NINTH GRADE

INTRODUCTION TO THE NORTH CAROLINA STANDARD COURSE OF STUDY FOR ELA

In April 2017, the North Carolina State Board of Education adopted new ELA standards for grades K-12. The Standard Course of Study describes what students should know, understand, and be able to do by the end of each grade level. How these standards are taught is decided at a district level.

The NC Standard Course of Study was developed based on feedback provided from the following:

- Parents
- Community Members
- Business/Industry Professionals
- Higher Education Faculty
- Educators (teachers, administrators, curriculum specialists)

THE NC STANDARDS ARE DIVIDED INTO 4 STRANDS:

READING

- Foundational Skills (K-5)
- Reading Literature
- Reading Informational Text

WRITING

SPEAKING AND LISTENING

LANGUAGE

THE NC STANDARD COURSE OF STUDY HAS A NEW FORMAT THAT INCLUDES:

Standards with
bolded terms

Clarification of the standards with suggestions for instruction, explanations,
and examples

Glossary that defines the bolded terms
from the Standards

EXAMPLE OF THE NEW FORMAT

Reading Standards for Literature
STANDARD	CLARIFICATION	GLOSSARY
Cluster: Key Ideas and Evidence
RL.9-10.1	Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text. In the Classroom: Students use three-column graphic organizers, and the columns are labeled as follows: "my inference," "what the text says," "what this evidence means."	analysis- a detailed examination of the components of a subject to understand its meaning and/or nature as a whole explicit, explicitly – stated clearly and directly, leaving no room for confusion or interpretation inference – a conclusion derived from logical reasoning following an investigation of available evidence

* The high school standards are arranged into two grade bands: grades 9-10 and grades 11-12. The standards are arranged by grade band rather than by grade to allow for multiple years of practice. While 9th and 10th grade students are working towards mastery of the same standards, students in 10th grade practice the skills with more complex texts than students read in 9th grade.

READING STRATEGIES

Reading outside of school provides the additional support and encouragement that allows students to create a deep passion for reading, to deepen their comprehension skills, and to build a broad vocabulary knowledge. Reading strategies can be developed and used before, during, and after reading takes place. These strategies reinforce what your student is learning in ninth grade.

ACTIVITIES TO DO AT HOME:

- Provide a time and space for your child to read every day.
- Read about an event you and your child attended, or write your own accounts of an event you shared. Read the two pieces and then compare the differences between them, like the perspectives from which they were written.
- Read to your child or have your child read to you every day. Reading aloud to children, of all ages, provides opportunities to discuss more challenging and complex plots and themes which builds critical thinking skills.
- If students are auditory learners, listening to audiobooks helps many students to comprehend and interact with the text. Various websites have collections of audiobooks that students can use. Public libraries also have collections of audiobooks students may checkout online or at a physical location.
- Slowly and deliberately read and then re-read complex texts.
- Start a family book club. Let different members of the family pick the book. This could be a good way to enjoy quality family time while experiencing the joy of reading together!
- Make a short video book review of a book being read.
- Ask your child to summarize what he/she read and tell what he/she learned from what was read. This could be connected to something in real life, another reading, or to events happening in the world.
- Talk about current events together. Discuss with your child so he/she understands what is happening and how it connects to him/her, other events that he/she may have seen or read about, and other areas of the community.
- Read the same book as your child independently, together, or a combination of both. Talk about the books as you read them, reviewing central ideas and plots and expressing your opinions on the book. Then read an additional book or books on the same subject and compare and contrast how the books both dealt with the same issue. For example, read two fiction books about family, or two different texts about the same historical event or non-fiction topic.
- Find a series that interests your child and begin to read it together. You can read to your child, your child can read to you, and he/she can read a chapter independent-

Regular trips to the library for books, not computer time, will encourage students to read, which will strengthen their comprehension skills.

ly. You and your child can interview each other as you read — ask about central ideas, events, and thoughts you each have about the books and characters.

- Visit the local library and make reading fun for the entire family.
- Give your child opportunities to participate in new experiences. Visit museums, the zoo, theaters, historical sites, aquariums, etc. to help build your child's vocabulary and speaking skills.
- Consult paraphrased/translated versions of complex texts. Students can find the original text and a corresponding modern translation online and in print. This will help students understand and appreciate the language and comprehend the plot, characters, and themes.
- Read books/magazines for enjoyment outside of class.

