New Year, New Resolutions

By Marli Hilton
Staff Reporter

For some people, the start of a new year can come with new beginnings and new opportunities. What are you looking forward to? What are you looking to accomplish? Here are some of the ways students and staff at Stanberry R-II are looking to grow in 2024.

Many people want to spend more time with their family. High school counselor Mrs. Karla McQueen is excited to spend more time with her new granddaughter. Additionally, high school math teacher Mr. Jason Dias is looking forward to his yearly family vacation and good health for him and his family. Ag instructor Mrs. Korinne Noble is ready for the warm weather to come so she can play outside at her new house with her kids. Lastly, high school English teacher Ms. Sarah Walker can't wait for her upcoming May wedding and to turn twenty-five.

There are also many people who are focused on their accomplishments at school. Junior Gabe Simbro is hoping to keep his grades up and to get to go to prom. Freshman Braelyn Williams is looking to get good grades as well. Mr. Dias hopes his geometry class will be able to memorize their equations. Freshman Dalton Taylor, however, is ready for school to get out so he can start Upward Bound. Like many others, junior Devin Strawhacker is ready for school to end and summer to begin.

Along with school, students are excited to see what another season of sports has to offer. Junior Colby McQueen is hoping to achieve all conference and all district first team honors in basketball. Sophomore Katie Libby is looking forward to the upcoming softball season and all it brings. Seventh grader Kenyon Affuso stated he is hoping to get a good deer in the next hunting season. Finally, math and elementary P.E. teacher Mrs. Taylor Wendt hopes to improve her golf game, while at the same time, gaining more sleep.

Whether it's spending time with family and friends, competing in sports, or working hard at school, we hope you reach your goals and accomplish great things in the new year.

Happy New Year

A Day in the Life: Mr. Maronde

By Wyatt Taylor
Staff Reporter

Often, we do not think of the lives teachers have outside of their jobs. We don't think about what they go home to or what they do outside of school. Let's change that.

Here is what a day in the life of Mr. Maronde looks like: Mr. Maronde wakes up in the morning and makes coffee for himself. He then makes breakfast for his family, because breakfast is the best meal of the day. Mr. Maronde enjoys a breakfast burrito with eggs, tater tots, sausage, and cheese. While breakfast is finishing up, his kids start to wake up. After his children are up, he and his wife get them ready for daycare and pack their bag.

Then, they take their children to daycare before heading to school. At school, his morning usually flies by, and his planning period is right after lunch. Next, he teaches his afternoon classes, and he attends football practice after school to serve as an assistant coach (during football season, that is). Once he is done with practice, he goes home and eats supper with his family. He also plays games with the kids until it is time for them to go to bed. Finally, he usually watches some sports or Gold Rush before he goes to bed as well.

Sounds like Mr. Maronde leads an exciting, busy life!

Flying Through Freshmen Year

By Maranda Evans
Staff Reporter

This month, the Bulldog's Bark is recognizing our freshmen class. With the first semester of the year just ending, the freshmen are finally starting to get a feel of what high school is going to look like. Hudson said, "It's a step up from junior high and better. Especially since you get to step up and be involved in a lot more things."

So far, the freshmen have gotten to join organizations such as FFA, FBLA, and FCCLA. In the recent past, the freshmen that are a part of FBLA had the opportunity to go on a field trip, which consisted of ice skating and going to Ricky Dean's. Later on this year, those that are a part of FFA and FCCLA will get to go on similar field trips as well. Along with their field trip, the freshmen involved in FFA will get to experience going and doing dairy cattle judging for contest.

As for sports, this fall the freshmen had the opportunity to be a part of the football team, golf team, cheer squad, and softball team. Currently, they are getting to experience being members of either the basketball team or the wrestling team. Aiden said, "This is one of my favorite years."

Goodluck to the freshmen with the rest of their school year. We can't wait to see what the future has in store for you all!

Third Grade Hits the School Year Running

By Marli Hilton
Staff Reporter

The third grade has hit the ground running this year. With one of the largest classes, Mrs. Shelbi Luke and Mrs. Vanessa Pappert have their hands full. Mrs. Luke's class has a total of twenty-one students including: Ava Crawford, Karli Ginther, Hyatt Groomer, Xander Hernandez, Macoy Hilton, Izabell Holtzclaw, Eli Horne, Juan Leon, Brooklyn McMillen, Amelia Poff, Olivia Pierce, Madi Redig, Rylin Rosier, Talon Sego, Molly Sidwell, Julian Slagle, Benjamin Steinhauser, Nathan Strough, Collin Tucker, Jase VanHorn, and Keine Vinzant.

