Sportswarming 2024

By Wyatt Taylor
Staff Reporter

Students and staff celebrate Sportswarming each winter by hosting dress-up days throughout the school week and a volleyball tournament after the basketball game on Friday night. This year's theme was Hawaiian and the dress up days included: Country vs Country Club on Tuesday which unfortunately was canceled due to weather, Wednesday was Rhyme Without Reason and Thursday was Beach attire day. Friday was also canceled due to weather, making for a nice, long weekend. This led to the coronation being rescheduled for February 10th from the original date January 19th.

This year's sportswarming attendants are freshmen Parker Ginther and Josi Moffat, sophomores Jaren Stoll and Eva Cameron, and juniors Decker Heyde, and Paige Woods. The senior candidates were seniors Bella Wright, Maci Duley, Lexi Kerwin, Tucker Scheiber, Kolton Dias, and Reagan Heyde. Crown bearers included kindergarteners Goldie Eckard and Easton Wiederholt.

Coronation was held during halftime of the boy's game against Winston and last year's King Gavin Cameron was present to crown the new king and queen Reagan Heyde and Bella Wright. Reagan stated about finding out he was king, "When they announced my name as king my heart stopped beating for ten seconds!"

The traditional volleyball tournament that concludes the Sportswarming festivities was canceled due to lack of interest from students. Although the weather through a loop in the week and festivities, students and staff still enjoyed the annual Sportswarming festivities.

Stanberry Students Advance to Regional Spelling Bee

By Bella Wright
Staff Reporter

This year's Gentry County Spelling Bee took place on February 7th at Stanberry R-II High School. Grades 5th-8th had the chance to compete. The spelling bee consists of two parts: a written and oral test.

Students across multiple grades placed. For the oral portion of the test eighth grader Lane McGinley took 1st, sixth grader Quinn Heyde placed 2nd in the oral portion, and Lucian Simmerman placed 3rd, and he will serve as the county alternate.

On the written side, Lane again placed 1st, seventh grader Charlotte Jennings took 2nd place for the seventh grade written portion, and Noah Beggs took 2nd place for the sixth grade written portion. Lane stated about his wins, "It was pretty unexpected, I didn't think I would win either event."

Lane and Quinn will move onto the regional spelling bee March 2nd at EmpowerU in St. Joe. Best of luck on Lane and Quinn as they compete at regionals and great job to all those who competed.

Junior High Scholar Bowl

By Wyatt Taylor
Staff Reporter

The Junior High Scholar Bowl started their season this past month. The team consists of seventh graders Baylee Albright, Kaci Porterfield, Kaleb Evans, and Benton Gregory and eighth graders Lucian Simmerman, Hannah McMillan, and Lane McGinley. Mrs. Porterfield, head coach of the team, commented, "I am looking forward to a great season. The students seem to have a wide range of knowledge and should be very competitive."

Their first meet of the season was on February 5th at home, and they ended up winning their first match 180-140 against Worth County. Unfortunately, they lost their second match against Saint Joseph Christian 240-250. Eighth grader Lane McGinley says they have a good chance at winning more meets, and that everyone has their specialization and in the end, it all comes together and just works. The team has since traveled to Pattonsburg, winning against Pattonsburg 250-100 and losing to King City 200-210; North Harrison, winning again North Harrison 220-80 and losing to North Andrew 230-250; and will conclude their season at Albany next week.

Good luck to the scholars in their final meet of the season.

Lane McGinley and Quinn Heyde placed 1st and 2nd at the county Spelling Bee and will move on to regional competition in St. Joe.

Busy Season for Organizations

By Bella Wright
Staff Reporter

The start of the new year is always a busy time for the organizations at Stanberry. This year, 39 FBLA members attended the District Leadership Conference at Northwest Missouri State University on February 8th. There were 12 top ten finishers this year, and 3 students will be advancing to state. The students advancing to state include Hannah McQuinn who placed 2nd in Introduction to Business, Kaitlin Porterfield who placed 5th in Introduction to Business, and Brayden Hague who placed 2nd in UX Design. Moving onto the top 12 finishers, there were six students who placed in the top ten of individual events. For instance, Bella Wright and Taelyn Derks placed 7th and 8th in the Accounting II category respectively. Next, Cayleigh Spaulding placed 10th in Introduction to Business Procedures, Colby McQuinn placed 6th in Business Calculations, Kolton Dias Placed 7th in Business Communications, and Brayden Hahn placed 7th in Personal Finance. Some students also placed in group events. Bella Wright, Taelyn Derks, and Colby McQuinn placed 3rd in Banking and Financial Systems. Along with this, Lindsay Sherman and Tucker Schieber placed 3rd in Marketing. Finally, Maci Duley, Amelia Wallace, and Morgon Showers placed 3rd in Hospitality and Event Management. The students who advanced to state will take another test in March. Then, they will find out their results at the State Leadership Conference, which will occur April 14-16th in Springfield, MO. Good luck to the students; we wish you the best of luck!

