Disney Theme Sets Tone for Homecoming 2021

By Austin Colvin
Staff Reporter

Homecoming was an outstanding success this year supporting a Disney theme. Mrs. Hoover, StuCo sponsor, loves Homecoming week because “it brings the classes together through the spirit days, float building, and the pep rally. You get to see a different side of both students and teachers.”

The week’s events got underway on Monday with the theme of Marvel. Everyone got to dress up as their favorite superhero. The senior boys came together to make their own capes and designed them to be the ‘Super Dawgs.’ Tuesday was Dynamic Duo Day. Many of the students dressed up, whether it was Timon and Pumba, or ketchup and mustard, to two of the boys wearing peanut butter and jelly costumes. Wednesday was the traditional class color day seeing the highest participation across the classes by the students and staff. The middle of the week was one of the most exciting days throughout the week with it being the first night of float building and the bonfire. Everyone put in effort to get a jump start building their floats, and the seniors rallied at the bonfire getting everyone pumped up for the game on Friday. Thursday’s dress up day was your favorite Disney character day. Students were seen dressed up as princes and princesses. It sure was a hilarious thing to see some of the boys in tutus!

Friday was the day everyone was waiting for: Homecoming Day. The day for the entire student body and community to get pumped up for the game. To start off the day, all junior high and high schoolers attend their float building spots to finish up decorating the floats. Around 11 a.m. everyone came back to the school to enjoy some pizza before the pep assembly. The pep assembly was thrilling as always with all of the students dancing, watching the cheerleaders do their acts, listening to the band, and getting to see all of the exciting games that went on. Within all of this, the seniors came away with the spirit stick, which this class had also won as juniors last year! Then is when all of the high schoolers’ hard work is paid off. Ethan Oldham said about the pep assembly “It was very cash money. I liked the pep assembly because everyone got pumped.” Following the pep assembly, the parade began, which included all of the floats being judged. The winning float was that of the freshman class.

To round out the week, Friday evening was the football game with a match up against the North Shelby Raiders. At halftime, the king and queen, Benjamin Messner and Tarynn Mattson, were announced and crowned by last year’s queen Morgan Wallace along with crown bearers Daisy Runde and Rhett Wiederholt. Other attendants included seniors Landon Marticke and Lexi Craig, and seniors Ethan Oldham and Bailey Wallace. Juniors were Adam Jensen and Emma Phipps, sophomores Leo Fletchall and Taelyn Derks, and freshmen Cooper Adcock and Trista Lager. Homecoming week concluded that evening following the football game with a dance in the multipurpose room where candidates were announced and students danced into the night.

Band Competes at Southwest Iowa Band Jamboree

By Lydia Dokken
Staff Reporter

In the early morning of Saturday, October 2nd, the Stanberry R-II band crammed their tired selves into a bus with all their instruments and made their way to Clarinda, Iowa for the yearly marching competition.

We showed up bright and early, uniformed and fired up to compete. Our determination quickly waned as tons of huge bands marched past us to get to their spots. One very notable band was entirely dressed as Batman. Stanberry R-II marched their hearts out and sweated their butts off, and out of 18 places, placed 9th.

Band director, Bradley Sheeley, thoughts on the placement were, "we had a great day participating in the Southwest Iowa Band Jamboree in Clarinda, Iowa! We placed 9th in our class, keeping up, and ahead, of our local rivals. We look forward to improving our performance for Northwest Missouri State University's homecoming parade on October 30th." Warming Up the Barn: Barnwarming 2021

By Austin Colvin
Staff Reporter

This year's Barnwarming had an exciting 'twang' to it. All FFA members joined together on Saturday, October 2nd in the ag shop. Members spent all week setting up and decorating for it. There were multiple events that went on.

First, they started off with dancing. Mrs. Noble played line dancing songs and she said "It was so fun to watch the students do the line dances I have taught the past couple of years." Secondly, she stated "We also had our annual egg toss which is always entertaining and competitive." To win the egg toss Korbin Fletchall and Adam Jensen made a full-court toss to win the competition. Lastly, everyone loaded up onto a trailer and went on a hayride. The hay was supplied by Lance, Leslie and Trevor Wallace.

Gavin Cameron shared with us that "It was amazing. I danced my butt off. The food was extremely good! I lost the egg toss because my partner sucked and threw it too high." All members had a fun night and it is an event they look forward to each year.

