Artist Info

A tick in the head. A skeleton in the closet. A two headed snake. My work tends to entail touches of dark humor and sense of story. Life is often funny in retrospect, or funny if it is not us who are affected; we are subject to the roll of the dice and the chances of what we are exposed to.

Memories are a sort of composite, the poop of life if you will, and are biased/ distorted with the aid of Father Time.

Further considering the funny workings of our brains, obscurities are conditional to the sentiments of the individual, and that is a sensitivity that I like to activate with my artwork. Whether it is a pleasant tickle or a sharp scratch is dependent upon the viewers sensibilities, which is rather more controlled by the individuals senses rather than absolutely controlled by the individuals, themselves.
