

Create your own board game. Draw out and color a game board (if you don't have large paper, cut open and flatten a paper grocery bag), figure out what objects you can use for game pieces and write up your own rules. If you don't know where to start, think of Candyland and just make up your own theme.