Recycling Program Comes to Stanberry R-II

By Jackson Williams
Staff Reporter

The high school Environmental Science class, along with the library media center, has partnered with the Missouri Department of Natural Resources to promote recycling plastic bottles. Their goal is to recycle at least half a ton of plastic bottles over the school year.

Mrs. Hoover says, "The program is doing well and the Environmental Science class is doing a great job with it." Mrs.

Hoover and Mrs. Hilton were able to get a grant to buy all of the recycling bins. Each classroom, along with bins at the football and softball games have helped to create a climate of recycling. Once a week, the environment science class goes out during fourth to empty out the bins. The program is asking for students and staff to save their empty and rinsed bottles to put in the bins to help them reach their goal!

Video Game Review: Spider-Man

By Jackson Williams
Staff Reporter

Insomniac's Spider-Man was an instant hit with everyone who played the game. The game is set in Manhattan as you traverse the city trying to defeat whatever the sinister six throw at you. As you play throughout the story you earn new abilities and gadgets to help you fight enemies. These gadgets make the game more fun as you find new ways to use them. The game also has what I feel is one of the best traversal systems in any game released in the past couple years, because of the web swinging and running across buildings mid swing. The game tries to be as realistic as possible, like how the webs stick to buildings as you swing and if you're in the park you can barely swing because of the lack of tall buildings. As you play the game it sets up the story for an action-packed sequel that has many people excited.

I feel like the build up to a sequel near the ending of the game is a great way to conclude the game. One of the best features in this game is the many different suits you can create and wear so you don't just have to wear the beginning outfit. I think trying to get all of these suits would make a fun goal to try to achieve as you play through the game.

Book Review

By Lydia Dokken
Staff Reporter

This month I read a book titled Everything, Everything written by Nicola Yoon. I have read one other book by the same author which I enjoyed, and the plot of the book sounded very interesting to me. Everything, Everything is about teenage girl, Madeline Whittier and her struggles with a rare disease that prevents her from leaving her house - essentially, she's allergic to everything. Her disease is called severe combined immunodeficiency and despite having never left her house since her diagnosis as a baby, she takes interest in a new next-door neighbor. Madeline begins to wonder whether a life spent in total isolation is really living at all. Things escalate between the two and she finds herself taking huge risks for love.

From the beginning, I felt incredibly invested in the story. Madeline is a relatable and loveable character I couldn't help but feel sorry for. It felt like the plot advanced very quickly, but that may have more to do with me reading it all in one night than with the story's writing. At the end, I couldn't help but feel there were certain questions left unanswered - certain things left unresolved. I quickly searched to see if there was a sequel, but found nothing. I really loved this book and I find it incredibly disappointing it ended on the note it did. I'm going to have to give a 4/5 to a book that could have easily been a 5/5.

Song Review

By Austin Hill
Staff Reporter

This month, I've chosen the song Before the Devil Knows We're Dead from Turnpike Troubadours album Goodbye Normal Street. I chose it because it has a nice country/bluegrass blend to it. It's truly a throwback to old country with a big fiddle solo, guitars and a fast beat. The song recognizes moments in the narrator's past where they lived life to the fullest. It pokes fun at continuing to live life recklessly and hoping to avoid the consequences of doing so. I enjoy the swiftness and instrumentation in the song and would recommend it to anyone who enjoys bluegrass influenced country.

Junior High Cheerleaders Prep for New Season

By Landon Marticke

While the junior high football season has come to an end, the basketball season is just heating up and the cheer team is ready to cheer them on.

The junior high cheer team is made up of the following: Ally Santa Cruz, Kenzi Santa Cruz, Katie Libby, Hannah McQuinn, Avery Calhoun, Josi Creason, Braelyn Williams, Kaitlin Porterfield, and Alana Evans. They are coached by Susie Wiederholt in both football and basketball.

It can be a hard transition from football cheers to basketball cheers and learning the new cheers and routines can be challenging, yet the team has been flying through it with ease. Coach Wiederholt stated, "The season started out with 7th grade girls really gaining experience with the help of our 8th graders. They have progressed and are having fun now! They especially enjoyed the football game against St. Joe Christian when the boys won! They were so excited to cheer them on. We only have one more JH football game before they roll into basketball season to support their Bulldog teams. I am especially proud of the girls this year. They have worked hard and look and sound great."

