

Floral Portraits

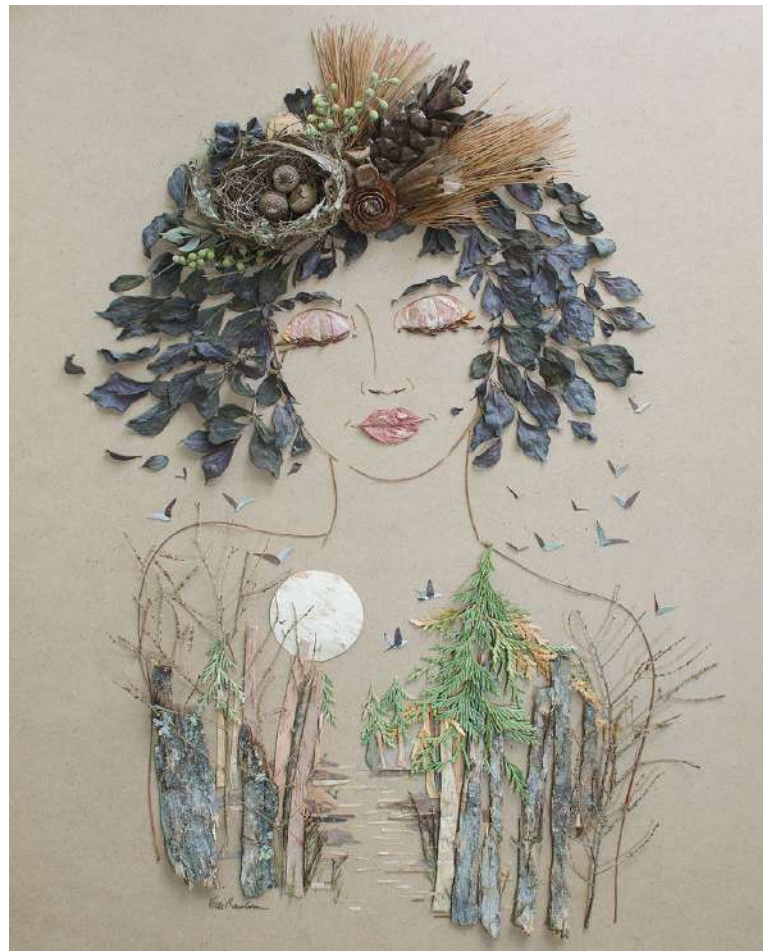

Found Object Portraits

With a love of color and an approach inspired by nature, a delightful duo of artists known as Sister Golden designs and crafts gorgeous goodies and pieces of art.

Like the exquisite and enchanting floral art portraits by Vicki Rawlins, one half of the creative pair. -By Kelly Richman-Abdou

To Rawlins, the process behind each plant-y portrait is just as meaningful as the finished product.

“The actual act of creating each piece, for me, is therapeutic, spending lots of time outside walking and foraging, truly in the moment, my eyes scanning every square inch of my surroundings,” she elaborates.

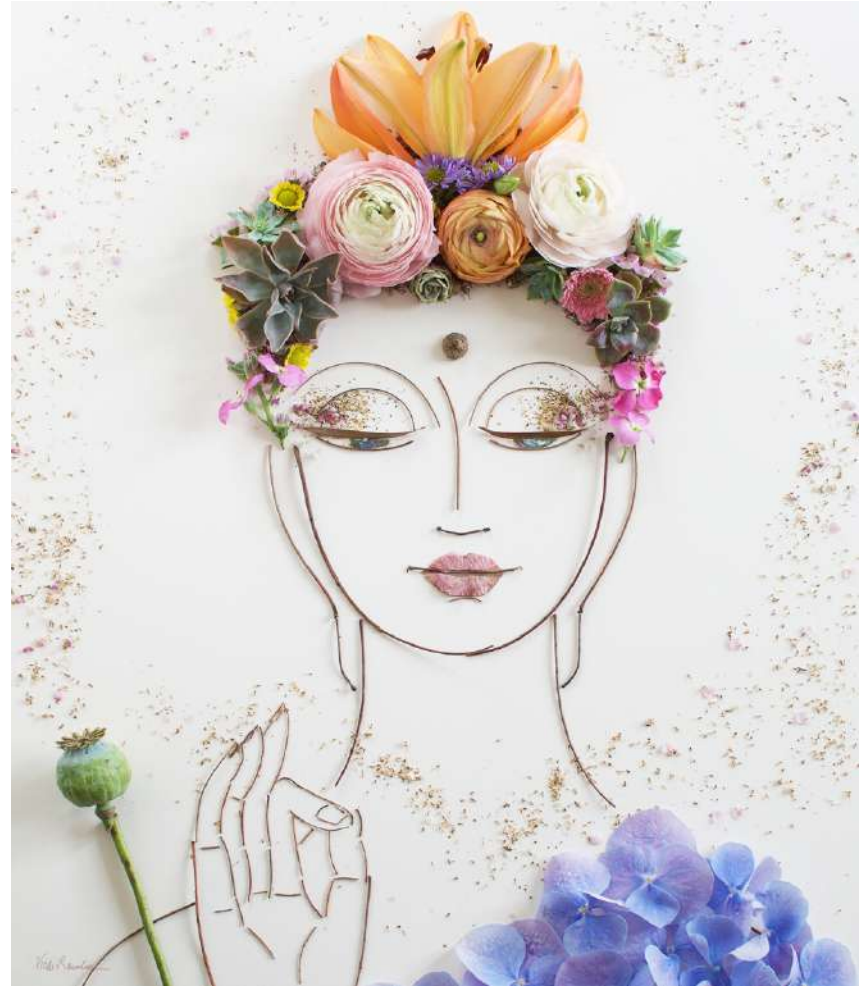

“A fallen leaf goes into the bag, later it may become an eyebrow or dog ear.

I pick up thin twigs, hoping they'll work as a cheekbone or chin. The possibilities seem endless!”

Justina Blakeney and Jungalow have a blog, design studio + shop that they started in 2009 to help people bring good vibes home.

“We believe that good design increases quality of life. We believe in the healing power of plants, color, fresh air and good light. We believe that creativity, not wealth, is the key to having an amazing home. Decorate wild!”

“I may be a bit addicted to making these silly faces out of leaves and flowers.”

– Justina Blakeney

I think I'm having a little too much fun with #facethefoliage.

-Jungalow

Collecting nature for your nature portrait collage

Enjoy collecting natural materials and chatting to them about the materials you find.

<https://blog.jungalow.com/2014/05/face-the-foliage-2.html>

<https://mothernatured.com/printables/nature-craft-collage-boy-and-girl-head-printable/>

<https://mymodernmet.com/sister-golden-floral-art-illustrations/>