Principal's Corner

Well, it's that time of year again when we have to bid farewell to another outstanding group of seniors. I looked up the word "bittersweet" the other day because that is the word that comes to my mind as we approach graduation. One definition I read of "bittersweet" was "expressing contrasting emotions of sadness and happiness."

So there it is, in a simple word. Sadness because we're losing such an outstanding bunch of kids, and happiness because each and every one of them has the potential to make such an exceptionally positive mark in the world.

As I have said about past senior classes, when I look at the list of these 12 graduating seniors, I see musicians, athletes, scholars, free-spirits, comedians, philosophers - I could go on and on. When I signed on here at Ten Sleep, most of these kids were in the 8th grade. I've had the privilege to watch them grow and mature. I've seen them stumble and get right back up. I've seen them happy and sad and everything in between.

And I can honestly say, I've never regretted a minute of it. Like the ol' cowboy said when bidding his friend farewell, "I rode with you, I have no complaints." Well, Madison, Devon, Madisyn, Justyne, Riley, Allison, Beau, Kathleen, Felicity, Christopher, Troy, and Ka Lena: I rode with you, and not only do I have no complaints, it's been an honor and a privilege.

Wishing nothing but the best,
Mr. Budmayr

How to handle situations that often result in school absences

Your child woke up late and can't get going. He has a big test today and forgot to study for it last night. Things like this happen all the time. And parents sometimes wonder if missing a day of school here and there is really a big deal.

The answer is yes. Attending school regularly is important—right up to the very last day.

Here are a few of the top reasons kids miss school and some ways to prevent those absences:

1. Your child feels sick. If he doesn't have a fever and isn't showing signs of illness (vomiting, coughing, diarrhea), he can probably go to school. If you do keep him home, don't make it a vacation. A child who is too sick to go to school is too sick to watch TV, text friends or play on the computer.
2. Your child won't get up. Make his bedtime earlier. Help him get ready for school the night before.
3. He isn't prepared. Forgetting to study for a test and running out of time to complete a project are not valid excuses for missing school. Expect your child to plan ahead and let him face the consequences when he doesn't.
4. Your child is worried. Talk with him. Is he struggling in a class? Is a classmate bothering him at school? Talk with the teacher.

Offer prompts to encourage your child to write this summer

It's important for your child to keep up her writing skills over the summer. Journaling is a great way for her to do this. Share a few of these writing prompts:

- If you could solve any problem in the world, what would it be?
- Write about three values that are important to your family.
- Write a poem about your favorite activity or hobby.
- Write about the best vacation you ever took.
- Would you rather jump out of a plane or go scuba diving? Why?
- Write about a time when someone helped you.
- Write a poem about love and what it means to you.
- Write about a rule at school or at home that you'd like to replace.
- Write about your favorite TV show. What do you like about it?
- How would your best friend describe you?
- What is your favorite way to be creative?
- Why should we give respect to our elders?
- Write about the most important thing in your life.
- If you could live inside any video game, which would you choose?
- What is your favorite thing about yourself?
- Write about a goal you accomplished recently.

Encourage your teen to exercise and stay healthy this summer

Does your teen think she is going to sleep all day, every day during summer break? Don't let her waste her summer! Encourage your teen to get some exercise. It only takes 21 days for a habit to form—and daily exercise is a great habit to have. Teens who exercise regularly:

- Earn better grades.
- Are less likely to become overweight.
- Have stronger bones and muscles.
- Sleep better than those who don't exercise regularly.
- Have higher self-esteem.
- Are less stressed and better able to handle problems.

The key is to make exercise fun. Your teen doesn't have to run nine miles every day (unless she really enjoys running). She can split her workout time into shorter bursts. Maybe she'd prefer to walk for 15 minutes in the morning and swim at the local pool for 30 minutes later in the day. Or maybe your teen and her friends would like to join a summer sports league. Then they'd experience the benefits of exercising their bodies and their social skills at the same time.

And while your teen is exercising, make sure she has the proper fuel for her body. The summer is a great time to incorporate water, fresh fruits and vegetables into her diet.

Wyoming State Art Symposium 2017

Ten Sleep Pioneers fended very well at the 49th annual State Art Symposium. I'm so proud of these students! They have worked hard and were awarded very well for their efforts. This year there were over 4200 entries and 80 schools participating in the celebration of art. This is not a competition between schools, but simply a state art show to showcase the young artist we have in this state.

There were roughly 1,060 ribbons given out by all the art teachers, with a possible 14 ribbons given by each teacher. 25 2 Dimensional Congressional awards, 20 3 Dimensional Artistic Discovery Awards and 40 First Lady Awards. Ten Sleep received 21 blue ribbons from the teachers selections. Winners of Blue ribbons are: Justyn Dustin, 4 Kinley Erickson, 2 Kelli Holiday, 2 Lee Whitlock, 9 Katon Fox, 2 Troy Taylor, 1 Robby Crawford, 1 and Madisyn Boltz, 1. Justyn Dustin, Kelli Holiday, Lee Whitlock each won 3D Artistic Discovery awards. There were only 20 of these awards in approximately 2500 3D entries! These pieces are on display in the State Capitol throughout the year.

Those receiving First Lady Awards included Lee Whitlock with 3 and Justyn Dustin with 1. There were only 40 of these given out of approximately 4200 entries! These pieces will be on display in the Governor's Mansion through spring of 2018. The students work is on display in the showcase in the hall by the lunch room. Please come and check out these amazing talents. Art Class Motto: "Art Be Beddy, Beddy Good To Me!"