The team has more work to do, but are making great progress. Cheer member Josi Creason said, "The switch between sports is hard, but this year has been fun and I'm excited for basketball cheer."

Lady Dawgs Finish Strong

By Austin Colvin
Staff Reporter

The softball girls had an amazing season. They finished the regular season with a record of 9-13. Sadie Runde, Lexi Craig, and Tarynn Mattson are graduating seniors this year, however they are a big part of this team. They shared with us how they looked forward to districts. Sadie stated "We started out pretty strong. We kind of struggled the last few weeks, but I think we'll get back to where we want to be." Lexi went into districts with high hopes. She said, "The beginning of the season was definitely our strong point so far. We have been working harder at practices to get back to it. I think we still have yet to hit our peak and I'm excited to see how we will finish." Coach McClurg stated in her run down of the season, "this season has been one to remember. Having a challenging year leads to many emotions. We had several injuries from key players that forced us to get creative and try to figure out who was ready to step up and play. We did an amazing job at 'never giving up.' The heart, drive and determination resulted in a presence in the district championship game. An accomplishment that seemed bleak earlier in the season. Injuries normally lead to uncomfortable situations that really test your confidence offensively and defensively."

The girls wanted to prove that, even though they were seeded low in districts, they were still a force to reckon with. That was made obvious when the ladies beat King City, the host of districts, out of the first round, and then continued their momentum and eliminated the

The girls golf team wraps up their season on a good note. Over the course of the season the team has improved drastically. Coach Ronda Carroll stated, "overall I thought we had a successful season. The whole team placed high in several meets. I also saw a lot of improvement individually in each golfer. I'm excited to see where next season takes us."

The team consists of Bailey Wallace, Grace Mattson, Lindsey Sherman, Isabella Wright and Emma Phipps. At top seed, Platte Valley, whom they have plenty of history with. The girls finished 2nd at districts, but they celebrated more than just a title. They celebrated personal growth and team cohesiveness. The team battled through the unexpected and the unwanted, never giving up or never settling.

Mrs. McClurg also informed us about her plans for next year stating, "as far as next year goes, we will focus on individual health and injury prevention training, and will continue to work on teamwork. We will be working extra hard to replace 3 strong defensive players who are not only consistent, but aren't afraid of doing whatever it takes to make a play. I plan on doing several things in the off season to better ensure our endurance and consistency. I can't wait to see what next season entails."

Congratulations to the Stanberry Softball Team for placing 2nd in districts. The girls finished their season 11-14.

Football Cheerleaders Shine

The high school football cheerleaders started off a great football season. This year's high school cheerleading team consists of seniors Angel Farnsworth and Bailey Wallace; juniors Marissa Webster, Emma Phipps and Caroline Fanning; sophomores Jayden Gust, Morgon Showers and Katlyn James; and freshman Paige Woods. Brutus is back this year and led by senior Reece Green.

Senior Angel Farnsworth states she is, "excited to continue our season and improve our routines, both new and old." Cheerleading coach, Mrs. Jessica Santa Cruz, commented on the season, "We are super excited to show everyone what we have been working on," she explained. "This group of young ladies has been a lot of fun to work with. They have a lot of great ideas and are really focused on getting the crowd involved at games!" She noted their biggest obstacles have been and continue to be covid-related issues.

Many spectators have commented that these cheerleaders have done better than we've ever seen them do before at this year's Homecoming pep assembly. It was a very entertaining event, and we wish them luck in the rest of this year's endeavors. :)

Artist of the Month

By Jackson Williams
Staff Reporter

The elementary artists of the month are first grader Karli Ginther and sixth grader Hannah McMillen. Karli painted a cake using watercolors. She had kept all of the colors from mixing in with each other and created a cake with defined lines and definition. Hannah had been learning about oil pastels and perspectives. Using her new knowledge, she created a cake with a slice missing showing all of the details and giving it a life-like, 3D effect.

The high school artist of the month is Ethan Oldham. Ethan drew his backpack, putting meaningful words, like football and family, throughout the backpack to display what's important to him. This project was to show perspective and all of the small details. Great job to all artists this month. For more artwork on display see the intermediate hallway where Mrs. Strough always has many projects up for everyone to enjoy!
