

Juxtaposition

Placing together opposite or contrasting images. Used to surprise the viewer, set up a comparison, or make a statement.

To create a collage that shows juxtaposition, glue at least one object onto a background where it doesn't belong. The object must look strange and out-of-place.

Want your collage to make a statement? Think about why what makes an object look out of place. That contrast is what gets the message across.

Examples:

- A tree growing out of a garbage can shows how we trash our environment.
- A child's head on a grownup's body in an office shows how kids grow up too fast in our culture.

Project:

Start with 18" x 24" paper. Grid your collage and draw it lightly.

Choose one pair of complementary colors (green/red, blue/orange, purple/yellow).

Mix these colors with each other and with white to paint the picture.

The goal is to match the values in the picture. Your colors will not look realistic and that's okay!

Juxtaposition

Placing together opposite or contrasting images. Used to surprise the viewer, set up a comparison, or make a statement.

To create a collage that shows juxtaposition, glue at least one object onto a background where it doesn't belong. The object must look strange and out-of-place.

Want your collage to make a statement? Think about why what makes an object look out of place. That contrast is what gets the message across.

Examples:

- A tree growing out of a garbage can shows how we trash our environment.
- A child's head on a grownup's body in an office shows how kids grow up too fast in our culture.

Project:

Start with 18" x 24" paper. Grid your collage and draw it lightly.

Choose one pair of complementary colors (green/red, purple/yellow).

Mix these colors with each other and with white to paint the picture.

The goal is to match the values in the picture. Your colors will not look realistic and that's okay!

Juxtaposition

Placing together opposite or contrasting images. Used to surprise the viewer, set up a comparison, or make a statement.

To create a collage that shows juxtaposition, glue at least one object onto a background where it doesn't belong. The object must look strange and out-of-place.

Want your collage to make a statement? Think about why what makes an object look out of place. That contrast is what gets the message across.

Examples:

- A tree growing out of a garbage can shows how we trash our environment.
- A child's head on a grownup's body in an office shows how kids grow up too fast in our culture.

Project:

Start with 18" x 24" paper. Grid your collage and draw it lightly.

Choose one pair of complementary colors (green/red, purple/yellow).

Mix these colors with each other and with white to paint the picture.

The goal is to match the values in the picture. Your colors will not look realistic and that's okay!

