paper-and-pencil format as well as in an online format. The estimated time to respond to a test question is the same for both methods of test delivery. The following table shows the estimated response time for each item type.

During an official test administration, students are given additional time as necessary to complete the test questions.

Item Type	MC	SR	TDA	P
Estimated Response Time (in minutes)	1.5	3 to 5	30	30

English Language Arts Grade 5

This English Language Arts Sampler is composed of 3 passages, 23 multiple-choice questions, 4 selected-response questions, 2 text-dependent analysis questions, 12 standalone multiple-choice questions, and 3 mode-specific prompts.

In this sampler, the first passage is followed by a set of multiple-choice questions and a selected-response question. The second passage is followed by a set of multiple-choice questions, selected-response questions, and a text-dependent analysis question. The third passage is followed by a set of multiple-choice questions, a selected-response question and a text-dependent analysis question.

Each question is preceded by the Assessment Anchor and Eligible Content coding. The correct answer is indicated by an asterisk (*). Each question is followed by a brief analysis or rationale. Each text-dependent analysis question is displayed with an item-specific scoring guideline and examples of student responses with scores and annotations. Sample student responses for each of the scoring levels are also included for the prompts.

The PCS-Based PSSA may be administered in paper-and-pencil format or online. As a result, this sampler includes samples of text-dependent analysis question responses and mode-specific prompt responses in both formats. A sample online response is noted by the symbol, .

PASSAGE 1

Read the following poem about the first humans to land on the moon. Then answer questions 1–7.

First Men on the Moon

by J. Patrick Lewis

“The Eagle has landed!”
Apollo 11 Commander Neil A. Armstrong

“A magnificent desolation!”
Air Force Colonel Edwin E. “Buzz” Aldrin, Jr.

July 20, 1969

That afternoon in mid-July,
Two pilgrims watched from distant space
The Moon ballooning in the sky,
They rose to meet it face-to-face.

Their spidery spaceship Eagle dropped
Down gently on the lunar sand.
And when the module’s engines stopped,
Cold silence fell across the land.

The first man down the ladder, Neil,
Spoke words that we remember now—
“Small step for man . . .” It made us feel
As if we too were there somehow.

Then Neil planted the flag and Buzz
Collected lunar rocks and dust.
They hopped like kangaroos because
Of gravity. Or wanderlust.

A quarter million miles away,
One small blue planet watched in awe.
And no one who was there that day
Will soon forget the Moon they saw.

MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONSE05.A-V.4.1.2

1. Read the line from the poem.

“The Moon ballooning in the sky,”

What does the metaphor in the line suggest?

- * A. The Moon appears to grow in size.
- B. The Moon appears to move swiftly.
- C. The Moon is brightly colored.
- D. The Moon has a perfect shape.

The student is asked to infer the meaning of a given metaphor. Option A is the correct answer since the word “ballooning” suggests that the Moon becomes larger. As the spacecraft gets closer to the Moon, it does appear to get larger. Options B, C, and D are not supported by the poem.

E05.A-K.1.1.1

2. Read the line from the poem.

“They rose to meet it face-to-face.”

What is the meaning of the line?

- A. They were able to climb up onto the surface of the Moon from the spaceship.
- B. There were many people traveling together to the Moon.
- * C. They were close enough to see the surface of the Moon from the spaceship.
- D. There were people waiting to meet them on the Moon.

The student is asked to interpret the meaning of a given idiom. Option C is the correct answer since “face-to-face” indicates that the spacecraft was directly in front of the Moon. Options B and D are not supported by information in the passage. Option A is not correct since the astronauts had to land the spacecraft and then descend down a ladder onto the surface of the Moon.

E05.A-V.4.1.1

3. The meaning of the Latin root “luna” helps the reader know that the word “lunar” refers to

- * A. the Moon.
- B. space.
- C. planets.
- D. the Earth.

The student is asked to use the Latin root to identify the meaning of the word “lunar.” Option A is the correct answer since “luna” is the Latin name for the Moon. Options B, C, and D are not related to the given Latin root.

E05.A-V.4.1.2

4. Read the line from the poem.

“Cold silence fell across the land.”

What does the line most likely mean?

- A. The temperature dropped on the Moon.
- * B. It became suddenly very quiet on the Moon.
- C. It was cold on the spaceship going to the Moon.
- D. The men talked quietly on the spaceship to the Moon.

The student is asked to interpret the meaning of a line from the poem that contains figurative language. Option B is the correct answer since the verb “fell” indicates that it was suddenly quiet on the Moon. Options A and C refer to temperature and not to sound. Option D is not supported by information in the poem.

E05.A-K.1.1.1

5. Which line from the poem best supports the inference that the first humans on the Moon were explorers approaching a new frontier?

- A. “That afternoon in mid-July,”
- * B. “Two pilgrims watched from distant space”
- C. “The first man down the ladder, Neil,”
- D. “Spoke words that we remember now —”

The student is asked to identify lines from the poem that support the given inference. Option B is the correct answer since the word “pilgrims” means people who journey long distances. Options A and D do not relate to the journey. Option C refers to Neil Armstrong being literally the first person to go down the ladder from the spacecraft.

E05.A-C.2.1.1

6. How does the point of view in the poem influence how the landing on the Moon is described?
- A. It reveals to the reader what viewers from home said about the landing.
 - * B. It indicates to the reader the speaker's thoughts about the landing.
 - C. It tells the reader what the speaker said to the men about the landing.
 - D. It informs the reader of one reporter's opinions about the landing.

The student is asked to determine how the point of view in the poem influences how the landing on the Moon is described. Option B is the correct answer since the speaker reveals his or her thoughts and feelings about that day. The speaker says that "It made us feel/As if we too were there somehow." Options A, C, and D are not supported by information in the poem.

SELECTED-RESPONSE QUESTION

E05.A-K.1.1.2

7. This question has two parts. Answer Part One and then answer Part Two.

Part One

Which theme is best supported by the speaker's description of the first landing on the Moon?

- A. Teamwork makes difficult tasks possible.
- B. Travel can be dangerous but also rewarding.
- C. Scientific discovery is not valued enough.
- * D. Adventure brings about excitement and wonder.

Part Two

Which line from the poem best supports the answer in Part One? Choose one answer.

- A. "A quarter million miles away,"
- B. "They hopped like kangaroos . . ."
- C. "Then Neil planted the flag . . ."
- * D. "One small blue planet watched in awe."

The student is asked to identify the theme of the poem and to select details from the poem that support the theme.

Part One: Option D is the correct answer since the speaker indicates that people who saw the landing on the Moon were filled with wonder. The speaker says that "A quarter million miles away,/One small blue planet watched in awe." In addition, the quotes from the astronauts express excitement about their trip to the Moon. Option A is not supported by the poem, since there is no direct evidence that the trip was difficult. Option B is not supported by the poem, since there is no evidence that the trip was dangerous. Option C is not supported by evidence in the poem. In fact, the speaker communicates to the reader that the scientific exploration of the Moon was highly respected.

Part Two: Option D is the correct answer since this line expresses the theme that adventure brings about a feeling of wonder. Option A only shows that the trip to the Moon was a distant one. Options B and C show what the public saw the astronauts do while on the Moon.

PASSAGE 2

The next three passages are about bald eagles. Read the first passage and answer questions 8–11. Then, read the second passage and answer questions 12–13. Then, read the third passage and answer questions 14–19.

The Eagles Are Back!

by Dorothy Hinshaw Patent

In his 1999 Fourth of July celebration speech, President Bill Clinton declared that our national symbol, the bald eagle, was no longer endangered. This welcome news for wildlife wasn't just the result of good luck. For more than twenty years, scientists and volunteers across the country have worked to help the bald eagle come back. And come back it did.

Once bald eagles spread their wings over every state except Hawaii. Before European settlement, between 25,000 and 75,000 bald eagles lived in the lower forty-eight states, with thousands more in Alaska. But as settlers cut down trees and turned wilderness into towns and cities, the number of eagles began to decline.

At first the number of eagles dwindled slowly. Then during the late 1940s, bald eagle populations began to plummet. And where eagles did survive, few raised chicks. By the mid-1960s many biologists feared our national bird would disappear forever. Fewer than five hundred breeding pairs of bald eagles were left in the lower forty-eight states.

Luckily, scientists soon discovered the major cause of the bald eagle's decline—the pesticide DDT. Starting in the late 1940s, DDT was widely used to control insects such as mosquitoes and crop pests. But while it did kill pests, DDT also got into the food chain, and eagles ate contaminated fish and other prey. The DDT didn't kill eagles, but it did weaken the shells of their eggs. When a parent nestled up to its eggs to warm them, the shells would break, killing the developing birds inside. Other birds, such as pelicans and ospreys, were having the same problem.

Something had to be done. In 1972 the U.S. government banned DDT. Then in 1973 the all-important Endangered Species Act was passed by Congress. The Endangered Species Act protects plants and animals whose populations are so small that they might disappear forever. If a species is in danger of becoming extinct, it is listed as endangered. A species at risk of becoming endangered is called threatened. The bald eagle was listed as endangered in forty-three states and threatened in five. Only in Alaska was the bald eagle holding its own.

Eagles started to recover in 1974 when the effects of leftover DDT began to wear off. But the government didn't stop there. Places where bald eagles lived were protected. Eagles require gigantic trees to build their huge nests. They feed largely on fish and water birds, so they need to live near undisturbed lakes, ponds, and rivers. When bald eagles nested on public land, people were kept away so the birds wouldn't be bothered. And anyone who killed a bald eagle had to pay a large fine.

