

Art History Legacy Statement

An Art History Legacy Statement is a short quote that tells people about the importance of the visual history we as a culture leave behind.

“Once we are gone, the art, architecture and literature that we leave behind is a visual legacy of who we were as a people.”

- Arlene Shelton

Points to include in your Art History Legacy Statement:

- Identify the what is represented by art history.
- Describe the important role of art history.
- Define what a visual legacy is.

Get started:

Do a bit of research before you write your own Art History Legacy Statement. Click on the two resource links below. Think about the importance of the visual legacies that are left behind by past cultures. Then write your own! If you are struggling to start, feel free to use one of the sentence starters below.

1. Resources

<https://www.brainyquote.com/topics/history>

<https://www.metmuseum.org/blogs/teen-blog/renaissance-portrait/blog/studying-art-from-the-past>

2. Sentence Starters

I believe...

Our greatest...

We are...

Art History...