Mrs. Pappert's class has twenty-one students. Her class includes: Daysha Albright, Hunter Appley, Raiden Atkison, Wyatt Clayton, Jordyn Conover, Jaxson Denney, Max Holtzclaw,

So far this year, the classes have learned to solve multiplication as well as division problems. The students were also able to research and write about famous people, symbols, or animals pertaining to Missouri during their writing class. Along with this, the students have accomplished great things in reading. For instance, they are better able to fluently read and understand books. In science class, they are learning about adaptations in different animals. Mrs. Pappert stated, "I hope to push these third graders to be very independent problem solvers by the end of the year! Each subject is becoming more challenging, and I hope to be able to prepare them to be confident in solving their problems."

Both classes are working to better themselves and each other as the year progresses. They work everyday to learn new things and to deepen their understanding in each subject. Mrs. Luke commented, "We are finally starting to get into some deeper thinking in reading, and, because they keep surprising me this year, I can't wait to see what they accomplish in this second half. It's fun to see them draw conclusions and really dive into a text." Good luck to the teachers and students in the remainder of this school year!

Wrestlers Look to Finish Season Strong

By Reagan Heyde
Staff Reporter

This month, the wrestling team is returning from Christmas break ready to improve. The first day back after break on January 4th, both the boys and girls team went to Gallatin to compete in a tri against Gallatin and Lawson. The girls team traveled to Mid Buchanan the next day and the boys wrestled at Mid Buchanan Saturday, January 6th. At Mid-Buchanan on Friday, junior Brea Jenson placed second in the girls 190 weight class. On Saturday, sophomore Vincent Smithson placed 5th in the boys 106 weight class, and sophomore Evan Gregory placed 6th in the boys 113 weight class.

Senior wrestler Peyton Hume commented on the season, "It doesn't take new wrestlers long to realize this sport is more than a physical challenge. It takes more than being physically gifted or prepared, mental toughness and determination are required to succeed in this sport. When it comes to wrestling, it is an important attribute to be able to get back up after taking a loss, or fight off of the bottom while experiencing pure exhaustion. I am beyond proud of not only the young freshman wrestlers, but also the upperclassmen that decided to try out wrestling for the first time. I will definitely be missing this sport when the season ends."

The Bulldogs competed in a tri against West Platte on January 9th, a quad in Albany on January 11th, a tri at Hamilton on January 16th, and another tri at Tarkio on January 18th. The Bulldogs only had one home meet this year on January

25, which doubles as senior night. Head Coach Jason Dias stated, "I am very proud of this year's wrestling team so far. I believe we have a handful of wrestlers that have potential to make it to the state tournament this year. Despite everybody's individual record, each wrestler has certainly improved throughout the season, and I am proud of all of their hard work."

Good luck to the Bulldog Wrestling team at districts in February.

Bella Wright, Brookelynn Robinson, Eva Cameron, Katlyn James, Trista Lager, Amelia Wallace, Lindsey Hailey, Josi Moffat, and Macie Gibson all show their excitement after Amelia's milestone.

50th Annual Stanberry Invitational

By Bella Wright
Staff Reporter

This year, the 50th Stanberry Invitational Tournament was held January 8th-13th. However, due to weather conditions, all first round games were pushed back to Wednesday and held at King City.

For the first round, Stanberry girls played at Stanberry vs. North Nodaway, and the Stanberry girls won 68-24. Senior Amelia Wallace also hit her 1,000th point in the North Nodaway game. Congratulations on the amazing accomplishment Amelia! For the second round, the girls played Thursday against King City at Stanberry. Both teams played hard, and, fortunately, the Stanberry girls came out on top, winning 40-36. Junior Trista Lager stated, "We had played King City two times before the tournament and lost, but we knew that this time we were going to work hard to beat them. When we did, it felt so good. Overall, I am very proud of the girls and how we have been playing recently, although I kind of wished that we would have been able to play in the championship game." The win against King City advanced Stanberry girls to the championship game, but, unfortunately, the game was canceled and will not be rescheduled. This technically makes the girls co-champions of the tournament.