Because a pair of eagles normally produces just two eggs each year, scientists searched for ways to increase the number of eagles faster. One way to do this was to raise eagle chicks in captivity. Bald eagles were brought to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Maryland and bred there. As soon as a female eagle laid a clutch of eggs, they were removed and kept warm so that they would hatch. Most birds then laid two more eggs, which they were allowed to care for. The extra eggs could be placed in the nest of a pair of eagles whose eggs didn't hatch. The foster parents would then raise the chick or chicks as their own. In this way, four eaglets instead of two could be raised from each mated pair. By the time the program ended in 1988, 124 bald eagles had been hatched there for release into the wild.

Young eagles can learn to live on their own through a method called hacking. When captive eaglets are eight weeks old, they are given a new home high on a tower or in an abandoned eagle nest in a good eagle habitat. Humans who stay out of sight bring food for the young birds until they can fly and hunt well enough to feed themselves.

All the work to save bald eagles paid off. The number of bald eagles in the lower forty-eight states has increased steadily since 1975.

MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONSE05.B-K.1.1.2

8. Read the details from “The Eagles Are Back!”

“But while it did kill pests, DDT also got into the food chain, and eagles ate contaminated fish and other prey.”

“The extra eggs could be placed in the nest of a pair of eagles whose eggs didn’t hatch.”

Which main ideas of the passage are supported by the details?

- A. The bald eagle has been endangered in the past, and the bald eagle is now near extinction.
- * B. People were responsible for the bald eagle’s decline, and people have helped the bald eagle return.
- C. The bald eagle has lived in many states, and the bald eagle needs to live near lakes and rivers.
- D. People were celebrating the bald eagle’s return, and people have cut down trees where bald eagles lived.

The student is asked to identify the main ideas of the passage from given details. Option B is the correct answer since the two given details show how humans have affected the bald eagle population in both negative, and later, positive ways. Option A is erroneous information and not based on the passage. Options C and D are both details from the passage, but they are not main ideas supported by the given sentences.

E05.B-V.4.1.1

9. What does the word contaminated mean as it is used in the passage?

- * A. poisoned
- B. furious
- C. astonished
- D. worthless

The student is asked to identify the meaning of the word “contaminated” using context clues. Option A is the correct answer. In the passage, the words “kill” and “weaken” suggest that “contaminated” relates to poison. Options B, C, and D are not supported by context clues in the passage.

E05.B-V.4.1.2

10. In “The Eagles Are Back!” which word is an antonym for gigantic?

- A. peaceful
- B. steady
- C. bare
- * D. small

The student is asked to identify an antonym for the word “gigantic.” Option D is the correct answer since “small” has the opposite meaning of “gigantic.” The meaning is clued by the words “huge nests,” which are in the same sentence. Options A, B, and C are not antonyms for the given word and are not supported by the context of the passage.

E05.B-C.3.1.1

11. How does the author of “The Eagles Are Back!” support the point “by the mid-1960s many biologists feared our national bird would disappear forever”?

- A. by stating the opinion, “this welcome news for wildlife wasn’t just the result of good luck”
- * B. by providing the statistic, “fewer than five hundred breeding pairs of bald eagles were left in the lower forty-eight states”
- C. by including the detail, “eagles started to recover in 1974 when the effects of leftover DDT began to wear off”
- D. by stating the fact, “by the time the program ended in 1988, 124 bald eagles had been hatched there for release into the wild”

The student is asked to determine how the author supports the point that scientists feared the bald eagle would disappear forever. Option B is the correct answer since it shows how the bald eagle population had dwindled to a low number. Options A, C, and D relate to the increase in the bald eagle population.

Read the second passage and answer questions 12–13.

Bald eagles make a comeback in Chicago

The following passage is from a television news report that was broadcasted on April 16, 2012. Brian Williams and Kevin Tibbles are television news reporters.

Brian Williams (anchor): Finally tonight, bald eagles, the symbol of America, came close to being totally wiped out in America. But they’ve made a remarkable comeback, as you may know, in recent years. So much so, they’re not just showing up in the wilds of Maine and Montana. They may live a lot closer to you than you think. Our report from NBC’s Kevin Tibbles.

Kevin Tibbles (reporting): Some new neighbors are raising a family in St. Paul, Minnesota. In the 50 years Stan Wandersee’s lived in this house, he’s seen many come and go, but never any like these.

Mr. Stan Wandersee: This is a—this is a gift of nature.

Tibbles: The bald eagle is returning to areas [of] urban sprawl [that] pollution forced it to abandon decades ago.

Ms. Megan Ross (Lincoln Park Zoo, Chicago, Illinois): DDT was a really big problem for the bald eagles. Bald eagles in particular were not able to form appropriate shells, and so, since they weren’t able to reproduce, their numbers really plummeted.

Tibbles: Once on the endangered species list, this majestic symbol of American pride is spreading its wings. And many can now see them in a setting that doesn’t involve a trip to the zoo.

Ms. Ross: I think bald eagles are just such majestic creatures. It’ll be really nice and exciting to see them right in our backyard.

Tibbles: When this pair nested at the Alcoa plant in Davenport, Iowa, employees set up a webcam to share these intimate pictures of the eaglets with the world. It’s had five million views this year alone.

This secluded forest preserve sits hidden from the roughly 10 million people who call Chicago home. Yet here, just a few miles from the skyscrapers, is something that hasn’t been seen in 100 years: an eagle’s nest. The fact that they’ve come back, does that tell us anything?

Mr. Chris Merenowicz (Forest Preserve District of Cook County, Illinois): I think it tells us a lot. It tells us that we’re doing the right thing.

Tibbles: And it was a close call. By the 1960s, just 450 pairs of eagles remained in the lower 48 states. Today those numbers have soared to more than 9,000, giving hope these treasured icons can once again live side by side with the humans who cherish them. Kevin Tibbles, NBC News, Chicago.

MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONE05.B-V.4.1.1

12. Read the sentences from “Bald eagles make a comeback in Chicago.”

“By the 1960s, just 450 pairs of eagles remained in the lower 48 states. Today those numbers have soared to more than 9,000 . . .”

What does the word soared mean as it is used in the sentences?

- * A. risen
- B. surprised
- C. mistaken
- D. found

The student is asked to determine the meaning of the word “soared.” Option A is the correct answer since one meaning of “soared” is “risen.” Options B, C, and D are not supported by the context of the given sentences.

SELECTED-RESPONSE QUESTION

E05.B-K.1.1.1

13. This question has two parts. Answer Part One and then answer Part Two.

Part One

What is an inference that can be drawn from “Bald eagles make a comeback in Chicago”?

- * A. People are very interested in seeing bald eagles in the wild.
- B. Bald eagles only live in urban areas.
- C. Media coverage has had a negative impact on the eagles.
- D. In the future the eagle population will decrease.

Part Two

Which sentence from the passage best supports the inference in Part One?
Choose one answer.

- A. “DDT was a really big problem for the bald eagles.”
- B. “Some new neighbors are raising a family in St. Paul, Minnesota.”
- * C. “It’s had five million views this year alone.”
- D. “It tells us that we’re doing the right thing.”

The student is asked to select an inference based on information in the passage and then to select a sentence from the passage that best supports the inference.

Part One: Option A is the correct answer since the passage states that Stan Wandersee feels that eagles in his backyard are “a gift.” Also, the webcam set up at the Alcoa plant in Iowa was very popular. Options B and C contain erroneous information. Option D is not supported by information in the passage.

Part Two: Option C is the correct answer since it refers to the popularity of a webcam that shows video of bald eagles. Options A, B, and D do not relate to the correct inference in Part One.

Read the third passage and answer questions 14–19.

Bald eagle deaths raising concerns

By Matthew Tresaugue
San Antonio Express-News

Saturday, April 7, 2012 — At least seven bald eagles have died in eastern Texas in the past year because of unintended encounters with power lines, an alarming rate of death at a time when the once-endangered species is rebounding, federal wildlife officials said.

Jim Stinebaugh, a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service special agent based in Houston, said the raptors died from electrocutions or impacts involving power lines and poles in six counties, including Harris.

“It is happening more often, and because of the eagles’ resurgence, it is going to increase,” he said.

The bald eagle, a national symbol almost wiped out by pesticide, pollution and hunters in the 1960s, is flourishing again in Texas and across the country. The Interior Department removed the large and charismatic bird from the protection of the Endangered Species Act five years ago, with about 10,000 mating pairs nationwide.

At the time the species’ status changed, Texas had 156 breeding pairs, up from a historic low of five in 1970, according to the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife.

Since then, the state agency has not conducted annual population surveys of bald eagles because of the financial cost, said Brent Ortego, a state biologist.

Ortego said he thinks the eagle population has continued to grow at a rate of about 10 percent a year.

“We think they are doing OK,” he said, “but we do not have the data.”

Still, Ortego said the number of deaths in the past year is high and “those are just the ones they found.”

As the population grows, the birds have had to adapt to the hubbub of humanity. They prefer forested areas near rivers and lakes, the same kind of places that also are drawing more people, more buildings and more energy needs.

Power poles and lines are particularly attractive to birds, especially eagles, hawks and falcons, which use them to spot prey. The problem arises when electricity transmission wires are within the distance of an eagle’s wingspan, which ranges from 6 feet to 8 feet.

