Animal Farm Chapter 6 Important Quotations

1. 'I will work harder' and 'Napoleon is always right.'

Who said it? Boxer

What "deeper meaning" of this quote? Boxer is loyal dedicated, and hardworking. He is patriotic to his leaders and the cause of Animalism. He represents the loyal class of workers who the revolution who would naively believe anything their leaders told them

2. The hens, said Napoleon, should welcome this sacrifice as their own special contribution towards the building of the windmill.

Who says this? Napoleon When and where? In the when he is telling the hens that they will have to sacrifice their babies

What two commandments does this break and how? A) 1) All animals are equal because the pigs are living like princes in the farm house and ordering the other animals to work hard and make sacrifices. 2) No animals will engage in trade because they are selling the eggs and wheat to the humans. 3) No animals shall tyrannize over other animals. Later the hens are actually slaughtered.

3. 'Muriel,' she said, 'read me the Fourth Commandment. Does it not say something about never sleeping in a bed?' Who says this? Clover said it

When and where? In the barn after the pigs move into the house and sleep in the beds.

What is Squealers response? It was absolutely necessary, he said, that the pigs, who were the brains of the farm, should have a quiet place to work in It was also more suited to the dignity of the Leader (for of late he had taken to speaking of Napoleon under the title of 'Leader') to live in a house than in a mere sty.

Nevertheless, some of the animals were disturbed when they heard that the pigs not only took their meals in the kitchen and used the drawing-room as a recreation room, but also slept in the beds.

4. 'Are you certain that this is not something that you have dreamed, comrades?

Have you any record of such a resolution? Is it written down anywhere?'

Who said it? Squealer When and where? In the fields after the windmill had been destroyed by the violent storm

How does this reflect the way things are changing on the farm? Things are going badly so they need a scapegoat to take the blame. The pigs don't want to be the blame, so everything is blamed on Snowball. A leaders seems more presidential or in charge if he has a dark, evil enemy to fight. This happens everywhere.

5. What was ironic about the animals working on the windmill on Sundays? How many hours do the animals work? What happens if they refuse? Throughout the spring and summer they worked a sixty-hour week, and in August Napoleon announced that there would be work on Sunday afternoons as well. This work was strictly voluntary, but any animal who absented himself from it would have his rations reduced by half.

6. Is the farm running as well now? Give one line or quote from the story that shows this. Why do you think that this is the case? The harvest was a little less successful than in the previous year, and two fields which should have been sown with roots in the early summer were not sown because the ploughing had not been completed early enough. Snowball is gone. He did most of the planning while Napoleon stood behind the scenes and mobilized support.

7. What is the hardest task in building the windmill? How is this problem solved? But the problem the animals could not at first solve was how to break up the stone into pieces of suitable size. There seemed no way of doing this except with picks and crowbars, which no animal could use, because no animal could stand on his hind legs. To utilize the force of gravity, huge boulders, far too big to be used as they were, were lying all over the bed of the quarry. The animals lashed ropes round these, and then all together, cows, horses, sheep, any animal that could lay hold of the rope - even the pigs sometimes joined in at critical moments - they dragged them with desperate slowness up the slope to the top of the quarry, where they were toppled over the edge, to shatter to pieces below.

8. Which other commandment(s) are broken by the pigs, and how?

Which Commandment (What is it?)	How is it broken?
1) Whatever goes upon two legs is an enemy. The Fourth Commandment No animal shall sleep in a Bed (live in a house).	1) Whymper is constantly at the farm, running the business of the farm. Also Napoleon asks the hens to give up their eggs. He sells them and the excess (he reduces rations) wheat to the humans. The Fourth Commandment The pigs move into the house and sleep in a bed, Squealer says that sheets were the problem. Animals sleep on hay which is a bed. However they use blankets which are also made from animals.
The Second Commandment: Whatever goes upon four legs, or has wings, is a friend.

The Seventh Commandment All animals are equal.	The hens are asked to give up their babies. Also rations are reduced while the pigs eat well. Also the animals have to work 60 hours a week while the pigs have it easy and just give orders.

9. What are the contrasting feelings that the animals have as Napoleon does business with Mr. Wymper?

The animals watched his coming and going with a kind of dread, and avoided him as much as possible. Nevertheless, the sight of Napoleon, on all fours, delivering orders to Wymper, who stood on two legs, roused their pride and partly reconciled them to the new arrangement.