Unfortunately, the boys only got to play one game this year because of the weather. They played Platte Valley, at Stanberry, in the first round and lost 23-58. Junior Decker Heyde was asked what his thoughts were on only getting to play one game. He stated, "It was disappointing that we only played one game."

Congratulations to both teams this year and the best of luck to them throughout the rest of their season!

NFL Recap: Weeks 15-18

By Kaiden Keough
Staff Reporter

Welcome back to the recap of the NFL. This recap is final addition before the playoffs.

Week 15

Chargers vs Raiders

During this game, Justin Herbert, the quarterback for the Chargers, was out due to a fracture to his right index finger. Without their quarterback, the Chargers were vulnerable. The Raiders took advantage of Justin being injured, and they were able to score many points. The final score of the game was Chargers: 21 and Raiders: 63. The Chargers will play the Bills next week.

Lions vs Broncos

This was a high scoring game for the Lions. Jared Goff, the quarterback for the Lions, helped his teammates bring home the victory by accumulating 5 passing touchdowns and 278 passing yards. In the end, the final score was Lions: 42 and Broncos: 17. The Lions will play the Vikings during week 16.

Texans vs Titans

This was a close game between the Texans and the Titans! Suffering from a concussion, the Texan's quarterback, CJ Stroud, was unable to join the game. He was replaced by Case Keenum. Throughout the game, Case obtained 1 passing touchdown and 229 passing yards. His performance helped lead the Texans to victory with a final score of 19 points for the Texans and 16 points for the Titans. Moving forward, the Titans will play the Seahawks during week 16.

Week 16

Lions vs Vikings

Week sixteen started out with another close game between the Lions and the Vikings. To help lead his team to victory, Jared Goff, the quarterback for the Lions, worked hard to end the game with 1 passing touchdown and 257 passing yards. Additionally, running back Jahmyr Gibbs had 2 rushing touchdowns. The final score of the game was Lions: 30 and Vikings: 24. In the future, the Lions will play the Cowboys during week 17.

Browns vs Texans

Because their usual starting quarterback, Deshaun Watson was out with an injury, Joe Flacco stepped up for the Browns during this game. Throughout the game, Joe accumulated 3 passing touchdowns and 368 passing yards. The final score was Browns: 36 and Texans: 22. The Browns will play the Jets during week 17.

Dolphins vs Cowboys

This was a close game with only two points separating the two teams. Throughout the game, Tua Tagovailoa, the quarterback of the Dolphins, accumulated 1 passing touchdown and 293 passing yards. Similarly, Dak Prescott, the quarterback for the Cowboys, was able to achieve 2 passing touchdowns and 253 passing yards. Although the Cowboys put up a fight, the game ended as a victory for the Dolphins. The final score was Cowboys: 20 and Dolphins: 22. During week 17, The Dolphins will go on to play the Ravens.

Week 17

Cardinals vs Eagles

The Eagles kicked off this game with a good start. Jalen Hurts, their quarterback, was able to obtain 3 passing touchdowns, and Julio Jones, the wide receiver for the Eagles, had 2 receiving touchdowns. Although the Eagles performed well in the beginning of the game, the Cardinals were able to have a comeback with help of their quarterback, Kyler Murray. He ended the game with 3 passing touchdowns and 232 passing yards, which helped his teammates take home the victory. The final score of the game was Cardinals: 35 and Eagles: 31. Next, the Eagles will play the Giants during week 18.

Panthers vs Jaguars

Throughout this game, the Panthers were able to accumulate many points through field goals. Their kicker ended the game after scoring fourteen points. Although the Panthers put in the effort, they were unable to score. The final score of the game was Panthers: 0 and Jags: 26. The Jags will play the Titans during week 18.

Broncos vs Chargers

Unfortunately, during this game between the Broncos and the Chargers, neither NFL team was able to score a lot of points through touchdowns. Most of the points were scored by the kickers. For example, Broncos kicker, Wil Lutz, chalked up 10 points. Overall, the final score was Broncos: 16 and Chargers: 6. In the future, the Broncos will play the Raiders during week 18.