“The danger comes from the potential to touch two lines,” said Jeff DallaRosa, ecological programs manager for CenterPoint Energy Inc., which delivers power to Houston. “The eagle is such a large bird that a lot of poles do not have that kind of spacing.”

In January, an eagle carrying prey struck CenterPoint lines near the San Jacinto River in east Harris County. Crews found the dead bird while working to restore power in the area after the incident.

CenterPoint responded by providing a plan to prevent electrocutions to federal authorities. The strategies include installing “raptor guards” that prevent eagles from roosting on wires and poles and working with Houston Audubon and other bird enthusiasts to identify lines near nests for extra precautions.

“The young ones can be awkward and do not make the best decisions,” DallaRosa said.

Authorities can seek criminal prosecution of companies and others for the bird deaths under the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act and the Migratory Bird Treaty. Stinebaugh, however, said companies such as CenterPoint Energy recognize the problem and have done a good job taking corrective actions.

MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONSE05.B-V.4.1.1

14. In “Bald eagle deaths raising concerns,” the meaning of the Latin prefix “trans-” helps the reader know that “transmission” means
- A. communication above.
 - B. communication beneath.
 - C. communication before.
 - * D. communication across.

The student is asked to use the Latin prefix “trans-” to determine the meaning of the word “transmission.” Option D is the correct answer since “trans-” means “across.” Options A, B, and C do not contain the correct meaning of the given prefix.

E05.B-V.4.1.2

15. In “Bald eagle deaths raising concerns,” which word is a synonym for restore?
- A. react
 - B. reflect
 - C. relate
 - * D. repair

The student is asked to identify a synonym for the word “restore.” Option D is the correct answer. The power company’s efforts to “restore” power indicate that power was off, and they were attempting to repair the problem. Options A, B, and C are not synonyms for the given word and do not make sense in context.

SELECTED-RESPONSE QUESTION

E05.B-K.1.1.3

16. The following question has two parts. Answer Part One and then answer Part Two.

Part One

Based on “Bald eagle deaths raising concerns,” what is the relationship between the existence of power lines and the rate of bald eagle deaths?

- A. The materials that are used to build power lines affect the rate of bald eagle deaths.
- B. The pesticides used near power lines affect the rate of bald eagle deaths.
- * C. The distance power lines are from each other affects the rate of bald eagle deaths.
- D. The pollution created by power lines affects the rate of bald eagle deaths.

Part Two

What evidence from the passage supports your answer above? Choose two answers.

- * A. “. . . electricity transmission wires are within the distance of an eagle’s wingspan, . . .”
- * B. “ ‘The danger comes from the potential to touch two lines,’ . . .”
- C. “Power poles and lines are particularly attractive to birds, . . .”
- D. “Crews found the dead bird while working to restore power in the area . . .”

The student is asked to determine the relationship between the existence of power lines and the rate of bald eagle deaths and then to identify evidence from the passage to support this relationship.

Part One: Option C is the correct answer since it is a fact that some power lines are too close together. Options A, B, and D are not supported by information in the passage.

Part Two: Options A and B are the correct answers since they support the fact that the small distance between the power lines affects the rate of bald eagle deaths. Option C states that eagles find the power poles attractive but does not relate to the rate of bald eagle deaths. Option D relates to bald eagle deaths but not to the distance of the power lines.

Questions 17–19 refer to more than one passage. Be sure to read each question carefully.

MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONSE05.B-C.2.1.1

17. Which statement best describes the difference in the point of view of “The Eagles Are Back!” from the other two passages?
- A. “The Eagles Are Back!” is written from the point of view of a scientist interested in explaining the problems faced by bald eagles, while the other two passages are written from the point of view of biologists and politicians studying the effects of pesticides on bald eagles.
 - B. “The Eagles Are Back!” is written from the point of view of a student researching bald eagles, while the other two passages are written from the point of view of park rangers who discuss how parks have brought back bald eagles.
 - * C. “The Eagles Are Back!” is written from the point of view of an individual providing a general history of bald eagles throughout the country, while the other two passages are written from the point of view of reporters who discuss sightings of bald eagles in particular areas of the country.
 - D. “The Eagles Are Back!” is written from the point of view of a resident who has sighted bald eagles, while the other two passages are written from the point of view of historians who describe where bald eagles used to live.

The student is asked to identify the difference in the points of view of the three passages. Option C is the correct answer. “The Eagles Are Back!” is written by someone who is giving information about the population of bald eagles at different points in time. “Bald eagles make a comeback in Chicago” was written by two television news reporters. “Bald eagle deaths raising concerns” was written by a newspaper reporter. Options A, B, and D are not supported by information in the passages.

E05.B-C.2.1.2

18. What is the overall structure of all three passages?

- A. All three passages compare different ways that have been used to increase the number of bald eagles.
- * B. All three passages discuss the cause and effect of the bald eagle decreasing and then increasing in number.
- C. All three passages ask a question about how the bald eagle has increased in number and then answer it.
- D. All three passages discuss the issue of the decreasing number of bald eagles with details in order of importance.

The student is asked to identify the overall structure of the three passages. Option B is the correct answer since all three passages discuss how people have affected the number of bald eagles in negative and then in positive ways. Options A, C, and D are not supported by information in the passages.

TEXT-DEPENDENT ANALYSIS QUESTION STUDENT RESPONSES

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 4

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

Since the 1960s people have been concerned about the numbers of bald eagles. Many different people have taken action to help the bald eagle increase in numbers.

When people realized that a pesticide (DDT) was contaminating the eagles' food supply and making their eggs weak, the government banned DDT and that helped eagles when the poison wore off. They were able to have strong eggs again, so the babies had a better chance to survive. The government also put the eagle on the Endangered Species List because "fewer than five hundred breeding pairs of bald eagles were left in the lower forty-eight states." The government also protected their habitat and kept people away because eagles like peaceful spots near lakes and rivers.

At the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Maryland, people raised eagle chicks to be set free in the wild, and they also helped by taking two eggs from one pair of eagles and giving them to another pair of eagles to raise. The first pair usually had another set of eggs, so then two pairs of eagles were each able to raise 2 babies each. "By the time the program ended in 1988, 124 bald eagles had been hatched there for release into the wild."

According to the passage from the television news report, employees at a Iowa Alcoa plant set up a webcam so people could watch a pair of eagles raise their eaglets. Also, for the first time in 100 years, there is an eagle nest in Chicago.

Unfortunately, as eagles increase there is increased danger for them. The newspaper article from the San Antonio Express-News says that as eagle numbers increase, the number of deaths increase too because there are so many eagles and some of them are dying by electrocuting on power lines or crashing into the poles. CenterPoint Energy and the Houston Audobon are developing ways to put "raptor guards" on the power lines so eagles won't die on them where there are many eagles like around lakes and where there is a nest.

Because of all these people bald eagles "have soared to more than 9,000".

The response effectively addresses all parts of the task, demonstrating an in-depth understanding of the texts. The student analyzes explicit and implicit meanings ("The government also put the eagle on the Endangered Species List" and "the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Maryland, people raised eagle chicks to be set free") from the texts, effectively supporting the main idea ("Many different people have taken action to help the bald eagle increase in numbers"). Substantial, accurate, and direct reference to the texts ("fewer than five hundred breeding pairs of bald eagles were left in the lower forty-eight states," "a Iowa Alcoa plant set up a webcam," and "CenterPoint Energy and the Houston Audobon are developing ways to put 'raptor guards' on the power lines") using relevant key details and facts supports the main idea. The student has a clear organizational structure that effectively supports the focus and ideas, including an effective introduction, transitions to link ideas, ideas grouped in a logical order, and a conclusion related to the main idea and purpose. Precise language drawn from the texts ("a pesticide (DDT)," "124 bald eagles had been hatched there for release into the wild," "for the first time in 100 years," and "'raptor guards' ") is effectively used to explain the topic. The response is free of convention errors.

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

Many different people have done many different things to help the bald eagle increase in numbers. Scientists learned that the pesticide DDT was in the food chain and harming eagle's eggs, the government banned it. This helped eagles because the poison eventually went away and the eggs got stronger. The government also put the eagle on the Endangered Species List because it was like the eagle was going to be extinct. The government where they nest and kept people away because eagles like peaceful spots without people around. People raised eagle chicks to be let go in the wild in Maryland. They also helped eagles by taking the eggs from one pair of eagles and giving them to eagles who had their baby's die. This way they could help even more eagles get born. The passage says they let 124 of the eagles go in the wild. There is proof that eagle numbers are increasing. Around the U.S. eagles are not rare any more. There are eagles in Chicago for the first time in 100 years and someone in Minnesota has eagles living in his backyard. But, Because there are so many eagles now, more of them get killed.

Eagles are getting killed when they hit electrical wires, so people are putting up "raptor guards" so the eagles don't get killed by the wires. I'm sure there are a lot more people helping eagles too because there are many many more eagles now than 50 years ago. I wish I could thank them all.

The response effectively addresses all parts of the task, demonstrating an in-depth, analytic understanding of the texts. The student analyzes explicit and implicit meanings ("the pesticide DDT was in the food chain and harming eagle's eggs, the government banned it," "Around the U.S. eagles are not rare any more," and "I'm sure there are alot more people helping eagles too because there are many many more eagles now") from the texts, effectively supporting the main idea ("Many different people have done many different things to help the bald eagle increase in numbers"). Substantial, accurate, and direct reference to the texts ("where they nest and kept people away," "People raised eagle chicks to be let go in the wild in Maryland," "eagles in Chicago for the first time in 100 years," and "people are putting up 'raptor guards' ") supports the main idea. The student employs a strong organizational structure that effectively supports the writer's ideas, including an effective introduction, transitions, ideas grouped in a logical order, and a conclusion related to the main idea and purpose. Precise language drawn from the texts ("DDT was in the food chain," "they let 124 of the eagles go in the wild," and " 'raptor guards' ") is effectively used to explain the topic and convey events. There are errors in spelling ("evenchualy," "baby's" for babies, and "alot"), usage ("eagles who" instead of eagles that), and capitalization ("Because"); however, these errors do not interfere with meaning.

