

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

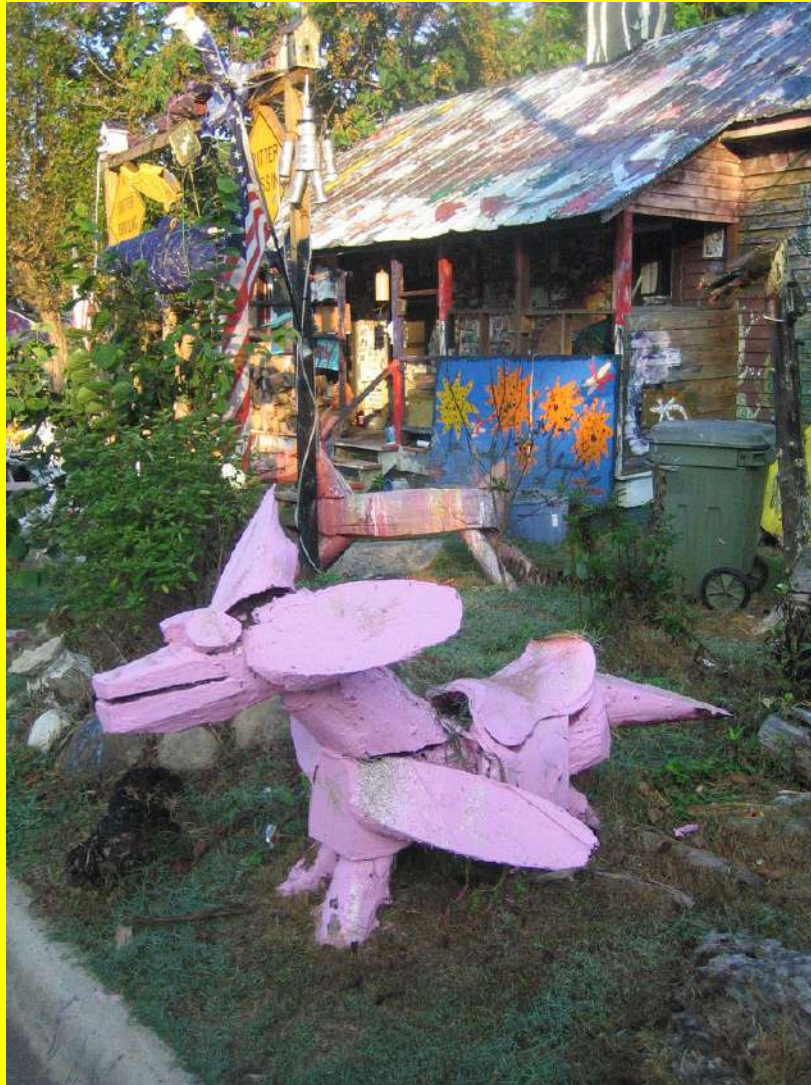

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina. He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

Today's Artist: Clyde Jones

Clyde Jones is a self taught artist from Bynum, North Carolina.

He said that the shapes of trees in the woods inspired him to change them into animals. He refuses to sell his creations but will give them to random children, friends and charity auctions.

