A cinematic still from the movie "The Secret Garden" showing three children running through a dark, rainy night towards a large, old, and somewhat dilapidated house. The house has a dark, shingled roof and wooden siding. Two windows on the upper floor are lit with a warm, yellow light. The central entrance is an arched doorway that glows with a bright, golden light, drawing the children towards it. The children, a boy in a white shirt and red cape, a boy in a striped shirt, and a girl in a blue dress, are running on a wet, reflective surface. The scene is framed by the dark, gnarled trunks of large trees on either side, and the overall atmosphere is mysterious and magical.