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

People are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers by protecting it, helping them have baby eagles and giving them a place to live.

Once in America people were scared eagles would die out or become extinct but they didn't know why until someone figured out it was DDT that was killing them because it made their egg shells too fragile to live. The government banned DDT in 1972. A year later the government made the eagle "endangered" and protected it and other rare animals with the Endangered Species act. Now people would get in trouble if they bothered eagles or if they killed them.

In Maryland, bald eagles are brought to a center for birds and they raise eagle chicks. Eggs from a pair of eagles are taken from them and given to a different pair of eagles who don't have babies so they could raise them. Don't worry though, the other pair of eagles usually laid another pair of eggs for themselves.

According to the passage about the TV news, there is a "secluded forest preserve sits hidden" and there is a eagle's nest there for the first time in a hundred years!

Because there's so many eagles now, some of them are dying because they hit power lines when they fly or get electrocuted when they land on wires. So people in Texas are installing "raptor guards" to protect the eagles from the power lines and working with bird lovers to work on areas, especially where there are nests nearby.

Because of all these things, President Bill Clinton said the eagle wasn't endangered anymore in 1999.

The response adequately analyzes how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers, demonstrating sufficient understanding of the texts. The student analyzes both explicit and implicit meanings from the texts to support the main idea ("People are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers by protecting it, helping them have baby eagles and giving them a place to live"). Direct reference to the texts ("someone figured out it was DDT that was killing them," "The government banned DDT in 1972," "government made the eagle 'endangered' and protected it and other rare animals with the Endangered Species act," "In Maryland, bald eagles are b[r]ought to a center for birds and they raise eagle chicks," and "people in Texas are installing 'raptor gaurds' to protect the eagles [from electrocution]"), using relevant details, examples, and facts, is provided to support the main idea. Clearer references to the main idea would strengthen the analysis. The student employs an appropriate organizational structure consisting of a logical, chronological order of events from the texts, surrounded by a clear introduction and conclusion. There is an appropriate use of transitions to link ideas in this response ("A year later," "Now people would," and "Don't worry though"). An error in grammar ("there's" for there are) and two spelling errors ("lectrocuted" and "gaurds") are present; however, these do not interfere with meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 3

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

People help the bald eagles increase in numbers by trying to protect them and protect where they live.

There were hardly eagles left in America and people thought they would be extinct but nobody knew why. Eventually they found out that DDT was killing baby eagles because the shells weren't hard enough so the government banned it and made the eagle protected on the Endangered Species act. This meant that nobody could do anything to eagles.

Some people at a research center are helping to raise eagle chicks. Eggs are taken from parents of one eagle and given to different parents to raise. When they grewed up, they let them go into the wild. That helped the eagles.

In the second passage, it says that there is a wilderness preserve near a big city and there is an eagle's nest there for the first time in over one hundred years! So that shows that the eagles are increase in numbers.

Now that there are lots of eagles again, there's new problems like sometimes they land on electrical power lines. People decided to put up guards to protect the eagles from getting electrocuted. Other people are helping out where there are many eagles like around lakes and where they have nests.

Now eagles are not that endangered. They aren't even on the endangered species list anymore. That is how people have helped the bald eagles increase in numbers.

The response adequately analyzes how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers, demonstrating sufficient understanding of the texts. The student analyzes explicit and implicit meanings from the texts to support the main idea ("People help the bald eagles increase in numbers by trying to protect them and protect where they live"). Direct reference to the texts ("DDT was killing baby eagles because the shells weren't hard enough so the government banned it," "made the eagle protected on the Endangered Species act," "there is a wilderness preserve near a big city and there is an eagle's nest there for the first time in over one hundred years") is provided in support of the main idea. Additional and/or more specific, relevant details, examples, or quotes from the texts would strengthen the analysis. The student employs an appropriate organizational structure consisting of a logical, chronological order of events from the texts with a clear introductory statement and conclusion. The response features errors in grammar ("growed" and "there's"); however, the errors present do not interfere with meaning.

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

Have you ever wondered how people help the bald eagle increase in numbers? If people didn't there might not be any eagles left except in a zoo.

A long time ago, eagles were getting sick from poison and there weren't very many left, so the government protected them from being extinct. The government outlawed poison and made the eagle "endangered. Some people in Maryland raise baby eagles and release them into the wild and that helps eagles increase in numbers. In Chicago they made a secluded forest for eagles and now they are there and they haven't been for like a 100 years. If they didn't do that, there might not be any eagles there. In Texas eagles were dying by electricity, so the company put up burys to keep the eagles away so they won't get hurt.

So now you know how people help the bald eagle increase in numbers.

The response inconsistently addresses the task, demonstrating partial understanding of the texts. There is weak analysis of the explicit meanings from the texts ("If people didn't [help] there might not be any eagles left except in a zoo"). There is weak reference to specific, relevant details from the texts ("eagles were getting sick from poison and there weren't very many left, so the government protected them from being extinct"). The response also has a weak organizational structure including a simple introduction and an equally simple conclusion. Transitions are used inconsistently ("If they didn't do that"). There is little use of precise language and vocabulary drawn from the texts to explain the topic ("Some people in Maryland"). The response contains errors in punctuation ("were'nt," "have'nt," "did'nt," and "wo'nt"), usage ("maid" for made and "buryers" for barriers), and spelling ("outlowed" and "poisin") that sometimes interfere with meaning.

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

There were almost no eagles left until people helped bald eagles increase in numbers. One way people helped was by banning DDT. DDT is a poison that makes eagles lose their babies. After the DDT wore off, eagles began to increase in numbers.

Another way people helped was that in Maryland people would raise baby eagles and release them into the wild and they would give chicks from other eagles to eagles that didn't have any so they could raise a family too. This also helped the bald eagle increase in numbers. In other places eagles are dying because they hit electric wires so companys are putting up guards to keep the eagles safe in increase in numbers.

Now, eagles are back and people have helped the bald eagle increase in numbers.

The response inconsistently addresses the task, demonstrating partial understanding of the texts. There is weak analysis of explicit meanings from the texts ("There were almost no eagles left until people helped bald eagles increase in numbers"). The response lacks specific, relevant details from the texts. There is weak reference to the main ideas and relevant details ("DDT is a poison that makes eagles lose their babies" and "in Maryland people would raise baby eagles"). The response has a weak organizational structure with a simple introduction and a simplistic conclusion. The response does feature transitions ("After the DDT wore off," "Another way," and "This also helped"); however, there is little use of precise language and vocabulary drawn from the texts to explain the topic. The response contains an error in spelling ("companys" for companies).

19. The passages discuss the impact that people have had on the bald eagle. Write an essay analyzing how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Use information from all three passages to support your response.

Here are some ways that people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. The bald eagle prefer frosted areas like rivers and lakes. At the Chicago Zoo DDT was a really big problem for bald eagles. Houston audobon and other bird enthusiasts identify lines near nests for extera precautions. Young ones can be awkward. Authorites can seek criminal prosecution under the law if someone hurts an eagle. Those are ways that people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers.

The response minimally addresses the task of explaining how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers, demonstrating inadequate understanding of the texts. Minimal reference to the main idea is evident. The response fails to demonstrate a true analysis of the texts. References to the texts are insufficient and often inaccurate ("At the Chicago Zoo DDT was a really big problem for bald eagles"). Much of the response is composed of inaccurate fragments of ideas from various portions of the passages. There is a minimal introduction ("Here are some ways"), and the conclusion is simplistic ("Those are ways that people are helping"). Minimal evidence of an organizational structure is present, including a lack of transitions to connect ideas. Although there is some precise language drawn from the texts, it is employed haphazardly ("Young ones can be awkward"). Errors present in spelling ("entusiasts" and "Authorites"), and capitalization ("audobon") interfere with meaning.

One way people are helping bald eagles is the government stopped making the poison that was killing the baby eagles. Then the government made the eagle endangered so people couldn't hurt eagles anymore and now there are a lot of eagles thanks to people helping bald eagles increase in numbers.

The response minimally addresses the task of explaining how people are helping the bald eagle increase in numbers. Minimal reference to the main idea is evident, and the response does not demonstrate a true analysis of the texts. There is no introductory statement, and the conclusion is simplistic ("now there are a lot of eagles thanks to people"). References to the texts are insufficient and/or confused ("the government stopped making the poison" and "the government made the eagle endangered"). Minimal evidence of an organizational structure is present. The response is free of convention errors.

PASSAGE 3

Read the following passage about Anita Roddick. Then answer questions 20–29.

Anita Roddick Founder of The Body Shop

by Krista McLuskey

Early Years

Anita was born in Littlehampton, England, where her parents owned the Clifton Café. Anita's father, Henry, turned the Clifton Café into an American-style diner like the ones he had seen while living in the United States. It was complete with pinball machines, a jukebox, and Coca-Cola, which was not well known in England at that time. Suddenly, the café became very popular. Anita realized that the atmosphere in a business can make it successful.

