

Question 1:

Why did Charity write an insulting post about Natalie on the social media site?

- ☐ It made Charity feel good about herself when everyone laughed.
- ☐ Charity was angry at Natalie for ending their friendship.
- ☐ Charity was hurt that she was not invited to Natalie's birthday party.
- ☐ The post was true, so Charity wanted everyone to know.

Question 2:

What best sums up the theme of "Cyber Bully"?

- ☐ Cruelty does not go unpunished.
- ☐ Stones break bones, but words can't hurt.
- ☐ Be true to yourself.
- ☐ Lies spin tangled webs.

Question 3:

How do Charity and Tally behave differently in this story?

- ☐ Tally starts everything by writing on a social media site about Natalie, while Charity simply lets it happen.
- ☐ Tally thinks the lie about Natalie is funny at first, while Charity does not.
- ☐ Tally helps post a picture of Natalie crying on the internet.
- ☐ Tally never shows feelings of guilt over her actions toward Natalie.

Question 4:

Read the passage below.

Tally started laughing like a hyena might over a grisly kill. I'm not sure why, even now with the benefit of hindsight, but I joined her. We laughed at the comment, we laughed at Natalie, we laughed until our sides ached and our judgement was altered.

What does Charity mean by, even now with the benefit of hindsight?

- ☐ Though she's now had time to think about it, she still can't figure out why she laughed, too.
- ☐ Though she now has better vision than before, she still doesn't know what she saw that was so funny.
- ☐ Though she is now older and more mature, she still can't figure out her motives for hurting Natalie.
- ☐ Even though she now benefits from being popular, she still doesn't know why she joined Tally.

Question 5:

How would our view of the main character change if the story did not include chapter 4?

- ☐ We would better understand her motivations for insulting Natalie.
- ☐ We would not know how serious she was about righting her wrongs.
- ☐ We would not think she felt bad about the things she did to Natalie.
- ☐ We would not know why she chose to be friends with Tally.

What is the most likely change we would notice if the story was told in third person?

- ☐ We would not know how the story ultimately concluded.
- ☐ We would not know everything that Tally and Charity did to Natalie.
- ☐ We would not know Natalie's reaction to Charity and Tally's bullying.
- ☐ We would not know how guilty Charity felt while she was bullying Natalie.

Question 7:

What part of the story does this image best represent?

- ☐ Charity journals her feelings so that she can help others in her position.
- ☐ Charity writes a message that manages to ruin Natalie's life.
- ☐ Charity reluctantly helps Tally post a picture on the internet of Natalie crying.