Week 18

Texans vs Colts

This week, after suffering from a concussion, CJ Stroud was finally able to return to the NFL. Although he was out of the game for a few weeks, he came back ready to help his team win. He ended the game with 2 passing touchdowns and 264 passing yards. The final score was Texans: 23 and Colts: 19. The Texans will advance to the playoffs!

Buccaneers vs Panthers

Due to a well matched offense and defense, there weren't a lot of points on the scoreboard during the game between the Buccaneers and the Panthers. The kicker for the Buccaneers was able to score most of the points, bringing his team to victory. In the end, the final score was Buccaneers: 9 and Panthers: 0. Moving forward, the Buccaneers will advance to the playoffs with a chance to play in the Superbowl.

Lions vs Vikings

Both wishing for a chance to play in the playoffs, the Lions and the Vikings fought hard during their game against each other. The quarterback for the Lions, Jared Goff, helped his team by obtaining 2 passing touchdowns and 320 passing yards. Ultimately, the Lions took home the win. The final score was Lions: 30 and Vikings: 20. The Lions will move on to the playoffs.

Video Game Review: Noita

By Brayden Hague
Staff Reporter

Noita is a captivating and innovative roguelike game that stands out in my game library. Developed by Nolla Games, it's a unique blend of pixel art and physics-based gameplay. The game's defining feature is its procedurally generated world, where no two playthroughs are the same, leading to its dynamic and unpredictable interactions.

Players control a wizard, exploring a vast underground realm filled with dangerous creatures and hazards. The freedom to experiment with various spells and wands, combined with the reactive environment, creates an exciting and often chaotic experience. The Perma-death mechanic adds tension (Perma-Death means you can't respawn in the same world). The attention to detail in Noita is commendable, with stunning visuals and atmospheric sound design all contributing to the game's difficulty curve is challenging, but rewarding, encouraging players to learn and adapt from their mistakes.

While Noita may not be everyone's forte due to its unforgiving nature and pixelated graphics, it does cater to those searching for a fresh take on the roguelike genre. Its physics-based approach and emergent gameplay make it a standout title for those who enjoy experimenting with magic in a perilous and ever-changing world.

This month the movie review is over The Boys In The Boat. This movie is based on a true story and was originally a book before being made into a movie this year. The story takes place in 1936 during the Great Depression.

During this time, tryouts were held for the U.S. boating team. Many of the people that tried out were young men struggling during the Great Depression and needed a job. They wanted to try out for the team because, not only would they get paid, but they would also be given a place to stay. After tryouts were completed and the boating team was chosen, practices started to prepare these young men. During these practices, they put in lots of hard work, time and dedication. For example, they had to try many different seating arrangements on the boats until they finally found which arrangement worked best for them. After practicing for some time, competitions began. The team competed in a total of 7 races before making it to the Olympics. Once they made it to the Olympics, (held in Berlin, Germany) they competed against fourteen other teams from different countries. When the race started, the team stayed towards the back keeping a steady pace. At the halfway mark, they finally kicked into gear. Next thing you know, they are passing everyone and are in the top three. Then, they make it to second and are neck and neck with Germany in the final stretch. After some time, they take the lead, and reach the finish line. The United States rowing team won the 1936 Olympics.

The Boys in the Boat*

With all of this being said, this movie is a good choice for those who love history. It is very informational and taught me a lot about the United States 1936 rowing team. Nevertheless, I wouldn't say this film was really for me because it took too long to reach the action scenes for my liking. Overall, I would rate this movie a 5/10.

Artist of the Month

By Kaiden Keough
Staff Reporter

This month's Artists Of The Month are seniors Tyrell Middleton and Jayden Gust. If you have walked through the hallway by the library and art room, you may have noticed the ceiling tiles are decorated with former students' artwork. In order to decorate a ceiling tile, students need to be a senior in high school and need to be enrolled in an art class.

To decorate his tile, Tyrell Middleton drew himself with the Scooby-Doo gang in front of the Mystery Machine. Jayden Gust created a tile with a colorful and creative background. Near the bottom of the tile, she wrote the words, "Thank you guys for everything." Their artistic skills are very impressive, and both students deserve a round of applause for their hard work.

Take a stroll down the art hallway to see the new ceiling tile additions and other student's artwork decorating the walls!

Tyrell Middleton displays his Scooby Doo ceiling tile.

Jayden Gust give us a "thumbs up" on her detailed ceiling tile.