When Anita was about ten years old, her mother took over the café. All the children were expected to work there after school and on weekends to help support the family. Meanwhile, Anita was completing her education. After finishing secondary school, she attended a teacher training college in the city of Bath.

Developing Skills

After graduating, Anita decided she wanted some adventure in her life. She traveled to Tahiti, New Hebrides, Australia, Madagascar, New Caledonia, and South Africa. In these places, Anita watched the local women use natural products to clean their skin and hair. She tried them and found they worked better than the products she used back in England.

After Anita returned to England, she met and married Gordon Roddick, with whom she had two daughters. Anita and Gordon worked hard running a hotel and restaurant. One day, Gordon announced that he wanted to take two years off to ride on horseback from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to New York City. Although Anita was not thrilled at this prospect, she knew that it was his dream. She had to plan how to support herself and the children while Gordon was away. She decided to run a little shop that would be open only from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. so that she could spend time with her daughters.

Anita decided that it would be a cosmetics shop selling products made from only natural ingredients. During her travels, she had seen how effective natural products were. She had noticed that women in those hot countries had silky smooth skin even though they were in the sun all the time.

After getting a £¹4,000 bank loan, Anita hired a chemist to develop the cosmetics. She told the chemist not to test the products on animals, even though that is normal practice in the cosmetics industry. Anita rented a store in Brighton, 20 miles (33 kilometers) from Littlehampton. She painted the inside dark green to hide stains on the walls. In March 1976, the first Body Shop opened, and it made £130 the first day.

Anita had only twenty-five products to sell. To fill the space in the shop, she packaged each product in five different sizes. She bought the cheapest containers she could find. Since she could not afford very many bottles, she asked customers to bring in their own to fill them in the store. In this way, Anita began recycling before it was commonly done.

Anita used unusual marketing tactics. To get customers into The Body Shop, she sprayed a trail of perfume down the street leading to the store to tempt people to come inside. She hung dried flowers from the ceiling and put bowls of scented potpourri on the counters.

Accomplishments

Within a year, Anita decided to open a second Body Shop in a nearby town. The bank refused to lend her any more money, so she teamed up with a partner who paid to set up the shop in return for half of the business. Gordon, her husband, returned from his travels and began to help by bottling the products and taking care of the finances.

Soon, people came to Anita wanting to open their own Body Shop stores with products supplied by her. Anita and Gordon agreed because this was a way of expanding the business. The first Body Shop franchises opened in 1978, one in England and one in Brussels, Belgium. Anita and Gordon always trained the new Body Shop owners, teaching them about skin and hair care, and about all the ingredients in the products.

During the next few years, the number of stores and franchises increased. Meanwhile, Anita invented new products whenever she saw a need. She created a peppermint lotion to soothe sore feet after several people, who had run a race, came into the store asking for foot lotion.

In 1984, Anita and Gordon decided to sell Body Shop shares on the stock market. By this time, they had thirty-eight shops in England and fifty-two shops in other countries. So many shares sold the first day on the stock market that overnight Anita and Gordon were millionaires.

Stock Market

Stock is the financial worth of a company divided into equal sections, called shares. One person can own all the stock in a company. If a company needs extra money to expand its business, it sometimes sells its stock to the public. Shares are sold to the public on the stock market, which is the place where people buy and sell shares in companies. When stock in a company is sold like this, many people own small parts of the company, and the profits are divided among the owners of these shares. The original owners lose some control because they have to answer to their shareholders if the company does not make a profit.

¹£—symbol for the pound sterling, the official currency of the United Kingdom, which includes England

Anita began thinking about the social responsibility that the business had. She wanted to help her community and the environment. She began by sponsoring posters for Greenpeace, which was trying to prevent hazardous waste from being dumped in the ocean. Next, she campaigned against the overhunting of whales. She put up posters in her shops and stickers on her bottles saying “Save the whales.” She also supported recycling and efforts to preserve the rain forest. Body Shop delivery trucks became billboards for Anita’s various causes. Her campaigns focused on human rights and environmental issues, such as protecting endangered species.

Anita’s business continues to grow. Today, The Body Shop has approximately 1,500 stores in forty-six countries.

- * B. The women in hot countries had beautiful skin even though they were often in the sun.
- C. Roddick used a bank loan to hire a chemist to develop her cosmetics.
- D. Local women used natural products on their skin and hair.

The student is asked to determine evidence from the passage that best supports the author’s point given in a sentence from the passage. Option B is the correct answer. E05.B-V.4.1.2

24. Which word is an antonym for soothe?

- A. relax
- B. imitate
- * C. agitate
- D. transform

The student is asked to identify the antonym for the word “soothe.” Option C is the correct answer since “agitate” means the opposite of “soothe.” Option A is a synonym for “soothe.” Options B and D are not supported by the context of the passage.

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Anita Roddick's family was important to her success because they served as role models and as support for her in later business dealings.

When she was young, Anita and her family all worked at her father's café. That is where Anita learned about pitching in and that the atmosphere of a business is very important to helping it be a success. Her father's American-style diner proved that to her. She also saw her mom was able to run the café by herself. Later Anita had to run the Body Shop by herself.

She and her husband Gordon worked together and ran a hotel and a restaurant. Because Gordon wanted to go on a long trip, Anita had to find a way to feed her Kids, so she decided to open a cosmetic shop and only had it open when her daughters were in school so she could be with them when they got home. So she had to work hard to make money while it was open.

Anita had learned from her father about unusual marketing and to lure customers to her store she would spray a trail of perfume for customers to follow. Within a year, she opened another shop and husband returned from his travels to help her bottle her products and run the finances of their business.

The hard work she had learned as a child and when she had to feed her family alone helped to make her so successful that when she sold stock for her company.

A black octagonal sign with a white border and the word "STOP" in white capital letters in the center.

STOP

The response effectively addresses all parts of the task, demonstrating an in-depth understanding of the text. The student analyzes both explicit and implicit meanings ("Anita had learned from her father about unusual marketing" and "at her father's café . . . Anita learned about pitching in") from the text, effectively supporting the main idea ("they served as role models and as support for her in later business dealings"). Substantial, accurate, and direct reference to the text ("the atmosphere of a business is very important to helping it be a success. Her father's American-style diner proved that to her"; "She and her husband Gordon worked together and ran a hotel and a restaurant"; and "Within a year, she opened another shop and husband returned from his travels to help her bottle her products and run the finances of their business") supports the main idea. The student has a strong organizational structure that effectively supports the focus, including an effective introduction, ideas grouped in a logical order, and a conclusion related to the main idea and purpose. Precise language ("American-style diner" and "a trail of perfume") is effectively used to explain the topic. There is a punctuation error (missing comma following the word "Later" at the end of the second paragraph) and an error in sentence formation (an overly coordinated sentence in the middle of the response); however, these errors do not interfere with meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 4

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Anita Roddick's family was important to her success because they taught her things and supported her decisions.

Anita worked at her father's café when she was young. The café was successful and "Anita realized that the atmosphere in a business is very important to helping it be a success." She also worked there when her mother took over the café.

After she graduated and went around the world, Anita saw woman using natural products on their skin and noticed they looked good even in hot, sunny places. She wanted to use them also because she thought these women looked better than women in England. Because her husband wanted to go on a long trip, Anita had to make money by herself, so she opened a store to sell the types of products she had learned about while travelling. She painted the store green to give it "atmosphere" like her dad's café, but it was really to hide stains on the wall.

In order to attract customers she would spray a trail of perfume to follow to her store because she knew about "unusual marketing tactics." Soon she was so successful that she opened another shop. Soon more and more stores were opening because the products were so good. When her husband returned from his travels he helped her run the business and handled the finances of their business.

Because of her family, Anita's business grew and grew until they sold it on the stock market and became millionaires overnight.

This response effectively addresses all parts of the task, demonstrating an in-depth understanding of the text. The student analyzes explicit and implicit meanings from the text ("Anita realized that the atmosphere in a business is very important to helping it be a success" and "they taught her things and supported her decisions"), effectively supporting the main idea (that her family members were sources of information as well as helpers). Substantial, accurate, and direct reference to the text ("Anita saw woman using natural products on their skin and noticed they looked good even in hot, sunny places," "She painted the store green to give it 'atmosphere' like her dad's café," and "she would spray a trail of perfume to follow to her store because she knew about 'unusual marketing tactics'") is evident. The response employs a strong organizational structure that effectively supports the focus. The introduction, development, and conclusion effectively support the topic. Precise language drawn from the text ("atmosphere in a business," "hot, sunny places" and "'unusual marketing tactics'") is effectively used to explain the topic. There are no errors in sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, capitalization, or punctuation that interfere with meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 3

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Anita's family was very important to her success. It is important because she learned how to run a business when her father had a café when she was young. And he taught her that a good "atmosphere" can make a business successful. In the passage it says that she and her husband worked hard running a hotel and restaurant. This tells me her family (husband) helped her with the business. But he left for two years which is why she opened the Body Shop, and why she had to work hard to support her kids. After her store was successful, Anita and Gordon sold shares in their store and got rich. That's how Anita's family was important to her success.