Recently, FCCLA celebrated National FCCLA Week on February 12th-16th by hosting dress up days. Monday was Kansas City Chiefs Day, Tuesday was Hillbilly day, and Wednesday was PJ day. The organization's field trip was supposed to be Friday the 16th at Weston Ski Resort, but, due to the lack of snow there, the trip was canceled and rescheduled to sometime in April. FCCLA president, Colby McQuinn, was asked what he likes about FCCLA the most and he stated, "I like to see the growth of the organization over the years and how many kids have become interested."

FFA started off the year by visiting Triumph Foods on February 7th. The participating students got to see what goes into the company's meat process. After that, the FFA members spent the rest of the day at Main Event. This week, they will celebrate National FFA Week from February 20th through the 23rd. They will host dress-up days for this; Tuesday will be camo day, Wednesday will be Country vs. Country Club and drive your tractor to school day, Thursday will be FFA shirt day and breakfast, and Friday will be Blue and Gold Day. On Friday, there will also be a rock paper scissors tournament. Advisor Korinne Noble said her favorite part of FFA week is, "Drive your tractor to school day, because I like to see all the little kids' reactions when the tractors go by."

These organizations will continue to stay busy going into the spring season, and we wish them the best of luck as they advance through the rest of the year.

A Day in the Life: Mrs. Craig

By Brayden Hague
Staff Reporter

High School Principal Mrs. Lisa Craig begins her day by tackling emails, welcoming students, and coordinating with her assistant, Mrs. Sarah Schieber, to plan ahead. She strives to visit classrooms whenever possible and prioritizes Monday morning administrative meetings.

Throughout the day, Mrs. Craig deals with various tasks including evaluations, curriculum planning, disciplinary matters, technology troubleshooting, and scheduling. She ensures the school's online presence is maintained through updates on the website and social media platforms.

Outside of school hours, Mrs. Craig dedicates her time to attending Board of Education meetings and supervising various extracurricular activities such as basketball, wrestling, football, softball, scholar bowl, and music events. Her commitment to the school extends beyond regular hours, as she remains deeply involved in its fluidity. Thank you for the work you've done for this school.

Eighth Grade Anticipate Change Next Year

By Marli Hilton
Staff Reporter

The eighth grade have achieved great things so far this year. As they head into their final quarter of junior high, there are many things they should be proud of. From girls' softball and basketball teams going undefeated, to the boys' football team winning many games, athletically the students have seen a lot of success. Along with this, some students were able to participate in their last year of junior high basketball and wrestling. Additionally, with warmer days approaching, the beginning of track season looms closer. Olivia McQuinn says she is very excited for the upcoming season.

This year, eighth grade was able to experience something new; during the Homecoming pep rally, they won the spirit stick against the seventh-grade class. The spirit stick is given to the class who shows the most spirit during Homecoming week.

With their junior high career coming to an end and the start of their high school career in the near future, there are many who are excited to start new experiences. When asked what he's looking forward to in the remainder of his eighth-grade year, Lane McGinley stated, "I'm just going to enjoy the rest of it while it's here. It's probably going to be a big change next year."

As the eighth graders conclude this year, we hope they will embrace all it has to offer and dive head first into freshman year. Good luck eighth grade!

Senior Spotlight

By Reagan Heyde
Staff Reporter

This month, we are starting a new column highlighting our 2024 seniors and spreading the word about their goals and accomplishments. Each month, we will interview eight seniors and ask them about their post-graduation plans and their favorite high school memory.

Reagan Heyde

Our first senior is none other than Reagan Heyde. Reagan plans to attend college and study health sciences after he graduates. Reagan's favorite high school memory is when he snuck a stray cat into the locker room from outside. The cat became very popular.

Colby McQuinn

Our next senior is Colby McQuinn. Colby plans to attend the University of Missouri-Columbia to study civil engineering. His favorite high school memory is a pretty good one; attending the state tournament with his basketball team sophomore year and placing second in the state.

Dillon Johnson

Dillon Johnson plans to attend Missouri Welding

Seniors CLASS OF 2024

Institute. Dillon's favorite high school memory was getting caught hiding in the supply closet while playing a farming simulator with Lance Wallace and Zac Summa.

