Kindergarten Back & Ready for Year 2

By Evan Saxton
Staff Reporter

The kindergarten class is coming back for their second year of school, ready and eager to learn. There are two kindergarten classes Mrs. Meyer's class, with eighteen students, and Mrs. Parman's, with seventeen. Speaking of the teachers, Mrs. Meyer is returning for her second year. Mrs. Parman is introducing herself into the Bulldog family with her first year of teaching here.

With two excited teachers ready to educate their students and such big classes ready to learn about new and interesting things, this year is bound to be a good one.

The kindergarten removed nap time this year and having their first year where they go to a full year of school, they have so much more time to learn about their numbers and reading compared to previous years.

By talking to some of the kindergarten kids we have learned what they are most excited about. Maximus Holtzclaw said he is "most excited for recess and playing with friends." Karli Ginther said she is "ready to learn about arts and crafts and all about colors." Hopefully, the kindergarten class can have a fun time this year while learning about a variety of fun things.

Video Game Review: Among Us

By Evan Saxton
Staff Reporter

Among Us has taken the gaming community by storm within the last month. This game has been the talk of the town for all gaming outlets, and everyone is wondering why it is blowing up so much. What is so surprising about this game? It started out as a mobile game and was created by a group of just three guys. To give reference of how little that is, major game development companies like Ubisoft and Rockstar have upwards of 5,000 employees. The developers keep interest in the game while also keeping updates on the sequel they are making for it. Arguably, one of the best parts is the developers continue to play the game and take feedback on how to make the game a more enjoyable experience while also letting fans know what is going on behind the scenes.

Streamers and content creators alike have been showing themselves playing other content creators in groups up to ten. With such big names playing together and millions of people watching them, it's no wonder why the game is blowing up the way it is. The game right now is selling for five dollars, on most markets, with a pet bundle for an extra two dollars. With the price being so low and the game easy to learn, it makes it just that much easier for the game to explode in popularity. All of these things combined allowed the game to become a hit and smashing other indie games that were released around this time.

Book Review

By Lydia Dokken
Staff Reporter

Impulse, a novel in verse by Ellen Hopkins, brings to life the worlds of three different characters in the same psychiatric care facility as they learn to recognize and cope with their traumatic experiences. It envelopes you in the lives of the characters, and throughout every chapter I found myself experiencing the same fears and hopes as the characters were experiencing. However, after finishing the second (and final) book in this series, the story feels a little unfinished.

Impulse
by Ellen Hopkins

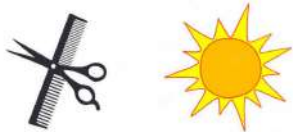

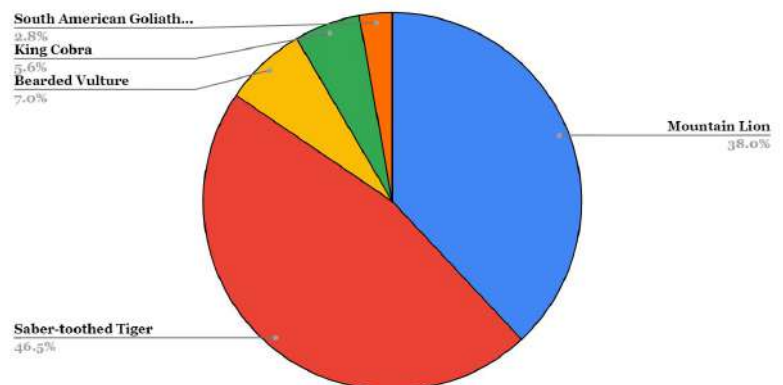

There are certain loose ends in the story that I wish had been tied up, but overall I enjoyed the journey they took me through. I would rate the Impulse series an 8.9/10.

