June 2014

Hello Coffin School Families,

I hope this finds all of you well.

The last week of school - hard to imagine, isn't it? In addition to the excitement of summer ahead, this is also a time of mixed emotions. Each and every one of our children has made significant gains in their learning and the progress from the beginning of the year is phenomenal. There is a palpable sense of pride at Coffin School that one can sense in both the students and the adults.

At the same time, we'll be saying 'goodbye' to many of our first and second grade friends and families as they head off to another school. One of the things I love about Coffin Elementary School is that even though almost 50% of our population changes every year, the sense of community and fellowship is a constant. This is a credit to our dedicated staff and to all of you – our Coffin School families – who make that effort to stay actively involved in your children's school experience. Thank you!

On a personal note, I recently came across this photo of my children, Joseph and Camila, walking off to school on their first day of Kindergarten. On Friday they'll "graduate" from fifth grade and even though I know it's a bit of a cliché, the years really seem to have passed by quickly. For those of you who are leaving Coffin, we trust your brief time here has been positive. For those of you who are returning next year, we'll look forward to seeing you in September and will count on your help in welcoming our newest students and families while exemplifying The Coffin Way!

Here's hoping that all of us find many moments over the coming months to enjoy precious time together with families and loved ones. Wishing you a safe, relaxing and enjoyable summer vacation.

Thanks for a great year!