The response adequately analyzes how Anita Roddick's family was important to her success, demonstrating sufficient understanding of the text. The student analyzes both explicit and implicit meanings from the text ("she learned how to run a business when her father had a cafe") to support the main idea. Direct reference to the text ("he taught her that a good 'atmosphere' can make a business successful" and "it says that she and her husband worked hard running a hotel and restaurant") is provided to support the analysis. Additional relevant details, examples, or quotes would strengthen the analysis. The student employs an appropriate organizational structure consisting of a logical, chronological order of events from the passage. There is an appropriate use of transitions to link ideas in this response ("This tells me," "But he left for two years," and "After her store was successful"). An error is present in sentence formation (an overly coordinated sentence in the middle of the response); however, it does not interfere with meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 3

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Anita Roddick's father owned a very popular cafe'. Working there with her family, Anita learned how to work hard and that "the atmosphere in a business can make it successful." Also working at the cafe' she learned that you have to work hard to support a family, so when Anita had to run a business by herself, she only was open during the day so she could spend time with her children who weren't old enough to work at the store yet. Anita's husband was also a big help to her. He took care of the money and they expanded the business meaning it was even more successful. How Anita's family was important to her success is that they taught her about hard work and good ideas and now she is a millionaire.

This response adequately analyzes how Anita Roddick's family was important to her success, demonstrating sufficient understanding of the text. The student analyzes both explicit and implicit meanings from the text ("How Anita's family was important to her success is that they taught her about hard work and good ideas") to support the main idea. Direct reference to the text ("'the atmosphere in a business can make it successful'" and "when Anita had to run a business by herself, she only was open during the day so she could spend time with her children") supports the analysis; however, additional relevant details, examples, or quotes would further strengthen the analysis. The student employs an appropriate organizational structure consisting of a logical, chronological order of events from the passage. There is appropriate use of transitions to connect ideas ("Also working at the café"). Minor errors, such as missing commas, do not interfere with meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 2

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Anita's family was important to her in many ways. Her dad taught her how to run a restaurant and her mom did too after she took over the café. When she got married to Gordon Roddick they opened the Body Shop selling Cozmedics. Gordon did the money part and Anita made the stuff they sold. Because they were so good at it, they got more stores and evenchully became rich and successful.

The response inconsistently addresses the task, demonstrating partial understanding of the text. There is weak analysis of explicit meanings from the text ("dad taught her how to run a restaurant and her mom did too after she took over the café" and "Gordon did the money part") that somewhat supports ideas and inferences. The response lacks relevant, key details from the text. There is weak reference to the main ideas ("they got more stores and evenchully became rich"). The response, overall, has a weak organizational structure with a simple introduction and an only somewhat effective conclusion. Transitions are used inconsistently ("When she got married" and "Because they were so good at it"). There is little use of precise language and vocabulary drawn from the text to explain the topic. The response contains some errors in spelling ("cozmedics" and "evenchully") that sometimes interfere with meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 2

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Have you ever had a family member help you be successful? Anita Roddick did. First, her mom and dad let her work in their successful café, she learned a lot there. Next, she and her husband also had a café. So she was working with her family again. Then, when Anita wanted to make The Body Shop, her husband helped her with the money. The business grew and had 1,500 stores in 46 countries and when it was sold on the stock market, it was worth a million dollars. Without her family to help her, Anita might not have been successful.

This response inconsistently addresses the task, demonstrating partial understanding of the text. There is weak analysis of explicit meanings from the text ("her mom and dad let her work in their successful café, she learned a lot there") that somewhat supports ideas and inferences. There is weak reference to the main ideas and relevant details ("business grew and had 1,500 stores in 46 countries" and "when it was sold on the stock market, it was worth a million dollars") to support the writer's purpose. The response has a weak organizational structure incorporating a simple introduction and a somewhat effective conclusion. The organizational structure inconsistently supports the focus. Transitions used are simplistic ("First," "Next," and "Then"). There is some use of precise language and vocabulary drawn from the text ("The Body Shop" and "1,500 stores in 46 countries"). The response is free of convention errors that could impede meaning.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 1

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

First, her parents owned a cafe. Next the cafe became very popular. Her dad taught her why it was successful. Then, Anita made her own Body shop company and her husband helped her with it. Last, when they sold it, they got rich and Anita was successful. That's how her family helped her.

The response minimally addresses the task of analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success (the vague notion that Anita's Body Shop in some way emulated her parents' café). Minimal reference to the main idea is evident, and the response does not demonstrate any analysis of the text. There is minimal evidence of an introduction or development, and the conclusion is simplistic. References to the text are insufficient. Minimal evidence of an organizational structure is present. Although the response employs some simplistic transitions ("First," "Next," "Then," and "Last"), they do not clearly link ideas. There is little use of precise language drawn from the text.

E05.E.1.1 Response Score: 1

29. Anita Roddick had many achievements throughout her life. Write an essay analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success. Use information from the passage to support your response.

Anita grew up working at her family restrant and it was very popular. All the children work there. When she older her husband helped her when Anita opened a store of her own. They made her store very successful and opened up alot more and they were MILLIONAIRES!

The response minimally addresses the task of analyzing how Anita's family was important to her success (the vague notion that the success of The Body Shop was, in some ways, a reflection on the success of her parents' café). Minimal reference to the main idea is evident, and the response does not demonstrate analysis. There is minimal evidence of an introduction or conclusion, and the overall organizational structure is simplistic. Development is minimal at best. References to the text are insufficient, and there is little vocabulary drawn from the text. There are errors in sentence formation (first and last sentences are overly long/confusing) and usage ("All the children work there" and "When she older") that interfere with meaning.

STANDALONE MULTIPLE-CHOICE QUESTIONS

E05.D.1.1.1

30. Read the sentence.

After we sat down for dinner, we then passed the dishes of food around the table before eating.

Which underlined word functions as a conjunction in the sentence?

- * A. After
- B. for
- C. then
- D. before

The student is asked to analyze the underlined words to determine which word functions as a conjunction in the sentence. Option A is the correct answer since "After" functions as a subordinating conjunction in the sentence. Option B, "for," and option D, "before," function as prepositions in the sentence. Option C, "then," functions as an adverb.

E05.D.1.1.2

31. Which underlined verb or verb phrase is not used correctly?

- A. Mark completed his chores before the basketball game.
- * B. Hannah had pedaled her bike faster as she rides down the hill.
- C. I will have made seven hats for my friends by the end of the month.
- D. He has improved at playing soccer because he practices every morning.

The student is asked to analyze each sentence to determine which underlined verb or verb phrase is not used correctly. Option B is the correct answer since the verb phrase "had pedaled" does not match the tense of the rest of the sentence ("as she rides down the hill"). In option A, the verb "completed" correctly reflects the tense of the sentence. Likewise, the verb phrase in option C reflects the correct perfect tense in the sentence. In option D, the verb phrase "has improved" is used correctly.

E05.D.1.1.3

32. Read the paragraph.

- (1) The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania encourages citizens to plant rain gardens.
(2) Rain gardens capture storm water so that the water does not flow into storm drains.
(3) Existing low spots or shallow pits lined with gravel make ideal locations for rain gardens. (4) If you use native plants in your rain garden, it will be easy to take care of and might even have attracted birds and butterflies.

Which sentence in the paragraph has an error?

- A. sentence 1
- B. sentence 2
- C. sentence 3
- * D. sentence 4

The student is asked to analyze the paragraph to determine which sentence has an error. The error could be a mistake in spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, or usage. Option D is the correct answer since there is a verb tense error in sentence 4 ("have attracted" should be "attract"). In order to determine that sentence 1 is written correctly, the student needs to apply capitalization rules and evaluate the tense and agreement of the verb. Likewise, the student needs to apply knowledge about verbs and commas to determine that sentence 2 is also written correctly. The student needs to review sentence 3 for subject-verb agreement and spelling ("Existing," "shallow," "gravel," and "ideal") to determine that it is written correctly.

E05.D.1.1.4

33. Read the sentence.

When Alex arrived at the theater and entered the building, he remembered that he left his ticket at home.

Which part of the sentence has an error in verb tense?

- A. When Alex arrived at the theater
- B. and entered the building,
- C. he remembered that
- * D. he left his ticket at home.

The student is asked to analyze the sentence to determine which part of the sentence has an error in verb tense. Option D is the correct answer since "left" should be "had left" (leaving the ticket at home occurred before Alex arrived at the theater). The verb tenses in options A ("arrived"), B ("entered"), and C ("remembered") are used correctly.

E05.D.1.1.5

34. Read the sentence.

When I entered the fifth grade, I concluded that I would not only have to spend more time on my homework _____ plan my study time better.

Which word or words correctly complete the sentence?

- A. or
- B. nor
- * C. but also
- D. and also

Students are asked to review each answer option to determine which word or words correctly complete the sentence. Students may think that options A, B, and D are correct answers because each of them is a conjunction that may seem to complete the sentence; however, they are incorrect because they are not part of the correlative conjunction "not only." Option C is the correct answer because "but also" is part of the correlative conjunction "not only."

35. Read the paragraph.

(1) Mark loves music, so they want to join the school band next year. (2) Mark wants to play the trombone because he has a cousin who played it last year. (3) Mark's friend Jill is thinking about joining the band, too, and playing the trumpet because it is her favorite instrument. (4) The band teacher is happy that Mark and Jill want to join because she likes teaching new students.

Which sentence has a pronoun-antecedent agreement error?

- * A. sentence 1
- B. sentence 2
- C. sentence 3
- D. sentence 4

The student is asked to analyze the paragraph to determine which sentence has a pronoun-antecedent agreement error. Option A is the correct answer since it contains a pronoun-antecedent error ("they" should be "he" since the subject is "Mark"). In option B, the student has to check that the pronoun "he" matches the subject "Mark." In option C, the student needs to check that the pronoun "her" matches the subject "Jill." In option D, the student needs to check that the pronoun "she" matches the subject "the band teacher."