Do you like Halloween movies? Are they scary movies or just Halloween related? This month's movie review is over Hocus Pocus. Considering it is "spooky season," I have decided to choose a Halloween related movie. This movie is very entertaining because it is meant to make people laugh, experience suspense, and fall in love with the characters. It inspires the viewers to get into the Halloween spirit. Hocus Pocus is a

Softball Team Makes History

By Katlyne Pappert
Staff Reporter

The 2020 softball season has come to an end. Going into districts our record was 13-3. The most exciting game to win was the game against Maysville High School. The crowd was loud and excited along with us and our coaches! Becoming the Grand River Conference champions was one of our goals as a team, and accomplishing that goal felt like winning the lottery to us.

We won our first game of the district tournament on Tuesday, October 13th. It was against Albany High School who we lost to in the jamboree but won against in the regular season. We battled through the entire district game and ended up being rewarded in the end.

Our team motto is "Never Give Up," and we continued to demonstrate that throughout the season. The final score was 7-6 putting our record at 14-3.

We lost in the district championship in overtime. It was a constant battle that just didn't end in our favor. Our record ended as 14-4. We are thankful for the 2020 season and all the memories made throughout it.

Let's Hit the Court

By Junior High Students
Guest Reporters

The junior high boys' basketball team consists of Colby McQueen, Decker Heyde, Calvin Smithson, Vincent Smithson, Devin Strawhacker, Jaren Stoll, Treston Williams and Jordyn Wright. The Bulldogs are coached by Mr. Nick Groomer.

We asked some of the players how they felt about the upcoming season, in which most of them replied it was going to be great! The players were also asked, "How do you feel about Mr. Groomer being your coach?" They all said they like Mr. Groomer. Decker Heyde, 8th grader, commented, "You know what, Mr. Groomer is single handedly the best basketball coach in the building, not only that, but he's a great person."

We interviewed Coach Groomer about the junior high team. When we asked him if he will draw up some new plays to help with the teams height issue he responded, "Not really, we don't have a height issue anyways, I mean look at Calvin he is pretty tall. We are just going to run what the high school runs."

The team's expectations in basketball are to play and practice hard all the time. The whole team needs to know what they are doing. We are a small team so we need speed and agility, and to not be in foul trouble.

Coach Groomer has high expectations and wants us to give effort at all times. We should always play at 110%. Mr. Groomer said he would urge people to see the games between North Andrew, King City and Albany. His goal is to win every game. Mr. Groomer commented, "When you (opposing teams) play us, you will get our best effort every night."

JH Girls Excited for Season

By Junior High Students
Guest Reporters

We interviewed the junior high girls' basketball coach Mrs. Kate Wiederholt and some of the players to get their input on the upcoming season. Mrs. Wiederholt responded with, "I think we will be a pretty young team, but I look forward to watching the team improve throughout the season." Her expectation for the upcoming season is to "Have fun, work hard and have a positive attitude."

8th grader Brea Jensen was asked "How do you think the season will go?" Brea responded with, "I hope as a team we improve and learn new things about one another and the sport." The team is made up of thirteen players this year, all of whom look forward to getting to know each other better. The team consists of Eva Cameron, Lindsay Chu, Macie Gibson, Marli Hilton, Jencie James, Brea Jensen, Trista Lager, Hannah McQuinn, Ally Santa Cruz, Kenzi Santa Cruz, Hannah Stevens, Dani Van Draska, and Paige Woods.

The junior high basketball team will be competing against North Nodaway in the first home game of the season.

It is a quick transition to switch from learning football cheers to basketball cheers and they are all new cheerleaders this year, but they are going to do just as well as they did cheering for the football team. The highschoolers are working on their shading and Brayden Hague shows his skill when working on their shaded shapes by adding intricate details and immense amounts of effort into it.

Macie Gibson is working on creating depth by showing a train going down the rails but with an added bonus of a little bit of spookiness. At the end of the rails you can see the train is heading towards a graveyard and this fits the Halloween vibe perfectly.

Liam Gregory made a pumpkin pie out of pastel colors. He focused on warm and cold colors while making the line definite, easily separating the different colors.

Kynnadi Schieber made a Frankenstein for Halloween putting everyone into the spooky spirit, while also making the artwork look clean and vibrant.