Regular trips to the library for books, not computer time, will encourage students to read, which will strengthen their comprehension skills.

- Students can annotate the actual text by jotting information in the margins if they have their own copies of the text or take notes on another sheet of paper. When annotating, students may note the following:
 - A brief summary for each chapter or page to verify comprehension

- Questions about events, characters, and parts of the text the student did not understand
 - Quotes and words that are important to the text or confusing
 - Literary techniques that appear to recur in the text
 - Predictions about what will happen in the text
 - Opinions about characters, their choices, or other events in the text
 - Connections to current events, other texts, movies, songs
- Students may develop graphic organizers themselves or receive them from teachers. Important information to include in the graphic organizers - sections for setting, characters, plot, summary, and questions. Students may use graphic organizers such as Cornell Notes, webs (circles or squares of information), or just a bulleted list of notes. Graphic organizers help students organize their thinking.

POSSIBLE QUESTIONS/PROMPTS TO ASK AS OR AFTER YOUR CHILD READS:

Why did the author write this?

What can you infer from what you have read so far?

How does the plot unfold?

*Describe the problem.
How was it solved?*

What clues can you find in the sentence or paragraph that help you figure out the meaning of _____?

What genres do you like to read? Why?

Summarize the text.

*What is the central idea of the text?
How is it developed?*

*What argument is presented?
What claims support that argument?*

What does the word _____ mean in this sentence?

What did you do to help you figure out an unknown word?

What textual evidence most strongly supports your analysis of the text?

What is the theme of the story? What details help you understand the theme? How does the theme change throughout the text?

How do the characters interact with each other?

What do you think the author is trying to say when he/she uses the word/phrase _____?

What strategies can you use when you don't understand the text?

What is the significance of this text?

WRITING STRATEGIES

Writing to express opinions, provide information, and/or create a story goes far beyond letter formation and spelling rules. In school, students are learning the writing process. Out of school, help is needed to reinforce, encourage, and support students in their writing process. Writing out of school provides a connection between writing and everyday experiences. These strategies reinforce what your student is learning in ninth grade.

ACTIVITIES TO DO AT HOME:

- Keeping a notebook of ideas for use in future writings.
- Writing in a journal to record events and thoughts.
- Keeping a response journal to record short responses to things read or watched. These journals may include one or more of the following about what was read or watched:
 - Summary (Try to write a summary with key details)
 - Questions (I wonder about ... What would happen if ...)
 - Predictions (I think ... will happen, because ...)
 - Connections (This made me remember a time ... This was similar to something else I read or watched. This took place in a similar location to ...)
 - Quotes (The quote that seemed important to me was ... because ...)
- Writing for a real purpose and/or audience:
 - Thank you notes
 - Quick note or email to a business about an inquiry or relatives about family news
 - Contributing to a family website
 - Interest letter or email about a job
- When available, suggest that your child participate in a writing contest. Local and national contests are often found online with submission details.
- Discuss family stories and history. Encourage your child to ask questions. Work together with your child to create a book, magazine, poem, short story, newspaper article, pamphlet, or other written narrative of your family's history.
- Encourage your child to draw and/or write his/her own version of a favorite story. Or, encourage your child to create or write a next chapter (or page) for his/her favorite book.
- When your child asks a question, research the answer together using books or computers (under your supervision). Then create an informative poster or collage which tells the question, the answer, and uses both texts and illustrations to show what they learned.
- Help your child choose something that he/she wants to do or learn to do. Work with your child to research information related to the topic chosen. Ask your child to create a brochure, flyer, or "HowTo" manual or guide describing/explaining the topic, or how to do something. Then, together, you and your child can follow the guide to do or learn to do the chosen topic.
- Urge your child to use logical arguments to defend his/her opinion. If your child wants a raise in allowance or curfew extension, ask him/her to research and then based on that research, explain reasons why he/she should have a raise in allowance or curfew extension.
- Under your supervision, begin to help your child use a computer to research a topic or communicate with friends and family. Your child can also use the computer to write his/her own pieces or pieces you write together.
