Unit Focus	Heroes and Quests “If a journey doesn’t have something to teach you about yourself, then what kind of journey is it?” - Kira Salak	The Struggle for Freedom “If there is no struggle, there is no progress.” - Frederick Douglass	A Matter of Life or Death “To endure what is unendurable is true endurance.” - Japanese proverb	The Bonds Between Us “The welfare of each of us is dependent fundamentally upon the welfare of all of us.” - Theodore Roosevelt

End of Unit Performance Task	LITERARY ESSAY This unit explores the concept of the journey as an act of traveling as well as a personal passage or transformation. Recall the collection quotation from Kira Salak: “If a journey doesn’t have something to teach you about yourself, then what kind of journey is it?” Using The Odyssey and two other texts from this collection, consider Salak’s perspective on travel. What compels characters or real people to set off on a journey - physical, mental, or spiritual - and what do they learn from their experiences? Synthesize your ideas in an analytical essay. Use evidence from the texts and from additional sources to support your opinions.	RESEARCH Using a minimum of four credible sources, write a source-based expository research paper about a historical figure who embodies the key aspects of the unit’s essential question ( What are different ways that we can be civically engaged to create a more just society? ). In addition, be sure to adhere to MLA guidelines for format, internal citations, and works cited page. (See Task 2 of ELA Regents for specific requirements and rubric).	ARGUMENT This unit explores how people cope with situations of extreme hardship and danger - who survives, who doesn’t, and why. Look back at Fahrenheit 451 , and at the other texts in the unit. Based on evidence from at least three selections (including Fahrenheit 451 ), write an argument that explains if it is necessary to be selfish in order to survive? Synthesize your ideas by writing an argument in support of your claim.	NARRATIVE The texts in this unit focus on our connections to family, friends, pets, and community. Look back at Notes of a Native Son , the short stories, and poetry you have read in this unit. How do these texts use narrative techniques to explore interpersonal connections? Demonstrate your understanding of these techniques by writing a narrative that shows how a character or characters connect with others.