Peyton Hume

Peyton Hume plans to attend Northwest Missouri State University and study pre-engineering. Peyton's favorite memory is any time during wrestling season when he would pick on Coach Dias and push him over another wrestler that was crouching behind his legs.

Aiden Law

Aiden Law plans to enlist in the U.S. Army, and his favorite memory is playing soccer in the locker room with his fake baby doll for his baby project in Mrs. Meyer's class.

Lexi Kerwin

Lexi Kerwin plans to attend college to study ag business and really enjoyed wrestling.

Katlyn James

Katlyn James plans to attend Missouri Western State University for childhood education. Katlyn's favorite memory was beating Eevan Cooley and Aiden Law in a game of cornhole during P.E. while teamed up with Mr. Dias.

Last but not least, our final senior this month is Brayden Hahn. Brayden plans to attend

Brayden Hahn

American Welding Academy after high school to weld, and his favorite memory was running the 4x4 in the GRC track meet his sophomore year.

Best of luck to these 2024 seniors as they near the end of their last year in high school. Stay tuned for next month when we feature another batch of seniors.

Stanberry Welcomes Three Student Teachers

By Marli Hilton
Staff Reporter

This semester, Stanberry R-II has welcomed a total of three student teachers into the building. They include Ms. Sadie Schafer, Ms. Mallory Wood, and Ms. Ayla Campbell. These three individuals joined their content classrooms back in January to become more familiar with the field of education and learn from some amazing teachers.

Ms. Schafer is student teaching in the ag department under Mrs. Korinne Noble. Ms. Schafer is majoring in ag education at Northwest Missouri State University. When asked about her reasoning for picking her major, she stated, "I grew up on a family farm and was very involved in FFA. I had the opportunity to teach a class as a teacher assistant in high school. Agriculture is something that I love, and it is crucial to the world, which is why I wanted to play a part in educating others about it." Some of Ms. Schafer's favorite things about students teaching are the connections she is making with students and seeing herself in the beginning stages of starting a career she is passionate about. Before she leaves in April, she hopes to absorb as much knowledge from Mrs. Noble as possible, as well as take the CDE team she is teaching to state.

Ms. Campbell is majoring in business education at Northwest Missouri State University. She chose her major because she wants to help students create better futures for themselves, especially those who don't have great home lives. Overall, she was inspired to be a business teacher by her mother, who made a great life for herself as an immigrant. Although there are many reasons to enjoy the experience of student teaching, Mrs. Campbell stated some of her favorites are getting to know the students more and seeing them learn from her. She also enjoys learning from Mrs. Sidney Eckard, the business teacher. There are a few things Ms. Campbell is excited to do before the year ends such as gaining teaching experience through taking over the classes and celebrating the students' accomplishments with them. Ms. Campbell is grateful for the time she's spent here, and she is excited to see what the rest of the year will bring.

majoring in elementary education at Missouri Western State University, and she is student teaching under first grade teacher Mrs. Mackenzie Shifflett. Ms. Wood hopes by teaching she will be able to impact children's lives beyond the classroom. She also mentioned, "Growing up, I was able to be on the receiving end of such wonderful elementary teachers, and I hope to take over that same role for my future students. Knowing I can create lifelong connections of learning makes me excited to pursue this career!" Ms. Wood's favorite part of student teaching is being able to learn new things every day from both Mrs. Shifflett and the students in first grade. She hopes to contribute to the students' success and form lasting relationships with them. She is also looking to grow as a teacher by learning and observing from everyone she can.

We wish nothing but the best for these student teachers as they continue to pursue careers in education. Thank you for coming to our school and helping our students learn new things and grow each and every day.

Fourth Grade Excels

By Maranda Evans
Staff Reporter

The fourth graders have been very busy this year. To begin, so far in ELA, the fourth graders have learned how to identify points of view, draw conclusions, make inferences, and identify types of sentences. They have also been learning about how to write five paragraph essays using the writing process. Soon, they will work on building new skills like summarizing, figurative language, differentiating between plagiarism and paraphrasing, interpreting and explaining information represented graphically, and researching information for their essays. Ms. Reagan Smith commented, "Coming in as a first year teacher, I could not have imagined a better class to have! This group of students are always willing to make learning fun, and they appreciate the little things in life. They make my job so much fun and I look forward to coming into work everyday because of these wonderful kids."

In math at this point in the year, students have worked on reviewing place value and reviewing addition and subtraction. Additionally, they are learning more about multiplication and division. They will also discuss how to do both long division and long multiplication. Next, the students will be starting a unit over patterns and fractions. In the future, decimals, both standard and metric measurements, area, and perimeter will be introduced.

