Halloween Rules—Using Images & CSS

Purpose: To demonstrate ability to use images on a web page

Instructions:

1. Create a simple web page using html code. Format each line with html code.

2. Create a title: Halloween Rules

3. Follow all the stated formatting features as noted on this page and the following guidelines:

    1. Replace the words that are ALL CAPS AND BOLD with an actual image of the candy bar name. For example: delete the word WHOPPERS and put a picture of the candy like the one shown here. All images should easily display the candy name.

    2. Save all images into your folder. Use the entire path with linking the image.

    3. Add the source for each image to the ALT tag for the image.

    4. Adjust the height or width of each image to fit your page.

    5. Add a border to at least 3 images.

    6. Choose a font, text color, and size for your document. Use an embedded CSS to control these elements.

    7. Include a blank line on your web site as noted on the page below

4. Include author statement with name and date that is right aligned.

5. Save this web page in your folder as candy bar quotes.

6. When you finish, print your work only from the actual web page view as 2 PAGES per sheet.

Poem source: http://www.teachers.net/gazette/SEP00/sylvia.html

A Halloween CANDY message for kids

WHATCHAMACALLIT, Halloween is coming soon. Here are a few rules for happy haunting.

1. You may want to wear a funny costume that will make people SNICKER. Some of you might want to dress up like a man from MARS or perhaps even a KITKAT. Just be sure that you wear a costume that allows you to see clearly.

2. Take an adult with you to help you cross the ROCKY ROAD. Perhaps your SUGAR DADDY will come along.

3. Be polite, don't act like NERDS and drive people BONKERS. Be a little SWEET-TARTS and say "thank you."

4. Take a flashlight along to light your MILKY WAY then you won't fall and CRUNCH or KRACKEL your body into 100 GRAND pieces.

5. When you have finally arrived back home with all your loot, you will realize you have had a big PAYDAY. You will be in a state of complete ALMOND JOY. Before you eat your goodies, have a BIG HUNK of an adult check your treats.

HUGS AND KISSES, (Use the candies)

The great pumpkin (Use pumpkin candies.)