Essay

1SG P. Andrew McKenna, Jr. has been labeled and credited as a leader and a hero, with bravery, honor, courage and selfless traits. On August 7th 2015 1SG P. Andrew McKenna, Jr. came under fire from Taliban forces while defending Camp Integrity in Kabul, Afghanistan and made the ultimate sacrifice for his comrades and his country. He is a man who once described selfless service as “the most important thing.” Who once said, “the act of putting the well-being of others ahead of your own is the ultimate of showing what you’re made of. It’s not often brought out, but when it is, it can be unparalleled. The decision to rush forward, placing your life at risk for the welfare of a teammate or the rest of the team says more about a man in my book than anything else. What we have done for ourselves dies with us. What we have done for others and the world remains and is immortal.”

Please describe in your own words (250 words or more), what it means to possess the qualities and traits of 1SG P. Andrew McKenna, Jr. In joining the military, individuals often make significant commitments that impact not only their lives but also those of their loved ones. Discuss the multifaceted impact of military service on personal relationships, family dynamics, and community ties. How do you perceive the sacrifices made by both service members and their families? Reflect on the broader implications and share any personal experiences or insights that have shaped your understanding of the effects of military service on the people around you. If you do not have military ties, please relate the above to your commitments to your sport, team, and the impact on your life and those around you. Feel free to use any and all personal experiences.

This should be written as a formal essay. Informal submissions (i.e. screenshots from your phone) will not be considered by the scholarship committee.