E05.D.1.2.2

36. Read the sentence.

Since Erica wanted to go with us she had to get ready in a hurry.

Where should a comma be added to correct the error?

- A. after Since
- B. after wanted
- * C. after us
- D. after ready

The student is asked to evaluate the sentence to determine where a comma should be added to correct the error. Option C is the correct answer since a comma should be placed after "us" to separate the introductory phrase from the rest of the sentence. The student may want to add a comma after "Since" in option A because it is a transition word. The student may want to add a comma after "wanted" in option B or "ready" in option D to add an extra pause for emphasis.

E05.D.1.2.3

37. Which sentence is punctuated correctly?

- A. Ms. Johnson you are the person in charge of next month's meeting, aren't you?
- * B. Ms. Johnson, you are the person in charge of next month's meeting, aren't you?
- C. Ms. Johnson you are the person in charge of next month's meeting aren't you?
- D. Ms. Johnson, you are the person in charge of next month's meeting aren't you?

The student is asked to evaluate each option to determine which sentence is punctuated correctly. Option B is the correct answer since it is punctuated correctly. Option A is incorrect because there should be a comma after "Ms. Johnson." Option C is incorrect because it is missing commas after "Ms. Johnson" and "meeting." Option D is incorrect because it is missing a comma after "meeting."

E05.D.1.2.1

38. Read the sentence.

Three statistics that all good baseball managers look at closely are batting average runs batted in, and runs scored.

After which word should a comma be added?

- A. statistics
- B. closely
- C. are
- * D. average

Students are asked to review the answer options to determine where a comma should be added. Students need to know how to use commas to separate items in a series. Option A, "statistics," is the subject of the sentence followed by a restrictive relative clause, and no comma is necessary. Option B, "closely," is an adverb that ends the restrictive relative clause, and no comma is necessary. Option C, "are," is the verb of the sentence followed by nouns that function as predicate nouns, and no comma is necessary. Option D, "average," is a predicate noun that is an item in a series of three or more nouns, and a comma is necessary to separate it from the other items in the series.

E05.D.2.1.1

39. Read the sentences.

Carly used to be uninterested in sports.

She now plays on a volleyball team.

Choose the best way to combine the two sentences.

- * A. Carly, who used to be uninterested in sports, now plays on a volleyball team.
- B. Carly used to be uninterested in sports, so now she plays on a volleyball team.
- C. Now that she plays on a volleyball team, Carly used to be uninterested in sports.
- D. She now plays on a volleyball team, and Carly used to be uninterested in sports.

The student is asked to assess the two sentences to determine the best way to combine them. Option A is the correct answer since it combines the sentences in a way that is the clearest and most concise. The ways the sentences are combined in options B, C, and D are not as logical as the way the sentences are combined in option A.

E05.D.2.1.2

40. Read the sentence.

After digging in the garden, Ben went inside to _____.

Choose the most specific words to complete the sentence.

- A. tidy himself up a bit
- * B. scrub his hands with soap and water
- C. clean up a huge mess
- D. wash a couple of things in the sink

The student is asked to evaluate the options to determine the most specific words to complete the sentence. Option B is the correct answer since it specifies exactly what Ben will do when he goes inside. Option A does not list specific actions Ben will take to tidy himself up a bit. Option C does not specify what mess he is going to clean up. Option D does not specify what Ben will wash in the sink.

E05.D.1.2.4

41. Which title should have quotation marks?

- * A. We read the poem Paul Revere's Ride by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in our history class.
- B. DynaMath magazine makes mathematics meaningful by connecting math concepts to real-world subjects.
- C. The Phantom Tollbooth by Norton Jester is described by many children as "the best book ever."
- D. In E. L. Konigsburg's book The View from Saturday, four students use their brains to succeed in an academic contest.

Students are asked to analyze each option to identify which one contains a title that should be punctuated with quotation marks. Students need to know how to use underlining, quotation marks, or italics to indicate titles of works. For option B, students need to know that underlining is used to indicate the title of a magazine. For options C and D, students need to know that underlining is used to indicate the title of a book. For the correct answer, option A, students need to know quotation marks are used to indicate the title of a poem.

Traveling to space sounds very educational, but not very realistic. If we send students to space we would waste a lot of money, we could use that money to have a better science program, and we could send our kids to space camp instead.

If we sent students to space it would cost millions of dollars. What school has that much money? If we send 100 students and the cost for each kid is fifty thousand dollars, then we could spend 5,000,000 dollars for just 100 students. I don't think any school can afford that and I don't know any parent who could pay that.

We could use money for schools more effectively because right now we don't even have enough textbooks in science class. We could buy a science book for every kid. No more sharing! We could also buy more science materials to do more Activities. We all like to do science labs but we never have enough supplies. My teacher always asks us to send stuff in from home so we can do labs. Let's use our money to make science class better.

Instead of going to space, just send us to space camp. It will be so much less money. If we go we will still learn the same things. They can put us in a simulator, and we can see what it's like to go to space. We will have great learning experiences and only spend a little money. I know my parents would even help pay for that.

Parents can help pay for space camp, but space travel is just too much to ask. Money should be for books and supplies.

and maybe even space camp. So I think we should save our money and not go to space.

Response Score: 4

A sharp, distinct opinion is introduced (“Traveling to space sounds very educational, but not very realistic.”). The writer employs an effective order as well as an organizational structure (“waste a lot of money, we could use that money to have a better science program, and we could send our kids to space camp”). Each of the reasons is thoroughly elaborated and consistently supported with facts and details (“If we send 100 students . . . each kid is fifty thousand . . . spend 5,000,000,” “science book for every kid,” “more science materials,” “put us in a simulator”). Stylistic techniques (“What school has that much money?”) and audience awareness (“Let’s use our money to make science class better.”) are strong. Consistent control of sentence formation is demonstrated, and there are few errors in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation.

After you have checked your work, close this test booklet so your teacher will know you are finished.

Opinion Writing Prompt

I think that space travel for students is a great idea. The cost will be big, but totally worth it. Students will be able to do hands-on experiments and be motivated to be healthy.

First, a person traveling to space must be healthy. They have to be in good shape. They eat dried food in space and don't get much sleep or exercise. To go to space you have to be healthy so I think it will motivate kids to be healthy.

Second there will be hands-on science experiments. Kids will be able to make up experiments and try them up in space. Does music sound the same in space? Do plants grow in space? For example we could take 10 pots of flowers and leave 5 on earth and take 5 to space. We could do matching amounts of water to one on earth and one in space. That is just one of many hands-on experiments we could do.

Last is the big cost. It will be worth it because kids will learn more doing hands-on than they will on earth reading science books. Also, they will be getting healthy. That is why it is a great idea.

Response Score: 3

A clear opinion is introduced, developed, and concluded ("It will be worth it"). There is a logical order, and an organizational structure is established with clear transitions that connect opinions and reasons ("First, a person . . . must be healthy," "Second there will be hands-on science experiements"). Adequate relevant content for both reasons is supported with facts and details, which demonstrate an understanding of the purpose ("eat dried food," "don't get much sleep or exercise," "For example we could take 10 pots of flowers and leave 5 on earth"). The response demonstrates sentence variety, appropriate control of language, and stylistic techniques. Adequate control of sentence formation is also demonstrated. Some errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation ("earth," "experiements," "becuase").

I think that students shald not be allowed to space. It costs too much. It costed millluns of dollers to send the shuttle into space. the astronauts train for many many years to lern how to travel to space. They have to be really smart. they practise going by getting in a machine that lets them float. They eat weird food and I wald not like that. So no I do not think that students shald be allowed to travel to space because it too much cost.

Response Score: 2

An opinion is introduced (“students shald not be allowed to [travel to] space”), developed, and concluded with little awareness of task, purpose, and audience. While there is an introduction and a conclusion (“So no I do not think that students shald be allowed to travel to space”), the response lacks adequate development to support the opinion. The student begins to write about the cost, but support is limited (“millluns . . . to send the shuttle into space”). The writer then shifts, without transition, to elaboration on the astronauts. The content presented is vague and demonstrates a weak understanding of the purpose, focusing on the qualifications of astronauts rather than on whether students should be allowed to travel to space. Errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation (“shald,” “costed millluns,” “dollers,” “practise,” “it too much cost”).

Students should be alloud to travl to space. I want to go to space. It would be fun to float. I want to walk on the moon an drive a buggy on the moon like Armstrong.

Response Score: 1

Minimal evidence of an opinion is introduced, developed, and concluded with little awareness of task, purpose, and audience. The writer states an opinion ("Students should be alloud to travl to space") and then provides a list of three reasons why he or she wants to go to space: "fun to float," "walk on the moon," and "drive a buggy." Only one of those ideas is developed ("like Armstrong"). There are no transitions and no organizational structure. Errors are present in spelling ("alloud," "travl").

Have you ever been so scared that someone had to hold your hand? Have you ever been on the edge of your seat waiting to see what happens next? If you answered yes, then you liked movies just like me! If it was a rainy day then I would go to the movies.

First, I like going to the theater because of getting to spend quality time with my snutty family. I adore spending family time at a theater is because of getting to laugh with each other and have an entertaining time. When we went to see Puss In Boots it was hilarious and we couldn't stop laughing all the way home. My brother kept repeating funny lines from the movie and we would all laugh over and over until our stomachs hurt and we had tears in our eyes.

