

Day 6: Panoramic Cloning

"Here's a fun trick to try with family or friends. Just take a panoramic photo using your smartphone. Have somebody run around behind you right after the camera passes and hold still when it comes around again. Keep trying! Practice makes perfect.

To get started you will need: You, a phone with a panoramic option, and a few willing friends to model for you. Or you can have your mom take one of you!

- 1. Start your pan-shot moving left or right, have someone stand in frame completely still (very important!) with a creative pose or a smile, whichever you prefer.
- 2. As you begin moving the camera, or panning, make sure to keep the phone at a consistent height. As the person just leaves the frame, freezing your movement, have your friend exit, making sure they stay out of the camera's view.
- 3. Have your friend take hold of the camera while continuing to keep it stable and without really moving it too much. It needs to stay in the exact position where it stopped.
- 4. Move just off frame in the direction of the pan, Strike your Pose! and hold completely still.
- 5. Have your friend pan over you until you're off frame.
- 6. Repeat the process until the panoramic is complete. See how many times you can fit yourself or your friends in the shot!
- Tip: It is best to try this technique with a static background. Some great locations include walls, cliffs, skylines, or anything that moves minimally.
