

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

Artist of the Day: Amy Sherald

Amy Sherald is a realist painter from Baltimore, Maryland. Her art concentrates on sharing the stories and perspectives of African Americans using color tones and pattern. She has become best known for being picked to paint the portrait of Michelle Obama for the National Portrait Gallery.