The students have been hard at work in science too. They have already learned about Earth's changes due to landforms changing over time and tectonic plates. Along with this, they have learned about the formation of volcanoes, the different types of volcanoes, and the rock cycle. Now, the students are currently discussing simple machines and force and motion. During the last two units, the students will cover plant and animal adaptations and energy. Mr. Dylan Morris tells us, "This is a great group of students that are so enjoyable inside and outside of the classroom. They work really hard and persevere when times get tough and they pick each other up when they are feeling down. I have enjoyed this school year so much to this point and I am looking forward to the rest of the year!"

Some events coming up this year that the students are looking forward to include: track and field day, AR raffle (this is a raffle in which students get to put a ticket in a jar if they get a 100% on an AR test. The more tickets that they put in, the better chance they get at winning a prize), field trips, and Battle of the Books (this is a challenge between Mr. Morris and Ms. Smith's classes in which whichever class gets the most books read with AR tests over 80% gets a class party).

As you can see, the fourth graders have already done so much this school year, and they have a lot yet to come. We appreciate all the hard work these students and their teachers have put in so far! Keep up the hard work! We are so happy to have you as a part of the Bulldog family! Goodluck to the fourth graders and the rest of their school year!

Super Bowl LVIII

By Kaiden Keough
Staff Reporter

This year's Super Bowl was intense due to the 49ers dominating the Chiefs until halftime. Unfortunately, Patrick Mahomes was unable to secure any passing touchdowns early on in the game, and he threw one interception. Because of this, like many other fans, I began to lose hope for the Kansas City Chiefs.

After two quarters passed, there was a break in the game, and Usher served as the performer in this year's halftime show. I liked it better than the halftime show last year. I specifically enjoyed the songs they chose to perform, and I liked the other singers who supported Usher on stage, like Lil Jon, Alicia Keys, Will.i.am, and Ludacris.

After the halftime show, the Chiefs' defense helped their team have a comeback. They made it possible for the Chief's offense to get a field goal and tie the game. Ultimately, the game went into overtime, and the 49ers received the ball first. When they were forced to kick a field goal on the 4th down, the Chiefs obtained the ball and went down the field to execute the play that won it all. Mahomes went to the left and tossed the ball to Mecole Hardman who made the last touchdown.

In the end, the final score was 22 for the 49ers and 25 for the Chiefs. Although some fans may argue the 49ers were not aware of the overtime rules, the Chiefs are still the victors in the 2024 Super Bowl!

Video Game Review: WWE 2K23

By Kaiden Keough
Staff Reporter

This month's video game review is on WWE 2K23. After spending many hours playing, I can advocate that this is a great game. First, let's talk about the gameplay. Overall, the gameplay has improved from last year, there is more freedom than before. However, the game does not allow players to put a wrestler on a table, and jump onto them from the top rope. The only way to perform this move is to use a finisher on the announcers table, but some wrestlers do not have that finisher. The wrestlers are great too! Players can choose between superstars like Cody Rhodes, Roman Reigns, Seth Rollins, Rhea Ripley, and Becky Lynch. They also have options to play as legends like The Undertaker, Kane, Hulk Hogan, Triple H, and the Rock. In total, there are 246 Superstar options.

Additionally, this game has multiple different modes. For example, general manager mode. Promoters claimed this mode was supposed to be better compared to last year's game. I disagree though, because last year's game was more fun and challenging. In this year's version of the game, universe mode has returned too. This mode makes the game more entertaining because players can control anything they want to. Next, there is MyRise mode, which allows you to create your own character's story.

Finally, there is showcase mode, and it allows players to recreate some amazing matches. For example, it allows players to go through John Cena's and the matches he lost throughout his career. Within this mode, players can get unlockables, as well such as Young Edge, Kurt Angle, and others.

Ultimately, I can't wait for the next game to come out, so I already have it pre-ordered!

Artist of the Month

By Brayden Hague
Staff Reporter

This month's artist of the month was a little different. The faculty and staff put their 'hands' together to create these cool art pieces. Art instructor, Mrs. Strough, conducted this 'hands on' art piece with the staff around the school.

Teachers who participated traced their hands and wrote their reasoning for teaching/serving at the school on the back.

Here are some of the favorites that really 'spoke out'.

Mrs. McClurg stated, "I became a teacher to be a part of the 'aha' moments. It brings me joy to watch children grow and develop and accomplish great things."

Mrs. Noble wrote on her hand, "to inspire, educate, and have meaningful relationships with my students that last a lifetime."

Ms. Campbell said her reason for pursuing a degree in education was, "to help students create better futures for themselves."
