3. "We must remember we are women born, / Unapt to cope with men; and, being ruled / By mightier than ourselves, we have to hear / These things—and worse."

4. "Tell it, tell it! / You'll cross me worse, by far, if you keep silence--- / Not publish it to all."

5. "My lord, I will not say—'breathless with speed / I come, plying a nimble foot;' for truly / I had a many sticking-points of thought,..."

6. "But be well assured, / Tempers too stubborn are the first to fail;..."

7. "And that I die / Before my hour is due, that I count gain."

8. "...for what more glorious crown / Can be to children, than their father's honour? / Or to a father, from his sons, than theirs?"

9. "...And at whose hands, and for what cause---that I / Duly performed the dues of piety!"

10. "...but whate'er the tale, / Tell it again; I am no novice, I, / In misery, that hearken."