My absolutely favorite reason that I love going to the movies is because of the delicious food. You can smell the buttery popcorn before you even walk in the theater. That tasty popcorn is amazing. Once we get our tickets we run as fast as cheetas to get in line for a great big tub of buttery popcorn. My dad always missed some of the movie going to fill it up again. We really stuff ourselves with it. My brother wiped his hands on his pants and makes them all greasy and my mom gets upset about that. There is also huge boxes of candy. My mom loves Junior Mints and gets a ginormous box to share. One time I got Milk Duds but they stick to my teeth like glue so I just eat Mom's candy.

Now you know what a perfect time my fantastic family has on a wet and drippy rainy day.

Response Score: 4

A sharp, distinct topic is introduced ("If it was a rainy day then I would go to the movies"). The topic is developed through the use of an effective organizational structure ("First . . . spend quality time with my . . . family," "My absolutely favorite . . . food"). Substantial, relevant content demonstrates an understanding of the purpose ("My brother kept repeating funny lines from the movie and we would all laugh," "I got Milk Duds but they stick to my teeth like glue"). Thorough elaboration with clearly presented information is consistently supported with facts, examples, and concrete details ("My mom loves Junior Mints," "big tub of buttery popcorn"). Transitions connect ideas and concepts ("When," "Once we get," "One time," "Now you know"). Effective control of language, domain-specific vocabulary, stylistic techniques, and sentence variety is demonstrated ("as fast as cheetas," "Have you ever"). Consistent control of sentence formation is demonstrated, and few errors may be present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation; errors present do not interfere with meaning.

"Wahoooo" I imagined I was riding a quad on a super rainy, muddy day. That is what I would do on a rainy day.

The reason why I want to go quadding is I can go up the giant hill, do jumps and do drag races.

The first reason why is "go up the giant hill" so I can slip and slide my way to the top in the mud. It is more fun in the muddy and rainy slop. I can go fast like Sonic. One time I went up and did a wheelie. At the top you can see miles of trees it is beautiful.

The second reason is to "do jumps." You can get a lot of air. One time in the snow I did big jumps. I want to do tricks like back flips and 360. Jumping is fun and if I get good at jumping I can enter into competitions like Quadarama.

My last but not least reason is "do drag races." I want to drag race so we can bet on who will win. If you win you get all the money.

You can go really fast. In the rain, there are more spin outs so it is more fun. I love to get muddy. I usually win too! Last time I won $10.

Hopefully my parents let us go quad riding on the rainy day.

Response Score: 3

A clear topic is introduced with evident awareness of task, purpose, and audience ("‘Wahoooo’ I imagined I was ridding a quad on a super rainy, muddy day"). Clear transitions connect ideas and concepts ("The reason why I want to," "so I can," "One time," "last but not least") and there is an adequate organizational structure ("I can go up the giant hill, do jumps and do drag races"). Adequate, relevant content demonstrates an understanding of the purpose ("slip and slide my way to the top in the mud," "do triks like back flips and 360"). Appropriate control of language, vocabulary, stylistic techniques, and sentence variety is demonstrated ("fast like sonic," "spin outs," "At the top you can seen miles of trees"). Adequate control of sentence formation is demonstrated. Some errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation ("ridding," "beautifull," "triks"); however, these seldom interfere with meaning.

Think about the activities you could do on a rainy day. These could be inside or even outside in the rain. They can be something you do on your own or with others. What is one activity that you could do on a rainy day?

Write an essay for your teacher that describes one activity you could do on a rainy day. Be sure to use details and examples to explain your idea.

On a rainy day I would like to go roller skating with my friends at Southtown roller rink, I would go with Kelsey, Kylie and Kim.

Roller skating is one of my favorite things to do! I like roller skating with all the flashing light and music. Some times there are races that I do and is super fun! I have my won pair of white roller skates that I got at a garage sale.

Roller skating is also fun because there are video games like Mrs. Pac-Man. Southtown has a food stand where you can get yummy food like pizza, nachos, an pretzels.

In conclusion, that is what I would like to do on a rainy day.

Response Score: 2

There is a clear topic introduced ("I would like to go roller skating"); however, the inadequate content contributes to an underdeveloped response. While there are some facts, examples, and details ("Southtown," "white roller skates that I got at a garage sale"), much of the content is without elaboration and/or presented as a list ("pizza, nachos, an[d] pretzels"). Other than the introductory and concluding statements, there is not an organizational structure that develops the topic. The use of transitions is limited ("In conclusion"). The opening sentence has a formation issue (comma splice), and there are some errors in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation ("Some times there are races . . . is super fun!").

Response Score: 1

A topic is introduced ("bowling"); however, there is limited awareness of task, purpose, and audience in this brief response. The writer provides minimal content that does not appear to have any order or organizational structure. Minimal transitions are present, but they do not function to connect ideas ("When"). Errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation ("fowl").

It was a normal, quiet day at Franklin Elementary. It started at 1:45pm when the class came back from the art room. The third grade class had walked in quietly and taken their seats, but there was no teacher in the room. Where could she be?

"Yowza! Is that our teacher?" cried a student. "No way," called another student. The whole class looked out the windows in amazement. The teacher was outside on the lawn soaking wet and walking towards the classroom. The kids started to all talk at once and the room got very noisy.

Just then the principal walked in. "Take your seats please kids," he yelled loudly.

They all scrambled back to their desks. "Your teacher will be back inside in a moment."

The teacher walked in dripping wet and smiling. "I have a surprise for all of you," she stated loudly.

"I found an invisible water park behind the school."

It was a blast. There are all sorts of slides, a wave pool and a splash pad. Tomorrow we will have a field trip to the water park." The class cheered happily.

"We can't wait to go to the water park!" they all exclaimed excitedly. The teacher passed out permission slips.

"Don't forget a swimsuit and towel!" the kids reminded each other. Then they got on the buses at the end of the school day.

The next day the students all had fun going down the invisible slides and playing in the water. They all begged to go again the next day, but the teacher reminded them that they all needed to do some school work. This made the kids sad. On the third day, the water park wasn't there anymore. nobody knows what happened to the water park or if it will ever come back again to Franklin Elementary.

Response Score: 4

There is a distinctly established situation (an invisible water park) that orients the reader and introduces the characters (students, teacher, principal). There is an effective narrative pattern that sequences events and uses transitions effectively ("It started at 1:45pm," "Just then the principal," "The next day," "On the third day"). Thorough elaboration effectively supports the storyline ("slides, a wave pool and a splash pad," "cheered happily," "exclaimed excitedly"). Consistent control of sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation is demonstrated.

I was chosen to be a Helping Hand at school. I get to go to the Just Right Room a help someone every Monday, Wednesday, and Fridays. His name is Erick and he is sometimes very shy. I go to his classroom and help him with the alphabet sight words and a whole bunch of other things.

Erick and I also play games with what he learned. For example: we play a game called alphabet baseball, it's when you match up a lower case letter (a) with an upper case letter (A). It is fun to see Erick smile when he gets it right and see him having a blast. He loves when I come to his room. Sometimes I even learn a little something when really it's Erick who's suppose to be learning. Erick is sometimes a little tired so it isn't really a lot of fun to teach him, but still a little fun anyways.

It is sad to leave when I know Erick had fun being with me. I love being a Helping Hand and I'm glad I got chosen.

Response Score: 3

A clear situation ("I was chosen to be a Helping Hand") orients the reader and introduces the narrator and character ("Erick"). A narrative pattern generally sequences the events and provides a conclusion ("It is sad to leave . . . I'm glad I got chosen"). Sufficient elaboration supports the storyline ("we play a game called alphabet baseball," "I even learn a little something"). Adequate control of language, sentence formation, grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation is present.

Imagine that something exciting happened at school. It could be something that really has happened or something you make up.

Write a story for your teacher that tells about something exciting that happened at school. Make sure your story has a beginning, middle, and end.

A new girl came to our school. It was near spring. Her parents brought her in the class room she looked sad. My teacher picked me to give her a little tour of the school.

The next day I say down and was talking to her. When we went to lunch I asked her to sit next to me. We were playing and talking. I made her feel welcomed to her new school. Her parents were happy she found a friend like me. My teacher was happy. She said I would be a great friend. My parents were proud because I showed kindness to my new friend. I was excited because I got a new friend at school.

Response Score: 2

There is a vague situation/theme that orients the reader and introduces the narrator and character ("new girl"). There is a brief narrative pattern that sequences events and provides a long, listed conclusion ("Her parents were happy," "My teacher was happy," "My parents were proud," "I was excited"). There is limited use of concrete words, phrases, and sensory details; no specific names of people, no specific grade, no school name, no details about what they ate for lunch or what game they played. Adequate control of sentence formation is demonstrated, and few errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation; however, this alone is not enough to move the response to a higher score.

At Recess, I played Basketball, Football and also soccer, but I don't like the play ground. Because one time I fell in the monkeybour and I got hurt. And the another day I slid and I fell in the side and I got hurt. And the next day my friend push me so hard I fell and got hurt!

Response Score: 1

There is minimal evidence of a situation/theme beyond the topic of recess. There is minimal sequencing of events and use of transitions ("one time I fell," "another day I slid," "the next day"); however, they do not establish a narrative pattern. The response lacks sensory details and narrative techniques. Many errors are present in grammar, usage, spelling, and punctuation ("Basketball," "play groud," "monkeybour," "the another day," "friend push me").
