Add an Introduction Paragraph to the Personal Narrative

Here is a personal narrative about a student's trip to Rome. Read the narrative and add an introduction paragraph that introduces the narrator and gives background information about the upcoming story. Be sure your introduction maintains a similar tone with the rest of the text.

Write the introduction paragraph here:

As I stepped off the plane in Rome, I was filled with excitement and anticipation. The city was even more beautiful than I had imagined, with its ancient buildings and cobblestone streets.

I made my way to my hotel, which was located in the heart of the city. The room was small, but cozy, and I quickly unpacked and set out to explore.

I walked for hours, taking in the sights and sounds of Rome. I marveled at the Colosseum, a breathtakingly beautiful and imposing structure that has stood for thousands of years. I wandered through the bustling streets of the city, stopping to try some of the delicious food and drinks that were offered.

In the evenings, I would often sit in a café and people watch, taking in the vibrant atmosphere of the city. I also made sure to visit some of the city's many museums and art galleries, where I was able to see some of the most incredible works of art in the world.

One of the highlights of my trip was a visit to the Vatican City, the smallest independent country in the world. I was able to see the incredible architecture of St. Peter's Basilica and marvel at the art and history that is contained within its walls.

Overall, my trip to Rome was an unforgettable experience. I fell in love with the city and its rich history and culture, and I can't wait to return one day and explore even more.
